HANDS OFF! ILLINOIS WARNS

ANTI-GERMAN RIOTS IN POLAND ANGER BERLIN

Envoy Tells Warsaw to End Disorders.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 10. — The German minister to Warsaw today lodged a strong protest with the Polish government against "anti-German excesses at Lodz." The protest followed riots in the Polish city yesterday when Jews stoned the German consulate and other groups attacked a German newspaper, a German school, and a German library.

The German minister demanded punishment for the ringleader of the rioters and protection of German buildings.

The German press today published long reports of anti-German demonstrations at Lodz and Warsaw, stirring up great waves of indignation throughout the entire country.

Polish Plead to League.

The Polish minorities at Oppoli [Oppeln], Upper Silesia, sent a message to the league of nations demanding an extraordinary session in view of alleged "persecution of Poles."

Tomorrow's Boersen-Courier and other German newspapers warn Poland "against agitation of the anti-German boycott which may prove disastrous for more than the economic progress desired by Germany and other European nations."

Meanwhile, the German government began the Easter holiday. Before leaving for his retreat in the Bavarian mountains, Chancellor Adolf Hitler signed the new Aryan civil service law, besides revising the earlier regulation on the admission of Jewish attorneys to practice in courts of law. The decree originally disbarred practically all Jews. Under the new ruling, Jewish lawyers who practiced in Germany before the world war, Jewish war veterans, and sons and fathers of Jews killed in the world war may continue to practice.

1,100 Readmitted in Berlin.

As a result, almost 1,100 Jewish lawyers are readmitted to practice in Berlin alone. They will outnumber gentile lawyers by 100. No lawyer who has connections with the communist party is allowed at the bar. The admission of Jewish lawyers to the bar may be canceled until September.

At Cologne today Jewish cattle dealers were barred from the cattle market when Nazi storm troopers blocked the gates after an announcement had been posted which read, "Jewish cattle dealers are barred from the slaughter house."

Proposes to Merge Parties.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, April 10.—An indication of the completeness with which Chancellor Hitler is capturing Germany was furnished today by a proposal put before the German People's party to dissolve it as such and enroll its membership in the National Socialist party. This was made by the vice chairman of the reichstag, Dr. Otto Hugo, and will be considered at a future meeting of the party's executive committee. The People's party was founded by the late Gustav Stresemann in 1918.

Meanwhile the first public protest against the suffering inflicted upon certain classes of public servants and professional men was made by the archbishops of Cologne and Paderborn, with whom the bishop of Osnabruck associated himself.

"We pray that God may bless the destinies of the sorely tried German people so that He may take hate and dissensions from them and restore to them welfare and unity and a commensurate place among the peoples of the earth," their manifesto said.

Row Over Control of Art.

BERLIN, April 10.—(AP)—Arising out of recent displacements by Nazi authorities of prominent artists, there has been an interesting correspondence between Wilhelm Fuertwaengler and Dr. Joseph Goebbels, German minister of propaganda, on the control of art under the new régime. The text of the letters was made public tonight.

Fuertwaengler, an orchestra conductor, wrote, among other things, that he could only differentiate between good and bad art, irrespective of whether the artist was a Jew or a gentile.

"One cannot ration music like bread and potatoes," the conductor asserted. "Quality alone is vital. Ejecting genuine artists will result in sure harm to the country's cultural life.

Asks Hearing for "Exiles."

"Hence, men like Bruno Walter, Otto Klemperer, and Max Reinhardt should be given a hearing. I appeal to you in the name of German art to avoid irreparable damage now being done."

[Bruno Walter, an orchestra conductor, was barred under the Nazi

WHAT! NO BEER? CONFLICT RAGES IN THE SUBURBS

Highland Pk. Crowd Boos Dry Edict.

News of Beer

While several of Chicago's suburbs sought a way out of the dry entanglements created by old charters, the day's other developments in the beer situation were:

Constitutional convention of Michigan, first state to act, voted 99 to 1 for abolition of 18th amendment. Details on page 6.

Chicago faced a beer shortage and gangsters, taking advantage of conditions, made first open bid for share of profits in new industry. Page 6.

Joe Saltis, former beer gang chief, was reported behind plan for reopening old Thornton brewery. Page 6.

Battles raged last night in three Chicago suburbs over the sale of beer, with representatives of the populace in each case demanding that they be allowed to buy and sell the legal beverage and with their officials and civic leaders trying to explain that local laws made sales impossible.

In Highland Park the controversy reached a point where 150 citizens booed the corporation counsel, Ernest Gail. Mr. Gail retorted that they seemed to him to be a "pack of hoodlums and a mob." His remark was met by cries of: "We're American citizens demanding our rights."

Bishop for Evanston Ban.

Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, a resident of Evanston and a trustee of Northwestern university, urged a study of the Northwestern university charter to determine whether it prevents the sale of 3.2 beer in Evanston. He made it plain that he did not wish the vending of beer permitted in the city.

In Oak Park the village attorney, Fred W. Pringle, stood firm in a legal opinion that the village charter made not only the sale but even the gift of beer illegal. Merchants protested that they were being deprived of legitimate revenues by repressive laws dating back to 1876.

150 Demand Their Brew.

Highland Park's government has been adamant in its refusal to meet beer halfway. Its stores and restaurants may not sell it and three agents who tried to deal directly with residents have been arrested. Last night the 150 went before the city commissioners and demanded that an ordinance be passed at once to remedy these conditions.

Corporation Counsel Gail, called on by Mayor E. B. Metzel for an opinion, asserted that the city operated under a charter of 1869 which gave the commissioners no power to pass a beer law. He said that the legislature would first have to pass an enabling act. His reasoning was disputed by an attorney, Leonard M. Rieser, who declared Highland Park was not operating under the 1869 charter but under one of 1875 that permitted beer ordinances.

Charge 3.2 Bootlegging.

Other protesting citizens made speeches, declaring that beer was being bootlegged into Highland Park homes while local merchants were not permitted to sell it. It was pointed out that President Roosevelt was making good on his promises and that the sale of brew would reduce law violations.

Then Mayor Metzel said the matter would be laid over for further study and conferences of legal experts. At this the storm broke. Commissioner Robert Greenslade, siding with the crowd, demanded action. The jeers rose and the corporation counsel made his remark about the mob. Mr. Greenslade demanded to know whether he was included and Mr. Gail said he hoped Mr. Greenslade didn't belong with a mob. The commissioner then reprimanded the corporation counsel for speaking as he did to petitioners.

As the crowd broke up there were cheers for Greenslade.

Bishop Raises Charter Issue.

Bishop Stewart, who described himself as "dry, but not fanatically dry," said that the Northwestern university charter was causing considerable argument. It prohibits the sale of liquors within four miles of the campus. Whether 3.2 per cent brew, declared nonintoxicating by congress, comes under the charter prohibition is a moot question.

"We should have a legal interpretation of the prohibitory paragraph of the charter," said the bishop. "My

British Reveal Terror Acts of Soviet Police

LONDON, April 10.—(AP)—A dramatic account of the G. P. U. [Russian secret police] method of handling British prisoners accused of espionage and sabotage was contained in a second white paper issued tonight. The paper set forth further telegraphic and telephonic communications between British diplomatic officials in Moscow and the foreign office.

One telegram, mentioning "a typical example of G. P. U. methods," said that last October John Cushny, one of the Britons now facing trial, was approached and requested to do certain work for the soviet unknown to his company.

Offered $250 Month Bribe.

"He was offered $250 a month but refused, although approached on several occasions," the telegram said. "In November a Russian woman was sent for by the authorities and instructed to seduce Monkhouse and persuade him to do this work. She refused."

(Alan Monkhouse, also a Britain, is Moscow director of the Metropolitan-Vickers Electrical Equipment company. All of the six British subjects involved in the sabotage case in Russia are affiliated with this company.)

Another message related that Monkhouse was puzzled and disturbed by the apparent "voluminous confessions" made by W. H. Thornton, another of the technicians.

Prisoner "Worn Out."

Monkhouse advanced the possible explanation that "in his present state of nerves he has broken down and made a false confession under well known forms of G. P. U. pressure, such as a threat of consequences either for himself or for Mme. Kutosova and an offer of release if the full confession were made, or a threat of exposure to the world of his alleged intimate relations with Mme. Kutosova, who is a 40 year old secretary of the company."

Another cablegram said:

"Thornton is worn out and it is not easy to get a connected story from him. He was interrogated once 21 hours without a break, with a strong current of menacing hints and occasional suggestions of lucrative employment in return for satisfactory answers. He found the suspense of waiting for his next summons and the perpetual tramping up and down stairs in a heavy coat to be most exhausting."

Confronted by Woman.

Another message told of Thornton being confronted by Mme. Kutosova, who is described as a "normally able and intelligent woman."

"She was in a pitiable state of terror," the message said, "and like other Russians with whom Thornton was confronted, after initial hesitation she reeled off her accusation mechanically and in an unnatural voice as if by heart. Thornton repudiated it entirely."

"Thornton also recalls," another message said, "that at his confrontation with MacDonald on April 4 his amazement at MacDonald's statements began to embarrass the latter, whereupon the examiners made Thornton sit with his back to MacDonald for the remainder of the confrontation. He says MacDonald looked awful."

W. H. MacDonald is another of the accused Britons.

Three Drifting on Ice Cake in Lake Superior

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 10.—[Special.]—Three fishermen were adrift tonight on ice floes in Whitefish bay, Lake Superior, while would-be rescuers were striving, almost helplessly, to reach them.

Little hope exists that they will be found before dawn tomorrow. At that time, according to plans made late tonight, the assistance of three Canadian forestry planes will be asked. The planes are built for lake duty.

Carried Away on Ice.

The men on the floes are Ellie and Charles Baker, brothers, and Harold Beach, all between 25 and 30 years of age. They were fishing with four other men a half mile off Iroquois point when, about 6 o'clock this evening, the ice broke, separating them from the mainland. The four men were near the break, and leaped safely across the widening gap. The Bakers and Beach could not make it.

Then occurred a second break in the ice which left the brothers on a floe about two miles square and Beach on another floe much smaller. Blown by a southeast wind, they began drifting northwestward into the open bay.

Help was summoned from other fishermen in the sparsely settled region, but rescuers could do nothing but watch the three men drift farther away. When last seen with binoculars they were four miles out. A thunderstorm added to their danger.

Coast Guard to Rescue.

The coast guard station here was notified and a crew left immediately for Iroquois point, which is thirty miles away. They loaded a surf boat on a truck and started out on the roads, which at this time of the year are treacherous. It was doubtful whether the truck could get through with the boat and crew. And, according to fishermen, even if the surf boat reached Iroquois point the thick ice floes which are now breaking up may prevent its use.

NAB 3 IN RAID; RECOVER STOLEN DOGS WORTH $4,000

Two champion Pekinese dogs which were stolen from the kennels of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lunt, Schiller Park, last week, were recovered by police yesterday in a raid on a flat at 1201 Shelto street.

Three men were arrested, and two of them—Anthony Laraia and Anthony Zogatta, each 20 years old—were later identified by the Lunts as two of the robbers who threatened them with guns and took the animals. The third man seized was Joseph Guido, 27 years old, tenant of the flat where the raid was made.

The dogs recovered were Romance of Loring and Ki Chi Tao, each valued at $2,000. Two other dogs were found in the flat, but police have not yet identified their owners. The Lunts are still seeking four other Pekinese and two chow dogs taken in the robbery.

Orders Banks to Pay Loss of Harriman

New York, April 10.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin was revealed today in the rôle of the wielder of a "big stick" against the New York clearing house, composed of twenty of the biggest banks in New York. He has told the clearing house banks, in diplomatic language, that they must keep their word and make good the deposits of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company, now in the hands of a federal conservator. The pressure brought by Mr. Woodin, it is expected, will cost the clearing house banks around $6,000,000.

The firm stand taken by the new secretary of the treasury became known simultaneously with the arraignment in court today of Joseph W. Harriman, former chairman and former president of the bank bearing his name. Mr. Harriman, ill since his arrest, was taken into court in a wheel chair.

False Entries Charged.

The indictment charges that he caused false entries to be made in the bank's books, covering up the use of $1,713,225 of the depositors' money for speculation in the bank's stock. Mr. Harriman was held in $25,000 bail for trial April 24, but his attorney insisted that the banker's health will not permit such an early ordeal.

The basis of the Harriman's claim against the clearing house, upon which Secretary Woodin is relying, goes back to July of last year, when irregularities in the bank's affairs were first discovered by national bank examiners. At that time, it is stated by bankers and others conversant with the affair, the clearing house committee, then under the chairmanship of Charles S. McCain, chairman of the board of the Chase National bank, put Harvey F. Cooper into the bank as president.

Clearing House Promises.

In the following month the clearing house committee wrote to the controller of the currency, assuring him of the association's support for its member, the Harriman bank. Last February the committee, now under the chairmanship of George W. Davison, chairman of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, is stated to have reiterated this stand in writing to the controller.

When the Harriman bank went into the hands of a conservator Mr. Woodin sent letters to all the member banks of the clearing house, as well as to the chairman, politely advising them of the pledge to back up the Harriman bank, and asked them, in less polite language, what they intended to do about it.

Next Mr. Woodin went into conference with Gov. George L. Harrison of the federal reserve bank; Mr. Cooper, the conservator of the Harriman bank, and Harvey D. Gibson, president of the Manufacturers' Trust company. Out of this meeting came last night's agreement of the Manufacturers' Trust to take over the assets of the Harriman bank and pay the depositors in full—an amount of $24,679,000.

Six Millions Short.

Now it develops that the quick assets will fall some $6,000,000 short, and Mr. Woodin is looking to the clearing house to make good. The procedure, it is understood, will be for the Manufacturers' Trust to borrow from the Reconstruction Finance corporation whatever is needed to pay in full, giving the claim of the Harriman bank against the clearing house as security. The secretary of the treasury will undertake to see that the clearing house makes good.

WEDS MAN SHE SUED OVER AUTO CRASH INJURIES

A romance which began with an automobile collision in Lincoln park on July 1, 1932, was disclosed yesterday when the suit of Mrs. Virginia Moffett, who was injured in the accident, against G. Herbert Warner, 629 Deming place, an occupant of the other automobile, was called before Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland. Warner was divorced on March 17 by Mrs. Frances L. Warner, and he and Mrs. Moffett were married the same day. Attorney William C. Anderson informed the judge. He dismissed the suit, which was for $1,000.

POLICE RESCUE WINGED VETERAN OF LAKE FRONT

An aged gull was found on the foot bridge near the Illinois Central station at Roosevelt road yesterday, its left wing broken. It evidently had been disabled in the late afternoon rain.

Called by pedestrians, Sergt. Jerry Lynch and his squad rescued the bird, which fought furiously against capture, but was finally worked into a bag. The police immediately named it Old Dreadnaught.

The gull still battled when taken to the South State street police station, but was later won over with some food. Several policemen who have had sea experience examined the bird and said that it probably was one of the oldest flying about the lake front. The gull will be turned over to the Anti-Cruelty society.

Pilot Plunges 35,000 Feet to His Death Testing Plane

Easthampton, Conn., April 10.—[Special.]—Believed to have lost consciousness when his pursuit plane reached an altitude of 35,000 feet, Lieut. Harold W. Fairchild, a test pilot, crashed to his death here today. The young flyer, employed by the United Aircraft and Transport corporation of East Hartford, was assigned to make an altitude test of a pursuit ship powered with an experimental motor.

TELLS SUPREME COURT DANGER OF 'BONDS EDICT'

Denies U. S. Right in Diversion Case.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—In sentences that were circumspect but resolute, Illinois today warned the United States Supreme court that if it attempts to carry out the recommendations of its special master in the sanitary district diversion case the people of Illinois may see fit to disregard the order.

To press the people of Illinois for money which they cannot now pay might lead to a breach of "domestic tranquillity," counsel for the state and the sanitary district informed the justices.

In voluminous briefs the state and the district announced their contention that the report of the special master, Edward F. McClennen of Boston, and the claims of the complaining lake states—Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio, and Michigan—were an invitation to the court to engage in an unwarranted invasion of Illinois' rights as a sovereign commonwealth.

Briefs Received by Court.

The briefs went to the court today in preparation for the oral arguments April 17.

The sanitary district brief presented by Attorney William Rothmann pointed out to the court that in entering a decree in a cause between states a primary consideration should be the possible effect upon that "domestic tranquillity" and "general welfare" to preserve which the federal constitution was ordained.

The court must consider, the brief explained, the reaction of the people of Illinois should they be told that at all hazards and regardless of their financial condition they must obey the recommendations of Special Master McClennen.

35 Million Dollars a Year.

Chief among these recommendations was one that the state of Illinois be ordered to furnish the 35 million dollars a year necessary to build the treatment works which the sanitary district was required to have completed by the end of 1938, under the court's decree of April 21, 1930. The funds, the master's report suggested, should be raised by a bond issue without regard to the requirement of the Illinois constitution that bond issues be submitted to a popular referendum.

It was in answer to this recommendation that counsel issued their word of warning.

"If the state of Illinois," they said, "is confronted with making a choice between providing for the unemployed and caring for the urgent needs of its people, or providing funds for the immediate construction of sewage treatment works which will have the effect of raising the level of Lake Michigan about three and one-half inches over that which has prevailed for the last twenty-five years, it may be anticipated as a possibility that the state will give prior consideration to the necessities of life for such of its people as are unable to sustain themselves because of economic conditions.

State May Defer to Higher Need.

"Even though the court have the power to enter an order as recommended by the special master, nevertheless, the state of Illinois, with all due respect and deference, in the exercise of its sovereign power, may be compelled to defer to what it regards as a higher need. And unless this court gives a like consideration to the human and practical aspects of the question there may arise a situation which might disturb domestic tranquillity.

"Mutual deference by component parts of the government, each to the other, should always be the rule, regardless of the power of the court and regardless of the rights of the states."

In addition to assistant attorneys for the sanitary district, the names of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, Joseph B. Fleming, and Joseph H. Pleck were attached to the district's brief as special assistants.

Disaffection Might Follow.

In language similarly forthright the state brief by Attorney General Kerner, Assistant Attorney General Truman A. Snell, and Special Assistant Cornelius Lynde described the disaffection that might follow the court's attempt to enforce a drastic decree.

"There are social and individual phases of the problem which . . . have not, we submit, received sufficient consideration. The country at large and the state of Illinois peculiarly is suffering the effects of the depression.

"The minds of the citizens are easily affected by any abnormal disturbance of the conditions we have become accustomed to in our daily life. We venture to suggest that grave consequences would follow any attempt by the Supreme court through any agency whatsoever to take over the exercise of governmental authority in the state of Illinois for the purpose of carrying out this proposed decree."

Refers to Master's Remarks.

Referring to certain remarks by Mr. McClennen the brief retorted:

"When taxpayers have not funds available for tax collection and as a result their properties are sold or they have defaulted upon mortgages on their homes, it is difficult to understand what 'further steps' can be taken by the state to 'overcome sluggish tax collecting in Cook county.'"

The attorney general pointed out the chronic controversy between Cook county and downstate districts and explained that to order the state to assume an obligation of the sanitary district would serve to enhance that dispute.

Moreover, it was argued, particularly with respect to the proposed bond issue without a referendum that the recommendations of the special master transcended the limits of judicial authority in that it was recommended that the court by mandatory decree control and direct an exercise of legislative discretion by the legislature and governor of Illinois; that the court direct the legislature to exercise an authority of the people of Illinois which the people by their constitution had expressly reserved to themselves and that the court direct the legislature to set aside clear and specific commands of the constitution of Illinois.

Federalizes Illinois Waterway.

In fact, it was contended, instead of having power to modify its earlier decree the jurisdiction of the court was itself modified when congress in the rivers and harbors of the act of 1930 federalized the Illinois waterway, provided for a diversion for the purposes of navigation, and authorized the secretary of war to recommend what the diversion should be.

"We respectfully suggest," said Illinois' brief, "that this court should modify its decree so that it in no way interfere with the future full and free exercise of the discretion lawfully imposed upon the war department."

It was suggested that the diversion might never be cut below the 5,000 cubic feet per second, allowed under the court's decree until 1935.

The sanitary district brief reiterated the denial of charges of bad faith. It denied that it had unduly delayed construction of the southwest side sewage treatment works and asserted the works could be built on time.

It pointed out that the construction of controlling works may not be necessary because of contemplated compensatory works in connection with the St. Lawrence seaway. Lake levels would be restored in this fashion more speedily than under the decree; therefore no emergency existed.

Lastly, it was argued, if Illinois is to be held responsible the question of her right to a fair share of the water of the great lakes should first be determined.

Complaining States' Argument.

The brief of the complainant lake states was almost equally formidable in size and in bristling allegations.

The four attorney generals and their assistant counsel demand that the court put a stop to the way in which Illinois and the sanitary district have been allowed to "juggle" the responsibility between them. Illinois, they said, should be brought to time and forced to assume its share of the burden.

"In our view," the brief declared, "the responsibility for financing the performance of this decree should be imposed directly and specifically upon the state of Illinois."

The brief charged that Illinois, directly or through its political subdivisions and agencies, had caused the obstacles resulting in the district's present financial difficulties.

Seek to Enlarge Decree.

"The state has thus caused the default of the sanitary district and the remedy lies within its control," the lake states' counsel declared.

They were well satisfied with the report of the special master so far as it went, but insisted that the decree of the court should be further enlarged "to provide for the appointment of a mandatory of this court, without further hearing or notice, to do the things therein described for, on behalf of, and at the expense of the defendants, in the event that such things should not be done by the defendants at the times fixed in the decree."

"The admitted judicial power of the Supreme court to enter the judgment in the causes necessarily embraces full, plenary, adequate and complete power and authority to enforce that judgment and make it effective," the brief asserted. "And such power comprehends not only the power to coerce all instrumentalities or agencies of state power, but it includes the power directly to enforce and make effective its judgment through the appointment for that purpose with all necessary or convenient powers, of such mandatory or mandatories as may be necessary, convenient or appropriate to accomplish that purpose.

"The jurisdiction to enter this judgment and the power to enforce it is conferred by and rests directly upon the federal constitution; and neither the jurisdiction to enter judgment nor the power to enforce it can be subordinated to state constitutions or state statutes which, if they stand in the way, must yield to a paramount authority."

Farm Groups' Lobby Pushes Inflation Before U. S. Senate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—Radical senators and radical farmers joined forces today in an attempt to pump inflation into the administration's farm relief-farm mortgage bill as that measure plodded its slow way through an obviously reluctant senate.

Members of the farmers' union and the farmers' national holiday group responded to the alluring call of John A. Simpson, president and lobbyist of those organizations. They appeared in droves in the corridors of the capitol and senate office building, buttonholing senators, urging them to set the printing presses going. A delegation finally made its way to the White House and there made their appeal to the President.

Radical Senators Confer.

Radical senators of both parties at the same time were meeting in a secret conference to prepare an amendment to the bill to provide for inflation in a somewhat adulterated form.

The farmer lobbyists, some of whom came from as far away as Oklahoma, are advocating the Frazier bill under which farm mortgages would be refinanced by issuing 1½ per cent farm loan bonds. Those bonds would be purchased by federal reserve banks, the banks paying for them at par with an issue of federal reserve notes.

The senate radicals are preparing an amendment to confer the currency-eligibility privilege on the 2 billion dollars of federal land bank bonds which would be authorized under the administration bill for the refinancing of farm mortgages.

In the meantime, on the senate floor, Senator William E. Borah [Rad., Idaho], expressed the opinion that "the commodity section will be as disastrous and unhappy for the farmer as was the agricultural marketing act." He would, however, vote for the measure, to obtain passage of the mortgage refinancing section. Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.], took that view and said he could do so "only by holding my nose."

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.], abetted by Senator Huey Long, Louisiana radical, unearthed an early work of Mordecai Ezekiel, now economic adviser to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and one of the principal authors of the bill. The Michigan senator revealed the professor's plan of forecasting and regulating hog production by a system of logarithmic equations. That was the sort of person, he declared, who had written and would administer the bill.

Senator Offers Own Test.

Senator Logan [Dem., Ky.], remarked that a man with the name of Mordecai Ezekiel certainly wouldn't know much about hogs.

The bill received only one major amendment when Senator Copeland succeeded in winning adoption of a proviso making the basic parity period for milk from 1919-1923 instead of from 1909-1914.

Los Angeles Asks $25,000 to Combat Quake Reports

Los Angeles, Cal., April 10.—[Special.]—A request for an appropriation of $25,000 for staging attractions and events for the coming summer "in the campaign to attract visitors and tourists and to counteract any ill reports caused by the earthquake" was referred to its budget committee by the Los Angeles city council today. The request was made by President John Simpson of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce. No appeal for federal aid has been made yet.

COMMERCE GROUP BACKS SANITARY BOARD BOND BILL

The Association of Commerce yesterday indorsed the proposal now before the state legislature which would permit the sanitary district to issue $100,000,000 of bonds without referendum. The indorsement also suggests the issuance by the district without referendum of new bonds to refund bond issues already in default and others about to mature for which redemption funds are not available. The association said its recommendation was made because the whole sewage disposal program of Chicago depends on the ability of the sanitary district to carry out the mandate of the United States Supreme court in the lake diversion case. The district has been unable to proceed with the construction of sewage plants because of the lack of funds resulting from delays in tax collection.

Ice Cream One Cent a Pint Proves Boon for Children

ROOSEVELT ASKS FOR TENNESSEE POWER PROJECT

Drafts Bill to Build Dams, Control Floods.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—The President's ambitious scheme to make the Tennessee valley the scene of an extensive industrial, economical and social experiment was offered to congress today in a short message.

Tomorrow a bill approved by the President will be submitted simultaneously in both houses, and it is expected the legislation will be passed without much argument or delay.

The bill will provide for the creation of a "Tennessee valley authority" which will have broad powers, first to plan out a program and then to carry it out. The power, as sketched by the President in his message, will cover the building and operation of power sites, of building dams and planting forests, in establishing controls and establishing a control over marginal farm lands.

Great Economic Changes.

Senator George H. Norris [Rad., Neb.], the "father" of the Muscle Shoals project, who will introduce the administration bill in the senate, said it embraces most of the features included in previous bills passed and vetoed by former President Hoover.

While Senator Norris still battles for government operation of the nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals for the production of farm fertilizer, the President has indicated that for the present only experimental work will be done.

Mr. Roosevelt's hope is to demonstrate in the Tennessee valley that great economic changes for the better can be made by conserving and developing natural resources.

"Such use, if envisioned in its entirety," said the President in his message, "transcends mere power development; it enters the wide field of flood control, soil erosion, afforestation, elimination from agricultural use of marginal lands, and distribution and diversification of industry.

"In short, this power development of war days leads logically to national planning for a complete river watershed involving many states and the future lives and welfare of millions. It touches and gives life to all forms of human concerns.

Tennessee Valley Authority.

"I therefore, suggest to the congress legislation to create a Tennessee valley authority—a corporation clothed with the power of government but possessed of the flexibility and initiative of a private enterprise.

"It should be charged with the broadest duty of planning for the proper use, conservation and development of the natural resources of the Tennessee river drainage basin and its adjoining territory for the general social and economic welfare of the nation. This authority should also be clothed with the necessary power to carry these plans into effect."

The President's plan includes the running of electric power into every farm, to control crop productions, to build dams and promote forestation projects in the interest of relieving unemployment. It is a far reaching plan which will take years to work out, but if a plan is agreed upon and it appears successful even before it is fully tried out, the President expects to apply similar projects to other river valleys of the nation.

"Many hard lessons have taught us the human waste that results from lack of planning," the President's message read. "Here and there a few wise cities and counties have looked ahead and planned. But our nation has 'just grown.' It is time to extend planning to a wider field, in this instance comprehending in one great project many states directly concerned with the basin of one of our greatest rivers."

LEADERS OF HOUSE MOVE TO SPEED UP ROOSEVELT PROGRAM

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—House leaders today cleared for action on a nine point legislative lineup representing the remainder of President Roosevelt's emergency program which they are charged with pushing through at the current extra session of congress. As outlined by Majority Leader Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], the program contemplates the passage before June 1, the prospective adjournment date, of legislation dealing with the following matters:

Farm relief and farm mortgage refinancing; regulation of the sale of securities; direct relief grants to states; banking; railroads; Muscle Shoals; continuation of the federal tax on gasoline; reciprocal tariffs, and public works. In addition, Mr. Byrns said, it is possible that word from the White House will include the 30 hour week bill passed by the senate, or a similar bill pending in the house, in the administration program.

CATCH BANDITS AFTER THEY ROB COUPLE IN HOME

Harold Maloney, 6649 North Maplewood avenue, was waiting last night for two policemen who had promised to play cards with him when three robbers entered his home. Roughly the holdup men forced him and Mrs. Maloney to hand over $270, which they had drawn from a bank to use in paying taxes.

As the trio fled, Maloney ran to a front window and fired six shots at them. He missed. Then he called the police, and a radio call was sent out to motor squads. A short time later the detail, headed by Sergt. John Gapinski, recognizing the bandits' automobile by the description, forced it to a curb at Ravenswood and Bryn Mawr avenues. One of the occupants fled on foot and escaped. The others surrendered.

They are Marcus Spinner, 23 years old, 835 Buckingham place, and Samuel Davis, 25 years old, 2815 Herndon street. In Spinner's pockets was the money taken from Maloney. The latter identified both men, and they confessed at the detective bureau. After the business of getting the money was over, Maloney decided it was too late to play cards with his friends, Sergts. Frank McDonald and William Cox of the automobile section.

IDLE MARCHERS FIGHT BRITISH POLICE; USE CLUBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 10.—Bands of idle marching from northeastern counties clashed with police in Durham today. Many marchers and policemen were injured. Several arrests were made. The demonstrators attempted to reach the health commissioner's office to protest against the dole laws.

When police refused admission to the street in which the office was located, the idle rushed the police cordon with heavy sticks. Police drew batons and a struggle ensued. Many demonstrators were knocked to the ground and a number of officers retreated under a heavy rain of blows.

An automobile and a motor bus were smashed. A woman wearing a red cloth hat and a red handkerchief was one of the marchers' leaders.

CANNON LOSES SUPREME COURT TEST OF APPEAL

Must Argue Indictment in Lower Tribunal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—Bishop James Cannon Jr. of Virginia today lost his fight to carry his trial for violation of the federal corrupt practices act directly to the Supreme court of the United States.

In an opinion settling an intricate jurisdictional problem raised by Cannon's attorneys the highest court refused to entertain an appeal from the District of Columbia Supreme court and ruled that the appeal lay to the District Court of Appeals.

Contest of Jurisdiction.

Counsel for the Virginia clergyman and his former secretary, Miss Ada Burroughs, who is charged with him of misusing campaign funds in the Hoover-Smith campaign, had contested the jurisdiction of the District of Columbia Appellate court over an appeal from the District of Columbia Supreme court. The lower court asked the United States Supreme court to decide whether it had the power to entertain the appeal and, if so, whether it had also the power to review the trial court's ruling.

Justice Owen J. Roberts, who wrote the opinion, answered both questions in the affirmative, which will automatically send the case to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Indicted by U. S. Jury.

Cannon and Miss Burroughs were indicted by a federal grand jury for violating the federal laws by failing to report certain contributions received in their 1928 anti-Smith campaign in the south. The indictment was quashed by the District Supreme court on the ground that the practices alleged against the bishop and his secretary were not offenses under the federal corrupt practices act and that the indictment failed to stipulate that defendants had "knowledge" of the alleged misuse of the campaign funds.

The government appealed the District of Columbia Supreme court's decision to the District Appellate court, which now has full jurisdiction under the opinion handed down today by the United States Supreme court. If it reverses the lower court, Cannon must stand trial.

Girl Describes Killing of Her Fiance by Robbers

Miss Helen Davis, 22 years old, 4625 North Hamilton avenue, took the stand at a coroner's inquest yesterday and told of the killing of her fiancé, Elmer Lind, 25 year old department store manager of Rockford, by robbers Sunday night. She said they were in a car in front of her home when the robbers ordered Lind to get out. He was shot as he stepped to the sidewalk. Miss Davis said she probably would be unable to recognize any of the killers. The inquest, held at the Ravenswood hospital, was continued to April 20.

TAMPERING WITH GOLD IN DOLLAR NOW THE VOGUE

Treasury Economists Argue Against It.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—Devaluation of the dollar is the inflation scheme enjoying the widest vogue at present. Impetus to the movement which has been smoldering in congress for months was furnished recently by the pronouncement of 300 prominent business men advocating reduction of the gold content of the dollar as a means of inflating the currency and restoring the former commodity price level.

By act of congress the dollar at present contains 25.8 grains of gold nine-tenths fine. It therefore contains 23.22 grains of pure gold. Various degrees of reduction of the gold content are proposed by the devaluationists. Some would reduce it to 20 grains, some to 15, some to 10 or 12.

The theory is that if you reduce the gold content of the dollar you make the dollar less valuable and therefore make it necessary to pay more dollars for a given amount of commodities than before. If you cheapen the dollar by half you would have to pay two dollars for what one dollar bought before. Wheat, for example, that was 50 cents a bushel would become one dollar a bushel over night and the farmer would have as many dollars to pay his debts as he did when they were contracted.

Stimulates Foreign Trade?

Treasury economists dispute this reasoning. They assert that within the confines of the United States the devaluation of the dollar would not affect prices. At home a dollar would still be a dollar. Only in foreign exchange would it be worth less. Foreigners would be able to buy American goods more cheaply than before. The result would be a vast stimulation of American foreign trade. That would be a tremendous boon to American producers and that's what the 300 prominent business men have their eyes on. American foreign trade would boom as did that of Great Britain after that nation went off the gold standard.

But, say the treasury economists, Britain, France and other nations already have adverse foreign trade balances. To buy heavily of American goods would increase those adverse balances, which can be settled only by shipping gold. To prevent this from happening, other nations would raise still higher their tariff, quota and embargo walls against the United States.

Hurts Old Time Bonds.

At home, according to the economists, devaluation of the dollar would be felt chiefly by those persons required to pay the interest and principal of mortgage loans in dollars of the present gold content. Most mortgages contain the 'gold clause,' in which the borrower promises to pay the interest and principal "in gold coin of the United States of America of or equal to the standard of weight and fineness existing" at the time of the loan.

This gold clause has been inserted in mortgages ever since the sixties, when the instability of currency values caused lenders to adopt precautions against loss in the payment of loans due them. Bonds and mortgages containing such gold clauses are outstanding today in the aggregate amount of scores of billions of dollars. If the gold content of the dollar were to be reduced 50 per cent and creditors should demand compliance with the gold clause, the debtor would be compelled to pay twice as many dollars to pay interest and principal.

In the legal tender cases the Supreme court in 1869 upheld the gold clause, but many eminent lawyers believe it wholly probable that if the dollar should be devalued the court would abrogate the requirement just as the British high court of justice did last autumn. The British court held that the loan was not a bullion contract, but a simple contract to secure payment of a sum of money.

A Treasury Opinion.

Furthermore, treasury officials do not hesitate to say that in the event of devaluation of the dollar the government itself would be the first to repudiate obligations to pay the interest and principal of bonds in dollars of the previous gold content.

This question has arisen already in connection with the President's orders requiring the relinquishment of all gold and gold certificates. How, it has been asked, can a debtor satisfy a demand for payment in gold if he cannot get gold? The treasury answer is that the executive order envisages the issuance of licenses to obtain gold for such purposes, but that in practice such contingencies will not arise for the reason that a creditor will not demand gold so long as he would be required to turn it back to the treasury forthwith.

Installation of exhibits in several buildings at A Century of Progress is under way, activity of all sorts having been speeded up in preparation for the opening of the world's fair on June 1. Among the exhibits installed yesterday in the General Exhibits building was that of the United States Steel corporation, including dioramas showing the open hearth of a steel mill and air and water transportation.

During the day more than 100 painters were put to work to coat the dull aluminum colored buildings of the fair with gay colors. Within the next few weeks 100 more painters will be employed.

Otto Teegen, assistant to Joseph Urban, color director of the fair, announced that painting has been started on the Sky Ride, Federal building, Hall of Science, Travel and Transport building, and General Exhibits group. The Agricultural building already has its first coat of blue, yellow, and black.

GOETHE STREET WOMAN KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

Mrs. Bertha Manning, 60 years old, 117 West Goethe street, a widow, was fatally injured last night when struck by an automobile at Clark and Division streets. She died early this morning in the Henrotin hospital. The driver of the car was C. H. Borak, 32 years old, 216 Birchwood avenue, secretary of the bondholders' committee of the closed Cosmopolitan State bank.

Mrs. Nannie Dodson, 45 years old, 355 East 30th street, colored, was fatally injured yesterday at Western avenue and Fulton street by an automobile which did not stop. Mrs. Dodson died at the county hospital. Witnesses said there were two couples in the death car.

These deaths increased the 1933 Cook county automobile toll to 229.

COURT UPHOLDS GOLDBERG TERM FOR TAX FIXING

The Appellate court yesterday affirmed the conviction of Herman J. Goldberg, tax fixer, but remanded the case to the Criminal court for a minor alteration in Goldberg's sentence.

Goldberg was tried by Judge Joseph Sabath two years ago and found guilty, with Charles A. Mead, a former employé of the old board of review, of conspiracy to make fraudulent alterations in assessment records.

Mead did not appeal his sentence. Goldberg was sentenced to three months in jail and fined $1,000. Judge Sabath ordered that he should stay in jail until the fine was paid. It was this part of the sentence which the Appellate court, in an opinion written by Judge David F. Matchett, ordered altered. The state's attorney's office was instructed in the opinion to make a motion for proper judgment to provide that Goldberg should remain in jail until his fine is paid "or until he is discharged according to law."

The latter phrase permits Goldberg, if he can prove that he has no assets, to obtain his discharge under a pauper's writ.

Metropolis, Ill., April 10.—(AP)—Wayne Dunn, a former employé of the Simmons Dry Goods company, was under arrest today on a charge of having robbed the firm of $500 Saturday night after police, firemen and a night watchman had been lured from their posts by a false fire alarm.

BEGIN LISTING SEEKERS OF JOBS IN FORESTS TODAY

Officials Here Expect to Fill Quota Quickly.

The taking of applications for enrollment in the army of reforestation workers will begin this morning at the district stations of the Cook county bureau of public welfare, and the first contingent of 300 men will be sent to Fort Sheridan tomorrow for two weeks of training. This was announced yesterday by Joseph L. Moss, director of the county bureau.

The necessity of applications was announced by Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, yesterday when he returned from Washington with official instructions. It had been announced previously that applications would not be necessary, but that relief officials would make up the forestry list from their own records.

4,000 to Be Selected.

A quota of 4,000 men will be selected from the list of applicants. They will be notified at the rate of 300 a day to report at the army recruiting station for enrollment. As soon as they have been enrolled they will be taken to Fort Sheridan for a "hardening" process of two weeks, and after that training will be turned over to the forest service of the department of agriculture and the national park service of the department of the interior, Mr. Moss said.

The work of enrolling idle men in the reforestation army was undertaken yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, which appointed the county welfare bureau as its agent.

"We will accept applications from unmarried men between the ages of 18 and 25," Mr. Moss said. "Those under 21 years of age must obtain their parents' consent. They will be paid $30 a month, but must agree to an assignment of $25 a month to their family. From the applications, 300 will be selected each day for the actual enrollment by the U. S. army. All applications will be strictly voluntary.

"The first enrollment of 300 men will start at 10 a. m. on Wednesday, and that process will proceed as rapidly as the army can handle the recruits. From our records, there are about 10,000 young men in Cook county who are eligible for enrollment in the reforestation army. The inquiries at district offices have been tremendous, and we do not anticipate any difficulty in filling the quota rapidly."

Brig. Gen. Frank C. Bolles, commanding officer at Fort Sheridan, received orders from Washington yesterday to prepare to receive men for two weeks of training beginning tomorrow. At the end of the training they will be sent to camps in the forests west of the Rockies.

257 IN U. S. FOREST ARMY DESERT; THEY DIDN'T WANT WORK

New Rochelle, N. Y., April 10.—[Special.]—The "army" of 1,791 workmen who reported to Fort Slocum last night for work under President Roosevelt's reforestation plan dwindled by 257 today. That number of the recruits were found not to want work and one of the staff officers at the post said they had reported only for the free meals and a place to sleep for the two nights they were at the fort.

Another officer said the ousting of the idlers would make room for others who needed work. "The government has given those 257 men their chance. If they do not want work then certainly it is not up to the public to see that they are cared for," he said.

The other 1,534 men received their first day's training today. They were awakened at 5:55 a. m. and policed their barracks after a 6:30 breakfast. During the remainder of the day they were kept on the move outdoors to harden them for their coming tasks.

MISTAKEN ORDER POSSIBLE CAUSE OF AKRON CRASH

Error Put Dirigible on Wrong Course.

Lakehurst, N. J., April 10.—[Special.]—An indication that a misunderstood order and a consequent change in course may have caused the airship Akron to head into the midst of the storm which destroyed her appeared today in testimony before the naval board of inquiry which convened here today to investigate the disaster.

Lieutenant Commander Herbert V. Wiley, second in command of the airship and her only surviving officer, was describing the events just preceding the crash of the dirigible. Lightning, he said, was first sighted at about 8:30 p. m., after the ship had passed over Philadelphia and laid her course along the Delaware river.

Lightning Is Sighted.

"I conferred with the captain [Commander Frank C. McCord]," he said, "and saw lightning to the south, twenty-five or thirty miles away."

The engines were speeded up, he continued.

"The captain changed the course two or three times within the next forty-five minutes or an hour," Wiley said, "apparently to the left when the lightning appeared closer, then back to the right when it seemed farther away.

"The ground became obscured by fogs soon after we left the Delaware river."

Wiley said the Akron stayed on a northeast course for what "seemed to be half an hour" and then took an easterly course.

Mistake in Course Order.

"The captain told me he had ordered a fifteen degree change in course," he said, "and that a mistake had been made and the course changed fifty degrees.

"The lightning came closer and the altitude was changed from 2,000 to 1,500 feet.

"About the time we got to the coast, about 10 o'clock, the captain went up to see the weather man. While he was gone I changed the altitude from 1,500 to 1,600 feet, and so reported to the captain."

Wiley explained he made the altitude change to stay above the cloud formations and keep the lightning flashes in sight.

He saw no thunder heads. The lightning was both horizontal and vertical.

"Shortly before this time the radio antennae were hauled in, but permission was received to lower one end about fifteen feet in order to receive whatever weather information possible," he said.

Supports Commander's Tactics.

During the questioning Commander Wiley indicated that had he been in command he might have taken a different course, but at the same time he emphasized that he had no criticism to make of Commander McCord's handling of the ship in any way. He also denied that the weather at the takeoff was threatening.

Q.—In your opinion were the weather conditions all right for the flight? A.—In my opinion there was not the slightest danger in starting on that trip.

Q.—What was the weather forecast? A.—I don't recall receiving any. We make our own forecast.

Q.—Is it normal procedure to take a ship out at night? A.—Two-thirds of the takeoffs are made after sunset.

Q.—Did your forecast show unfavorable weather conditions? A.—I know that the aerological officer and the captain conferred, but I was not present.

Preferred Course to Westward.

Q.—In the light of your long experience do you consider the courses taken were proper under the conditions that existed? A.—My own inclination was to go to the westward, but the captain said he had seen lightning there. I did not see it until about thirty minutes after I entered the control room.

Under cross-examination on this point by Lieutenant Commander Ralph S. Pennoyer, judge advocate general of the court, Wiley again testified that he would not have taken the course to the eastward ordered by McCord.

Asked if he considered the course McCord took to the east "safe and proper," he said:

"Although my own inclination was to turn westward, I could not tell the captain what was best. He had more information than I had, and his ideas of what would develop were just as good as mine." He emphasized that he did not intend to criticize the action of Commander McCord in following the course he did.

Didn't Question Decision.

Asked if there was any "recognized best practice" to follow in a storm such as struck the Akron, he said:

"My own doctrine has been to place the ship on the west side of a circular storm in the northern hemisphere."

Wiley said he did not question Capt. McCord's change in the direction of the flight to the south after reaching the coast.

"The captain gave the orders," he said. "He did not confer with me. I thought in my own mind that he did it because he did not know exactly where we were."

Wiley then indicated that Capt. McCord was perhaps motivated, in part, by a wish to avoid flying in the direction of any city and possibly getting over the city in the turbulent weather.

"It is dangerous to fly over high buildings such as the Empire State building in a thunderstorm," Wiley said. "I didn't question the change in course because that was the idea in my mind."

Both Trained Weather Observers.

"Before we discuss weather conditions I would like to say that any trained observer can give a weather opinion for the next few hours with a high degree of certainty without any definite information," the witness said. "Therefore the captain's guess was as good as mine."

A few hours before the Akron took off, Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the navy's bureau of aeronautics, and Commander McCord were both informed that weather conditions probably would be unfavorable for attaining the objective of the flight, Wiley testified.

Both Admiral Moffett and Commander McCord perished in the disaster. The admiral's body was recovered from the sea today, a short time before the inquiry opened.

Indicated No Danger.

Commander Wiley repeated that weather reports received before the flight did not indicate that the great airship would be in any peril, however. They merely indicated that they would be unfavorable for taking radio compass dimensions off the New England coast, which, according to information given out by the navy after the crash, was the purpose of the flight.

Admiral Moffett telephoned the Lakehurst station at 11 a. m. April 3, asking what time the Akron was taking off, and saying he wished to make the flight, Wiley testified. He then said that the aerological officer at the air station informed both the admiral and Commander McCord that he doubted the weather would be favorable for taking compass dimensions off the New England coast.

Conditions Saved 6 Pilots.

He further revealed that the weather conditions saved the lives of six airplane pilots attached to the Akron. Indications that visibility would be poor at sunset the night of the takeoff led Commander McCord, late in the afternoon, to cancel orders for a scheduled drill of the big airship's squad of six fighting planes, which was to have ended with the taking of the planes and their pilots aboard the dirigible. Therefore, the planes and pilots were left behind when the Akron soared away to destruction.

The Akron's weather chart was lost at sea, but the witness said that he believed another chart could be reproduced and reconstructed.

While they were traveling over Philadelphia, Commander Wiley said, he told Commander McCord that "we certainly have a storm center in this area." They altered their course.

When they reached the coast line Commander McCord changed the course again.

McCord Had Responsibility.

Q.—Who was responsible for the ship on this flight. A.—Commander McCord.

Q.—In what capacity was Admiral Moffett flying? A.—As an observer.

Q.—Did he have any responsibility for the ship?

The witness said he was not absolutely certain of the regulations, but from his own observations Admiral Moffett had no authority over the control and discipline of the ship. McCord gave the orders to take the ship out, the witness said.

Wiley described conditions in the control car in the fleeting minute before the ship crashed into the sea. He told of the breaking of the upper controls, explaining that when this occurred the altitude was about 800 feet. He added that when "both rudder controls broke I thought the ship had broken in two."

Engine Room Wires Go.

"I believe I failed to say in my previous report that during the descent some of the engine room wires also were carried away," he added.

He revealed that even while swimming for his life in the icy waters he noticed the condition of the Akron as it drifted helplessly on the waves.

"I saw the ship on the water, 500 yards away," he said, "with the bow out of the water. Two breaks were in the center of the ship with the lower fin of the stern only slightly submerged."

The wreck of the Akron drifted away from him as he swam, Wiley said, adding that he attempted to swim toward shore. He told of seeing lights in the water southwest of the Akron.

"I must have turned around," he said, "or the wind shifted."

He added that he was later informed by the captain of the German tanker which picked him up that the wind shifted rapidly and "was very violent."

Commander Wiley said that he had heard no order given by either Commander McCord or Lieut. Calnan to dump the gas tanks.

"There was no confusion or shouting in the control car," he said.

Discipline in Control Car.

Just before court adjourned at 3 o'clock the commander declared: "I've been trying to give the board a picture of the discipline and actions in the control car. I am sure the court realizes that it would be a violation of discipline for me to go over to take any part in dropping the ballast when the captain and the first lieutenant were already doing so. I continued at my usual station near the rudder.

"There was no confusion at any time. There was no feeling of panic or violation of discipline at any time. Capt. McCord did everything he could to meet the situation.

"He had had unusual success in this ship. He had planned and executed extensive operations. He was energetic and a good leader. We were all proud of the success he had had. When any repairs were made to the ship he always wanted to see them and know what it was all about. I believe Capt. McCord and every member of the ship's crew performed his duty fully, competently, and conscientiously at all times."

Borne Out by Enlisted Men.

Before he began his testimony, Wiley was asked by Rear Admiral Henry W. Butler, president of the board, whether he had any complaint to make as to the conduct of the officers or crew on board the Akron at the time of the accident. Wiley replied that there was none. A similar question was put to the only other survivors, Richard E. Deal, boatswain's mate, and Moody E. Erwin, aviation machinist's mate. They gave similar answers.

In addition to Admiral Butler, who is commandant of the Washington navy yard, the court is composed of Capt. Harry E. Shoemaker, commandant of the Sunnyvale air station in California and once commander of the Lakehurst station, and Lieutenant Commander Sidney Kraus of the Philadelphia navy yard. Lieutenant Commander Ralph S. Pennoyer of Washington is judge advocate.

Widows Attend Inquiry.

The members of the court, in full dress uniforms, were seated behind a long table. At a small table to the left Lieutenant Commander Wiley was seated, and beside him sat the other survivors, Deal and Erwin.

In one corner of the long, narrow room sat a group of women—the widows of some of the men who died when the Akron plunged into the sea.

Commander Wiley, it was disclosed, had requested and obtained the privilege of being designated an "interested party" at the inquiry, and, as such, will be able to question witnesses.

As the inquiry opened it was learned that there was only one parachute and no life preservers on board the Akron.

Officers at the air station said that the Akron carried forty-five mattresses which were, in effect, life preservers.

ADMIRAL MOFFETT'S BODY IS RECOVERED OFF ATLANTIC CITY

New York, April 10.—[Special.]—The body of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, a guest on board the United States navy dirigible Akron when that ship crashed at sea last Monday night, was recovered today by the coast guard cutter Daphne.

It was found about forty miles northeast of Atlantic City, some ten miles southeast of the spot where the dirigible sank.

The Daphne's message to the cruiser Portland, in charge of salvage operations and the search for bodies, said: "Body identified as that of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett recovered in position 39:23, 73:32."

The body was taken to Atlantic City, where all bodies recovered will be held awaiting funeral orders.

The admiral's body is the fifth to be recovered so far. Of the seventy-six men aboard the airship only three survive. One man was taken from the water alive but died soon afterward.

The body of Lieut. Col. A. F. Masury was recovered on Saturday. That of Commander Frank C. McCord, in charge of the ship at the time it crashed, was found yesterday, and at about the same time another searching vessel found the body of Commander Fred T. Berry of the naval air station at Lakehurst, who was a guest on the ship.

Sixty-eight men remain to be accounted for.

Two dozen craft, supplemented by about thirty planes, are searching the wreck area today in the expectation of finding more bodies.

NEW AIRSHIP MACON PRONOUNCED READY FOR U. S. INSPECTION

Akron, O., April 10.—(AP)—The U. S. S. Macon tonight was pronounced ready for the inspection of a naval board headed by Rear Admiral George Day, just one week after her sister ship, the U. S. S. Akron, plunged into the Atlantic and was destroyed.

Naval officers expressed the opinion that Lieutenant Commander H. V. Wiley, a survivor of the Akron crash, would complete his testimony before a court of inquiry at Lakehurst, N. J., in time to come here for the Macon's first trial flight, scheduled for Thursday morning, weather permitting.

The naval inspection board, headed by Admiral Day, is expected to arrive here late tomorrow or early Wednesday.

Workmen at the air dock finished polishing up the Macon's interior today and mechanics gave the ship's telephone system its final test.

N. Y. ATTORNEY CALLS DIXIE RAPE JURORS BIGOTS

Leibowitz Hailed by 3,000 Negroes on Parade.

New York, April 10.—[Special]—Samuel S. Leibowitz, chief of the defense counsel to the Negroes on trial at Decatur, Ala., on a charge of raping two white women, returned tonight to his home in Brooklyn for a few days' rest before going south again for the second of the series of trials.

Leibowitz was asked how any twelve men could bring in a verdict of guilty against Haywood Patterson, the first of the Negro defendants, after they had heard Ruby Bates, one of the principals, admit she never was raped.

"If you ever saw those creatures," he said, "those bigots, whose mouths are slits in their faces, whose eyes pop out at you like a frog's, whose chins drip tobacco juice, bewhiskered and filthy, you would not ask how they could do it.

"When I got back home I felt that I needed a moral, mental and physical bath."

Fifty-two blocks of disorder attended the return of Leibowitz.

Negroes carried the lawyer on their shoulders from his train to a taxicab and then 3,000 whites and Negroes formed a parade on Broadway. Police in the 30th street precinct, taken unawares, telephoned ahead to the 47th street station. When the column reached Times Square police charged it with nightsticks.

Hand-to-hand fighting followed and Patrolman William Griffin was beaten by Negroes until white passers-by fought them off.

The parade reformed and attempted to hold a meeting in Columbus circle. Emergency police dispersed them there and also at 68th street and again at 86th street, after which the marchers broke up.

MAJ. SIMONI IS NEW CHAPLAIN OF LEGION OF VALOR

Maj. A. V. Simoni, chaplain of Fort Sheridan, has been elected national chaplain of the Army and Navy Legion of Valor, to succeed the late Chaplain W. J. Farrell of Boston This was announced yesterday at Fort Sheridan. The Legion of Valor is an organization of veterans who have been decorated with the congressional medal or distinguished service cross for extraordinary heroism on the battlefield.

Maj. Simoni was decorated by Gen. Pershing in the presence of the entire 28th division. The citation read by Gen. Pershing at the time of the chaplain's decoration was as follows:

"Upon learning that there were six wounded men in front of our lines, Chaplain Simoni asked for two volunteers, and with the aid of these men successfully brought the wounded men to our own lines through terrific machine gun and grenade fire. This is the third time this honor has been conferred upon Chaplain Simoni."

SENATE LEADER DENOUNCES NEW TAX STRIKE BILL

Declares It Would Cause Collection Chaos.

The Knox-Keehn tax bill was denounced yesterday by State Senator Harold G. Ward as a measure designed to give new life to the strike by property owners who have refused to pay any part of their delinquent tax bills. Senator Ward, a Democrat from the Lake View district, who as chairman of the senate judiciary committee is considered the spokesman of the party organization on tax collection measures, pledged himself to oppose the passage of the bill.

The measure, introduced by State Senator Arthur Huebsch [Rep., Brookfield] as senate bill 463, is on second reading in the senate without having been referred to Senator Ward's committee. It was drawn up after a conference attended by Attorney Roy D. Keehn, representative of a number of large taxpayers who would have a chance for cuts on their delinquent bills if the measure becomes law; Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News; Fred W. Sargent, president of the North Western railroad, and State Senator Earl B. Searcy [Rep., Springfield].

Sargent Explains Stand.

Mr. Sargent has explained since that he approved the measure on the representation of facts made to him at that time as an individual, and not as chairman of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, which position he holds. The committee has never discussed the matter at any of its meetings.

The bill would give County Judge Jarecki new jurisdiction over every property for which an objection to either 1928, 1929, or 1930 real estate assessments was filed. It then would give him the right to make new assessed valuations of these properties on the basis of evidence to be placed before him by the owners.

"If this bill passes," said Senator Ward, "and it will not pass if I can prevent it, the County court would be busy for the next hundred years hearing unpaid tax cases. There would be involved 100,000 cases on which $170,000,000 in unpaid 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes is due.

"I cannot imagine a measure which would create more pandemonium in our tax situation.

"Passage of this bill would put a premium on the nonpayment of taxes.

"The bill means that the County court would be permitted to cut the taxes of those whose refusal to pay has been the underlying cause of our present financial distress. Surely there can be no argument of fairness advanced in behalf of this bill. I shall fight it to the end, and I hope that, once they understand the matter before them, members of the senate will join with me."

Oppose General Revision.

Opposition to a general recodification of the state's revenue laws at this time was voiced yesterday at a conference called by First Assistant Corporation Counsel Leon Hornstein. Such a measure, which would eliminate inconsistencies from the revenue acts passed piecemeal by the legislature during the last 30 years, is now pending in the legislature. It is house bill 187. It has been passed by the house and is now pending in the senate.

"The laws as they now stand," said Attorney Hayden N. Bell at the conference, "have all been construed by the courts. To change even minor wording at this time would open the floodgates of new tax objections and hopelessly tangle the tax situation."

Mr. Hornstein appointed a committee representing various tax collecting offices, consisting of Mr. Bell for the state's attorney, Attorney Thomas D. Nash for the county treasurer, Otto Woerter, chief clerk of the board of tax appeals; Assessor J. L. Jacobs, Frank Pasdeloup, representing the county clerk, to make a formal recommendation to the legislature regarding the bill. Senator Ward, who was present, told the committee members that he believes the senate will follow their recommendation in the matter.

Slated for Diplomatic Posts

WILLIAM GORHAM RICE.

BRECKENRIDGE LONG.

Expect Rice and Long to Be Envoys to Holland and Italy

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt is expected within a few days to announce the appointments of William Gorham Rice of New York as minister to the Netherlands, and Breckenridge Long of Missouri, former assistant secretary of state under President Wilson, as ambassador to Italy.

Warren Delano Robbins, a cousin of the President, is slated to become minister to Canada, but his appointment will probably be held up during the time that the President is receiving foreign diplomats and statesmen in his discussion of economic issues. Mr. Robbins is chief of protocol at the White House, and will be in charge of entertaining the distinguished visitors.

Grenville Emmet of New York, former law partner of the President, is in line for a diplomatic post in Portugal or Hungary, it is learned.

Berlin Appointment Waits.

Pending the settlement of the political strife in Germany under the Hitler régime, no appointment of an ambassador to that country will be named.

It was understood the President is considering the appointment of John Cudahy of Milwaukee as the next ambassador to Cuba.

The President today sent to the senate the nominations of Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit to be governor general of the Philippines; L. W. Robert Jr. of Atlanta to be assistant secretary of the treasury, and Pierson M. Hall to be federal attorney for the southern district of California.

The nomination of Joseph Woodrough of Nebraska to be a judge of the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals was approved by the senate judiciary committee.

Illinoisan Mentioned.

Vincent Dallman, editor of the Springfield, Ill., State-Register, who was a campaign leader in gathering delegates for Roosevelt in downstate Illinois, conferred with Democratic congressional leaders here today and with Postmaster General Farley.

Mr. Dallman is understood to be in line for a federal post, if one can be found to his taste. Reports that he may be appointed assistant secretary of the treasury were deemed unfounded.

Another Illinoisan in town who has aspirations for a federal appointment is Col. Anthony F. Lorenzen of Chicago.

SUES TO RECOVER $18,000 PAID FOR STOCK OF UTILITY

A suit for an accounting and for the recovery of $18,000, paid for stock in the defunct Central Public Service corporation, a public utility holding company, was filed yesterday in the United States District court by Harrison E. Fryberger, a New York attorney.

The Central Public Service corporation, the N. W. Harris company, affiliate of the Harris Trust and Savings bank; the Central Public Utility company and the Consolidated Gas and Electric company, which took over assets of the Central Public Service corporation, were named as defendants.

The bill of complaint alleged that Attorney Fryberger in 1929 was persuaded to buy $18,000 worth of the Central Public Service corporation stock on the representation that the company was in good shape. The company went into bankruptcy soon after the purchase, the suit charged.

TEACHERS USE PAY ROLL SLIPS AT LOOP STORE

Maurice L. Rothschild, clothing merchant, who announced on Wednesday that pay roll identification slips of board of education employés would be accepted in trade at his store, said yesterday that a large business had been done with teachers and other workers on the schools' pay rolls.

"We felt that something should be done for the teachers," said Mr. Rothschild. "We have been taking pay assignments from city employés and will continue to do so. We are glad to extend the same privilege to teachers and other employés of the board of education."

Pay roll slips and tax warrants of the board are accepted in the store in payment of charge accounts and for new merchandise purchased.

SCHOOLS URGED TO LIMIT THEIR TAX WARRANTS

Cash Pay Hinges on It, Bankers Warn.

If the school board pays with tax warrants its employés' salary arrears of more than $27,000,000, it will be unable to sell any more warrants to banks for pay roll cash, President Orville J. Taylor of the board told a score of leaders of teachers' organizations yesterday.

Sentiment of the teachers's leaders, who gathered to discuss the pay situation, was that payment in warrants should be made only after all efforts to make payments in cash are found fruitless. They suggested further appeals to the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and laws to put more teeth in tax collection procedure as steps to be tried first.

Taylor Tells Banks' Stand.

"The banks have told us that if we pay in warrants they are through," said President Taylor.

That, he explained, does not apply to the sale to the banks of $1,700,000 worth of warrants to clear up pay rolls to the end of last June. Teachers will get a week's pay in cash out of that transaction, and civil service employés of the board will get two weeks' pay. Before the banks will buy the warrants, however, they wish the city council to elect a new mayor, because of their doubt as to the validity of Acting Mayor Corr's signature on tax warrants.

President Taylor explained the reason for the bankers' refusal to make further tax warrant purchases if the board pays back salaries with warrants. The dumping of such a large amount of warrants on the market in small denominations would greatly depress the price of the securities, he said.

Predicts Drop in Price.

One banker estimated, President Taylor said, that the price of warrants might drop as low as 40. The banks, he said, would not feel justified in carrying warrants purchased from the board on their lists of assets at par when the same warrants were selling in the open market at greatly depreciated prices.

For the same reason, President Taylor said, the banks have urged the board to retain its resolution not to issue warrants in excess of 50 per cent of any tax levy. If the back pay rolls are to be met with warrants, this restriction must be repealed to provide sufficient warrants.

Redeem More 1931 Warrants.

The board yesterday redeemed a second batch of 1931 tax warrants, totaling about $1,500,000, with tax collections received from the county treasurer. The first warrants, totaling $2,500,000, were redeemed last week.

About $7,000,000 worth of the 1931 warrants will have to be redeemed before the board gets to those issued to teachers. Most of those being redeemed now were issued to other creditors of the board.

STATE TAX BOARD TO GIVE ITS DECISION TODAY ON 15 PCT. CUT

The state tax commission announced last evening that at 11 o'clock this morning it would give its decision regarding the order issued by the board of tax appeals for a 15 per cent reduction in 1931 assessed valuations on small home properties. From the tone of the statement tax attorneys and county officials surmised that the commission would favor the reduction.

In its announcement the commission indicated that one of its three members dissented from the opinion of the others and that the dissenting opinion also would be made public. The reduction order was referred to the commission when Assessor J. L. Jacobs refused to accept it on the ground that it was illegal.

In conjunction with the commission's finding a program for "revision and amendment" of the present assessing system will be announced.

"It is the belief of the tax commission," said the statement, "that the controversy between the assessor and the board of appeals on the reduction would not have arisen if the law were definite and understandable . . . and the commission is preparing a recommendation to the legislature on this point. The commission has determined upon a program in connection with the 1931 and 1932 assessments with the view of again establishin confidence in the assessment machinery of Cook county."

Members of the commission are Scott W. Lucas, chairman; Barnet Hodes and Prof. Simeon E. Leland of the University of Chicago.

Infection from Sliver Causes Woman's Death

Mrs. Leon Holtz, 66 years old, died yesterday in her home at 2807 Lunt avenue, supposedly from blood poisoning and hemorrhage. She ran a sliver into the index finger of her left hand several weeks ago and an infection developed. The finger was operated upon at the Edgewater hospital. Mrs. Holtz left the hospital a few days ago against the advice of her physician.

CORR ARGUES FOR COUNCIL SESSION TO ELECT MAYOR

Cites Warrant Dispute; For April 17 Action.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

Hot Springs, Ark., April 10.—[Special.]—In a late session tonight the city council committee on committees presented the pleas that have been made for an early return of the committee to Chicago.

Acting Mayor Corr pointed out that pressure had been exerted upon him for an early session of the council. At that time a mayor would be elected whose authority in that office would not be questioned. He referred to the attack on the legality of his signature on the tax warrants that would give the school teachers more pay days.

Corr Tells of Pressure.

"I pointed out to the committee," Mr. Corr said, "the pressure that had been exerted on me personally to do something immediately to rectify existing conditions. Certain persons have been raising technical questions as to my powers to function as mayor. I told the aldermen that the quickest possible action to remove these objections should be made.

"The committee pointed out to me other technical objections that might be raised if all requirements in electing a mayor were not fulfilled. For instance, there might be an objection that if the meeting was not held on the regular date, April 17, the city council was not properly organized and working under its own rules of procedure.

Says Committee Agrees.

"The committee feels, as do I, that when final action is taken it should be done so that no question should be left open to attack. The aldermen have not refused to come back at this time. But they are debating whether the wait of a few days would be better than calling a special session of the council earlier. The question is open, as I do not leave until Tuesday."

2 The "Bond Streeter" for not-so-old grads.

3 The "Park Lane" for conservative tastes

This is a double-breasted Spring. But beware! Any old D. B. will not do. A hit-or-miss double-breasted can look like a sack or sausage-casing. That's why we've developed 3 distinct styles—to fit every figure and suit every taste.

Bond's "Draper" is a rakish, deep-chested newcomer, with a free-and-easy swing; and pleated trousers—for slim young men. "Bond Streeter" has the vigorous, broad-shouldered lines and tapered waistline of an Olympic athlete, for men who want to stay young. "Park Lane" belongs in the wardrobes of men who like brisk style in the conservative manner.

You can "write your own ticket" when it comes to color and pattern. They're all here! $25, with two trousers (and about 300 marked down to $20).

BEER OR NO BEER? CONFLICT RAGES IN THE SUBURBS

Highland Park Crowd Boos Official's Dry Edict.

Includes Part of Chicago.

The four mile limit takes in all of Evanston, Wilmette and No Man's Land, and parts of Chicago, Niles Center, and Morton Grove. The Evanston council last night deferred action on a beer sale ordinance. Merchants of the suburb announced they would sell beer today to make a test case in the courts.

Village Attorney Pringle of Oak Park met a delegation of the suburb's merchants in the village hall last night to explain the charter that keeps Oak Park nominally dry. He said that the late Henry W. Austin had bought up all the taverns in Oak Park and with others had influenced the putting of prohibition in the charter. He held that nothing could be done toward legal brew sales until the legislature should act.

The merchants, claiming the delay was causing them great losses, declared they would appeal to Willis McFeely, village president, today.

REVEAL BEER DEARTH

Chicago faced a beer shortage yesterday as household customers clamored for delivery on orders long overdue. Meanwhile gangsters took advantage of the confusion in the new industry to make their first open bids for a share in the profits while the overworked brewers and distributors were busy trying to supply the public demand.

Evidence of the underworld's determination to share control if not dominate the newly legalized industry appeared in several quarters, notably among legitimate distributors whom "muscle men" had approached. In Elgin two agents of the Capone syndicate fell afoul of the police and were locked up.

Reports a Beer Shortage.

A. B. Hulls, manager of the Chicago branch of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., the St. Louis brewers, whose Budweiser beer was one of the country's biggest sellers in the old days, confirmed reports of the beer shortage and disclosed that agents of the gangs had approached him. The proposal of the gang agents was turned down, he said.

"Public demand has been so great that we are cleaned out entirely at the Chicago distributing plant," Mr. Hulls revealed. "Hotels and clubs have sent their own trucks to the local branch, hoping thus to secure faster delivery. We have been able to get two or three cars a day from St. Louis, with 550 cases to a car, but right now we have none on hand. We are about 12,000 cases behind on orders and if the present demand continues we won't catch up before June."

Tells of Gang Proposal.

The proposal of the gangsters was presented, Mr. Hulls said, by two flashily dressed young men, who declined to give their names but claimed to represent a "distributing" agency. The manager said he could easily identify the men if he saw them again.

"They said they represented a group of 'retailers' who would patronize whatever brewer these men told them to," he said. "It was apparent that the retailers they referred to were speakeasies which were subject to their intimidation. I surmised they were ready to demand a commission on gross sales to the retailers in their group, but we parted ways before the discussion got that far. I told them the company wasn't interested in transactions of that sort."

Behind on Their Orders.

Chicago and Milwaukee brewers are running behind their orders in about the same proportion as Anheuser-Busch, a canvass of such companies as Atlas, Premier-Pabst, Schoenhofen, Prima, and Blatz disclosed. Officials of all companies declared the demand was far beyond anything they had expected and none would predict definitely how soon they could catch up. All voiced strong denials that the deluge of orders had led them to release any "green" beer, as the beverage is designated when underaged.

"We are 72 hours behind on orders," said an Atlas official. "We still have 50,000 barrels in the ageing vats for reserve. Not a bottle of green beer will leave this plant."

"Trying to Catch Up."

An official of the Prima company said the shortage there was occasioned by the lack of capacity in the bottling plant, adding that "the place is like a madhouse and we don't know when we can catch up, but are doing our level best." Prima officials denied being approached by gangsters, holding to the belief that a bomb exploded at their brewery early Saturday was due to the disappointment of a disgruntled jobber, or perhaps to labor trouble.

The first two hoodlums caught promoting gang interests in the beer business were arrested by Elgin police at Andy's place, a restaurant owned by Andrew Mayer on the Lake street highway at the eastern limits of Elgin within Cook county. Police identified them from cards as Sam Imburgio, 32 years old, 612 16th avenue, Melrose Park, a brother of Joseph Imburgio, former candidate for mayor of Melrose Park, and Edward Deveau, 28 years old, 915 23d avenue, Melrose Park.

Police said the pair were trying to persuade Mayer to take wildcat beer from the Capone syndicate's brewery in northwestern Cook county. They were held without charge.

Urges War on Hoodlums.

Declaring that the return of legal beer was goading the gangsters to "one of the deadliest battles that has yet developed on the hoodlum front," Gordon Hostetter, executive director of the Employers' association, distributed a bulletin to the membership calling for support in the campaign to keep the hoodlums out.

The bulletin urged members of the association to a three point program, as follows: [1] To watch the character of state laws and local ordinances introduced to control beer sales; [2] to encourage brewers to stand for clean business and refuse to compromise with hoodlums or their outlaw labor unions; [3] to encourage the mayor and state's attorney to deal vigorously with the first appearance of racketeering in the wholesale and retail beer business.

The Capone syndicate is already feeling the pinch which the sale of real beer at legitimate prices in hotels, clubs, pharmacies, and groceries has put upon the hard liquor traffic in the speakeasies, it was learned. Word was passed yesterday to the syndicate speakeasies, according to an authoritative source, that the price of Canadian whisky would be cut from $95 to $65 a case at once and the price of alcohol for gin blending from $27.50 to $17.50 for a five gallon tin.

U. S. Honors War Hero 15 Years After Death

Word was received yesterday from Washington that the late Leroy A. McCullough, second lieutenant, Company A, 125th machine gun battalion, 33d division, had been awarded a citation for gallantry in action. His father, William E. McCullough, 8708 South Union avenue, a retired policeman, will receive the silver star for his son. Lieut. McCullough was killed in action on Oct. 9, 1918, in Consenvoye wood as he led his platoon in a raid that resulted in the silencing of a German machine gun nest.

MULROONEY NAMED TO HEAD NEW YORK BEER CONTROL BODY

Albany, N. Y., April 10.—[Special.]—Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney of New York City will be at the head of the new state alcoholic beverages control board.

Gov. Herbert Lehman, following passage of his beer control bill in the senate and assembly late today, announced that he had invited Mulrooney to accept this position, that Mulrooney had consented to serve and would be appointed as soon as the bill had received the governor's signature and become law.

Gov. Lehman said he regarded Commissioner Mulrooney eminently fitted for the position because of his knowledge of the problems bound to arise in connection with the state's new system for the regulation of manufacture and sale of 3.2 per cent beer. His salary as head of the beer and wine control board will be $12,000. The other four members of the central control board will draw salaries of $7,500.

The governor said tonight that it would take some little time before he could fill the other four places on the central control board. He said he had not decided whether to appoint a woman member of the board.

Before adjournment sine die today the legislature appropriated $225,000 to defray cost of control board operations for the opening months.

MICHIGAN FIRST STATE TO RATIFY DRY LAW REPEAL

Convention Goes Wet by Vote of 99 to 1.

Lansing, Mich., April 10.—[Special.]—Michigan's constitutional convention, its members elected just a week ago, today voted 99 to 1 for the abolition of the 18th amendment.

The state was the first to ratify the 21st, or repealer, amendment submitted by congress. Thirty-five other states must ratify before prohibition can be thrust out of the constitution.

Gathered in the representative hall of the Michigan capitol, the delegates used the occasion not only to vote their overwhelming opposition to present federal dry laws, but also to express disapprobation of the "brutality and barbarism" of the state's life for a pint law under which several victims were sent to prison. The sentences since have been commuted or invalidated.

"This law," declared former Congressman Robert Clancy of Detroit, "represented the very essence of barbarism. It is most fitting that we are gathered in the very hall where that law was passed, seeking to repeal it and other similarly vicious laws."

Expression of Freedom.

Martin McDonough, delegate from Iron River, speaking in behalf of the upper peninsula, said:

"The action of this convention is a welcome reversion to an interpretation of government which gives expression to freedom. The prohibition law brought out an intolerant will subversive of democratic ideals. Evils of the liquor traffic under prohibition have at least equaled the worst evils of the old saloon days."

There were great cheers and hand clapping when the roll was called on the ratification of the 21st amendment. The lone dry vote was cast by Eugene Davenport of Hastings, Barry county, former dean of the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois. There was, however, no bitterness on his part and the convention voted him its thanks for his "courteous deportment."

Diehard Dry in Gallery.

State officials who were present, including Gov. Comstock, and guests and visitors joined in the jubilation which followed the vote. But in the gallery was at least one diehard dry, who shouted, after the vote was taken:

"Thank God for the man who voted no."

Boos and catcalls answered his remark.

In the gallery also was the Rev. R. N. Holsaple, superintendent of the Michigan Anti-Saloon league, who was pointed out from the floor by Robert D. Wardell, a veteran wet.

"There sits the man," said Mr. Wardell, "who still would be wielding the whip hand over this state had it not been for the splendid help of Michigan women."

Mr. Wardell then paid tribute to Mrs. Mary E. Alger of Detroit, president pro tem. of the convention, who for years has been an active worker in the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform. Mrs. Alger offered the formal resolution placing the state on record for repeal.

An effort was made to have the convention express itself in favor of an immediate beer bill by the legislature, but it was unsuccessful.

Gov. Comstock, addressing the convention, took care of this matter briefly. He stressed the need of immediate legislation to permit the sale of beer and promised it shortly.

"Let us continue to lead the other states," he said, "but let us still be temperate. We do not want the open saloon back. Neither do we want the conditions that have prevailed recently. We want a regulated traffic in liquor. We have decided to try personal liberty once more and we must be sure our example will not discourage other states from following."

Among the 99 delegates who voted for repeal were two clergymen, the Rev. Albert M. Ewart of Eaton county and the Rev. H. F. R. Frincke of Monroe county.

Minnesota Votes Sept. 12.

St. Paul, Minn., April 10.—[Special.]—A special election to choose delegates to a state convention, which will pass on ratification of the 21st amendment to the federal constitution, will be held in Minnesota on Sept. 12. A bill specifying that 21 delegates shall be elected by state-wide vote was sent to the governor today.

13 U. S. Warships Sail for Maneuvers Off China Coast

MANILA, April 11.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—Twelve destroyers of the United States Asiatic fleet and the tender Blackhawk sailed today for annual summer maneuvers off the north China coast. They are following the cruiser Houston, flagship of the fleet, now at Shanghai. The warships carried more than 2,600 men.

HOUSE RESTAURANT WILL SELL BEER IN NATIONAL CAPITOL

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—Beer, which for so long has been just a word meaning wet legislation, is to come back to the house of representatives, its genuine liquid self.

By grace of the committee on accounts it is to be sold in the house restaurant on the first floor of the capitol. Thanks to Speaker Henry T. Rainey, it probably will be sold also at the cloakroom lunch counters to which the members retire for a hasty snack between speeches.

There remains only a somewhat delicate problem to be settled. Does the house of representatives need a permit to sell beer to itself, and can the District of Columbia government tax the federal government on the sale of the beverage?

It has been thirty years since legislators were able to fortify themselves against the speeches of their colleagues with anything stronger than soda water. In 1903, Representative John Wesley Gaines of Tennessee sponsored a bill which prohibited the sale of intoxicating beverages on the "hill."

RUMOR SALTIS IS BEHIND PLAN TO REOPEN BREWERY

But Leader in Enterprise Says Gangster's Barred

Residents of the village of Thornton, in the southern end of Cook county, have been wondering for several days about the activity around the old Thornton brewery, which stands on Thornton creek near the center of town. The place has not manufactured brew since the prohibition era.

Twenty men have been busy tearing out the interior of the structure and there have been rumors that new brewing equipment is to be installed and operated by a syndicate headed by Joe Saltis, long a beer baron on the south side of Chicago.

Confirmation of the fact that the brewery will reopen to help satisfy Chicago's thirst was obtained yesterday. But Joe Saltis, according to one of the managers, will be refused the privilege of owning any stock, although he wants some of it.

Saltis Kept Out, He Says.

The information came from John M. Kubina, undertaker at 1938 West 47th street. Kubina admitted that he is friendly with Saltis, who has been wholesaling beer for years in the territory near his home and undertaking establishment. Still, he said, his friendship was not strong enough to get him to let Joe have a part in the enterprise.

"There are several of us in this," said the undertaker. "We are going to make old Thornton Special beer and it will be good. There is something different about the water out around Thornton and it makes better beer.

"I don't want to talk about the others in this. It's too early. But in a few weeks we'll be able to make definite statements."

Saltis, according to Kubina, has asked several times to be allowed to contribute for stock.

"But we don't want him," he continued. "He can't get in on this."

Reputed to Be Partner.

One of Kubina's partners, it was said, is Henry Detmer, piano manufacturer at 339 South Wabash avenue, owner of the brewery building. At the Detmer home it was said he was out of the city. A member of the family added that he had obtained support for the reopening project and would have some of the stock. Kubina spoke to the same effect.

At the prohibition department headquarters it was reported no permit to reopen the Thornton brewery had been applied for, and that nothing was known about the project. An investigation of the ownership will be made when the application is handed in.

Saltis, according to acquaintances on the south side, tried to buy into a Chicago brewery several weeks ago and presented $100,000 in cash and $200,000 in notes. He is said to have obtained a large part of the money and paper from saloonkeepers in his territory. The offer was refused.

2 BANDITS POSE AS STUDENTS; GET $3,500 GEMS

Mrs. Lee M. Pierce, 1734 East 72d street, was robbed of $3,500 in jewelry last night by two young bandits in the rear of the Franklin Illinois Company, Inc., 7440 Stony Island avenue. Her husband, a department manager of the concern, who was with her, was not robbed.

The Pierces earlier had attended a gathering at Sinai Congregation reception hall, 4622 South Park way, and there had met two young men who identified themselves as students at the University of Chicago.

Leaving the gathering, the Pierces drove to the garage in the rear of the Franklin Illinois company to leave their car. As they left the garage the two bandits accosted them, taking a $2,500 diamond ring, a $400 bracelet and a $600 bracelet from Mrs. Pierce. She told police that the robbers resembled the two supposed Midway students whom she and her husband had met at the hall.

BREW EXPERTS GIVE CRITICISM OF THE NEW BEER

Average Strength Found to Be 2.71%.

The first shipment of new beer was found to be "slightly disappointing to connoisseures" in a report issued yesterday by the Wahl Institute of Brewing Technology. Two technical brewing experts, Dr. Robert Wahl and Arnold Spencer Wahl, and two master brewers set about tasting and analyzing 16 brands of the new beer.

The beer has been subjected to a rigid examination. It was tested, according to the report, as to "taste, flavor, clarity, effervescence, sparkle, body, zest, and 'suffigkeit.'" This last quality, the report sets forth, is "not readily definable but the quality finds expression in the number of steins an average beer drinker would like to consume in one sitting."

"As to alcoholic content," the report said, "the beers ranged from 2.6 to 3.15 per cent, the average being 2.71 per cent. The body giving extracts varied from 3.5 to 6.1 per cent, the mineral matter from .05 to .16.

"Generally speaking, the beers were dissappointing. Only three of them filled all requirements of the connoisseur. Seven had an excessive amount of gas, were wild, with large bubbled foam that dropped almost immediately. All these were deficient in body, in zest, in 'suffigkeit.'

"These beers were evidently intended for near beer and were rushed out without removing the alcohol, of course, and became overcharged with carbonic gas by using too high a counter pressure in a faulty carbonating method."

"THEY TOLD ME I'D NEVER FIND A CAR LIKE THIS!"

I'VE had an extraordinary experience the past few weeks. I've been trying out a number of low-priced automobiles. And I wouldn't be surprised if they have me pegged as a pest in a lot of salesrooms.

But you see, I was doing the buying, after all. And by looking around thoroughly, and being insistent, I finally got the kind of car I wanted . . . and for the money I wanted to pay. And it's a peach . . . it's a Rockne . . . built by the Studebaker people, you know.

This Rockne is marvelously built for one thing. Everything about its mechanism is solid and strong like an expensive car. That's the thing that impresses you the first minute you drive it.

And Studebaker has made sure that Rockne is completely equipped with all the modern advancements—besides upholstering it as richly as though it sold for $200 more.

When you open up your throttle, Rockne shows you some new things about power. Its rubber floated engine doesn't register a single tremor . . . but oh, how it responds! It's not only quiet in high but in second, too. And I'm talking after driving everything in the Rockne price range.

Take my word for it, you'll be foolish to put a dime down on any low-priced car until you first drive a Rockne. I've tried the others . . . and I know. They're not putting a bargain price on Rockne, mind you. But they're not charging you anything extra for the Studebaker experience and quality that go into it!

TRY A ROCKNE . . AND YOU'LL BUY A ROCKNE

Rockne offers you a six-cylinder, 70-horsepower engine floated in live rubber . . . free wheeling, synchronized shift, silent second . . . automatic switch-key starting . . . double-drop, rigid "X" frame . . . one-piece all steel bodies of full aerodynamic design . . . electro-plated pistons . . . silent threaded spring shackles . . . hydraulic shock absorbers . . . extra large capacity batteries . . . extra powerful brakes . . . contoured upholstery with special coil springs . . . smaller wheels, lower over-all height.

SIX GOVERNORS ACT TO PREVENT DAIRY STRIKE

Meet Here; Join in Appeal to Roosevelt.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Governors of six middle west states met at the Congress hotel last night and took steps to avert a general strike of dairy farmers against low milk prices, scheduled to start in Wisconsin early in May and spread into other states.

A telegram was signed by the governors of Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota, Indiana, Iowa, and Michigan and dispatched to President Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace in Washington, outlining the urgency of the situation, following four hours of deliberation.

Ask Equal Consideration.

The message called for "the same consideration for dairy products given the other basic agricultural commodities" in the farm relief bill now in the senate and already passed by the house. The governors declared that conditions in the central west make it imperative that "dairy products should be included in the federal farm relief bill and should be among the commodities for early administrative action."

At the same time the administration was urged to fix interest rates on farm mortgages, in the second of the twin farm relief measures sponsored by President Roosevelt, "consistent with the ability of the farmer to pay."

Show Farm Income Drop.

The seriousness of the situation among dairy farmers was outlined to the conferees by Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Wisconsin state executive committee. He pointed out that with no material increase in milk production in Wisconsin the value of this commodity had dropped from $236,598,000 in 1929 to $102,226,000 in 1932. The proportionate decline holds true in the other western states, he said. Radical groups of farmers already are planning strikes in protest.

Gov. Horner of Illinois outlined a new plan being placed in effect immediately in this state to secure peaceful adjustments between farm debtors and creditors. He expects to name a state conciliation committee tomorrow which will act as a court of arbitration in settling differences between mortgagors and mortgagees, with local committees as community arbitration boards.

Seeks to End Evictions.

This method, somewhat similar to that already functioning in Iowa and Ohio, the governor, declared, is being used as a pattern for a nation-wide conciliation system, subject to approval by congress.

It is designed to prevent forced sales, or evictions, at the same time protecting farm credit. In substance, the Horner plan would permit a defaulting farmer to pay normal rent for a year or two, meanwhile saving foreclosure by insurance companies and other farm credit agencies.

O'HARA GIVES UP; MURDER TRIAL IS SET FOR MAY 10

Ralph O'Hara, organizer for the Motion Picture Operators' union, who is unde indictment for the murder of Fred Oser, leader of a rebel faction of the union, surrendered yesterday in the Criminal Court building. O'Hara was taken to the county jail to await hearing today on the defense motion that he be admitted to bail.

The case was assigned to Judge James F. Fardy and set for trial on May 10 after Defense Attorney Michael Ahern had asked that O'Hara be freed on bond. State's Attorney Courtney announced that the state would resist the defense motion for bail. O'Hara has confessed shooting Oser to death in the union offices at 506 South Wabash avenue.

O'Hara, accompanied by Thomas E. Maloy, business agent of the union, first appeared with Attorney Ahern yesterday in the Felony court. There Judge Matthew D. Hartigan, on the motion of the state, nol prossed the murder charge placed against O'Hara before the indictment was returned by the grand jury. O'Hara has been at liberty on $10,000 bond under the Felony court murder charge.

After Judge Hartigan's action, Attorney Ahern, O'Hara, and Prosecutor Charles Dougherty went before Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court. Attorney Ahern asked an immediate trial and said that he would waive a jury and proceed if Chief Justice Prystalski would hear the case. When Prosecutor Dougherty said that he was not ready for trial, the defense withdrew its offer to waive a jury, and the case was assigned to Judge Fardy.

The grand jury action against O'Hara was taken after a coroner's jury had decided that the killing was "justifiable homicide," despite the fact that a number of state witnesses had testified at the inquest that Oser had never been known to carry a gun. Records of the crime commission have shown that members of the inquest jury were professional jurymen selected under a political patronage system and that the foreman was a political worker in the ward where Coroner Frank J. Walsh is Democratic committeeman.

COMMERCE BODY SEEKS POWER TO PROBE UTILITIES

Plea to Legislature Next Week.

Benjamin F. Lindheimer, chairman of the Illinois Commerce commission, announced yesterday that legislation would be sought to give the commission wider powers, permitting it to make a thorough investigation of rates of public utility companies. Next week the legislature will be asked to give the commission regulatory and inquisitorial powers to enable it to initiate investigations wherever and whenever they are deemed advisable or necessary, he said.

Inquiry Asked in Petition.

The commission was engaged in a hearing on a petition seeking to inquire into the financial affairs of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, the Commonwealth Edison company, and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. Allegations of dissipations of funds of former Insull subsidiaries were the basis of the petition, which has been under the scrutiny of the commission for some time, and which, the attorneys representing the utilities contend, has no standing in law.

"This commission is going to the legislature to ask legislation greatly broadening the powers of the commission over public utilities," Mr. Lindheimer said, "and in addition we plan to make the most thorough investigation of rates that has been made in the history of public utilities."

Offer to Open Records.

At the conclusion of the hearing yesterday, which was delayed because of the desire of the litigants to file further legal documents, the attorneys for the three utilities offered to give the commission complete access to their books, regardless of whether the commission has jurisdiction over financing companies and other subsidiaries of utility companies.

Woman Sues to Recover Auto Used in Gang Fight

Action to recover one of two automobiles which figured in a gun fight between two hoodlum gangs on Feb. 2, has been instituted against the Oak Park police. The plaintiff is Miss Margaret Ryan, 1313 North Austin avenue, described as a sister of "Red" Ryan, alleged member of the northwest side Touhy gang. She filed a replevin suit before Justice Martin McGrath. The hearing will be on April 14. The gun fight between the hoodlum gangs occurred at Harlem and North avenues. Both gangs abandoned their cars, and the automobiles were seized by police.

WOMAN IS GIVEN 10 YEARS TO LIFE AS KIDNAPER AID

Los Angeles, Cal., April 10.—(AP)—Luella Pearl Hammer, 35 year old musician, was convicted by a jury late today of participation in the kidnaping last January of Mrs. Mary Skeele, elderly wife of Dean Walter F. Skeele of the college of music of the University of Southern California. She will go to trial tomorrow on her plea that she was not guilty by reason of insanity.

Miss Hammer, who frequently interrupted the trial by laughter and wild gestures, received the verdict with a grin.

If the jury finds Miss Hammer insane she will escape prison punishment.

A. H. Van Dorn, who went to trial with Miss Hammer, but pleaded guilty last week, was sentenced today by Superior Judge William T. Aggeler to a ten year to life term.

The prosecution asserted Van Dorn and Miss Hammer lured Mrs. Skeele from her home and held her 24 hours in a Pasadena house while they sought a $10,000 ransom from Prof. Skeele.

BRITAIN PERMITS JEWS TO RENEW DRIVE ON HITLER

German Agents Accused of Curbing Boycott.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 10.—German agents were accused of working within Great Britain against the Jewish boycott of everything German today as the mysterious police action against the display of anti-Hitlerism placards was brought to a sudden end.

Suggestions that posters urging a boycott of German goods should be removed were made by police throughout London's east end yesterday. There was a stormy interval in the house of commons this afternoon when Sir John Gilmour, home secretary, explained that the police acted on their own initiative, but that the campaign has now been called off and the Jews will be permitted to exhibit whatever signs they like.

Denial by Foreign Office.

A mysterious series of badgerings directed against Jewish leaders was revealed this afternoon by Capt. W. J. Webber, a veteran of the Boer war, who attributed the interference to German agents assigned to terminate the Jewish boycott. Capt. Webber organized a huge automobile procession against Hitler yesterday. He was approached by two men who said they were acting on foreign office instruction and requested him not to show placards condemning Hitler's anti-Semitic campaign.

The foreign office today flatly denied that it had interfered in any way, pointing out that such activities would rest purely in the hands of the home office.

This morning a telephone call was received at Capt. Webber's office purporting to come from the adjutant general at the war office.

"My secretary was given to understand that the war office strongly resented my taking any part in the protest," Webber said. "The voice at the other end of the line said that the war records had been searched and no trace of a Capt. Webber could be found. This person asked whether I would desist in the campaign.

Posters Again Appear.

"The adjutant general's office assured me this afternoon when I called with my army papers that no one had telephoned me at any time. It was obviously a campaign of intimidation carried out by agents of Germans anxious to stop the boycott."

Barnett Janner, member of parliament for the Ghetto district in London, remonstrated against police interference in the anti-German boycott this morning. The World Alliance for Combatting Anit-Semitism joined in the protest. As a result of these activities, the police withdrew their opposition to the campaign and the east end again was plastered with anti-German signs.

"I am informed by the commissioner of police that in view of the feeling likely to be aroused by the display of posters advocating boycotting of Germany and German goods and the possibility of breaches of the peace being caused, police officers advised the removal of the notices," Gilmour said in commons. "No authority from me was given or required in this action."

"Will the home secretary make clear it is his intention and the intention of the government to allow all reasonable expressions of free opinion upon this matter to be made by this country?" Winston Churchill demanded.

"Certainly," replied Gilmour.

Smashes the Glass in Auto Door, Robs Woman of $400

When Mrs. Frances Floskus, owner of a grocery at 5159 South Morgan street, failed to open the door of her automobile at the command of four bandits one of them smashed the glass with a revolver butt and took $400 from her yesterday. She was returning from a bank with the money when the robbers forced her car to the curb at Peoria and 51st streets.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 10.—(AP)—Richard Kerr, 63, a policeman, died today from a wound received in a shooting in his apartment last night. Mrs. Bertha Peterson Kuntson, about 40, died earlier. Kerr told police the woman shot him and then herself after they quarreled.

Papen Tells Vatican Hitler Respects Church; Sees Duce

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 10.—Assurances that Chancellor Hitler and his National Socialist party respect religion and the Catholic church were given Cardinal Pacelli, Vatican secretary of state today by Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen in an hour's conversation at the Vatican. Pope Pius XI. is expected to confer with Von Papen, who is a pious Catholic, tomorrow or Wednesday.

Vatican circles tonight saw a successful outcome to the negotiations begun today. It is expected that a sort of modus vivendi, similar to the one between the Italian state and the Vatican will be reached to govern the Catholic youth societies in Germany.

Von Papen Sees Mussolini.

Such an accord, it is hoped, will consolidate Catholic support of Hitlerism and bring Vatican discipline to bear on the right wing of the Centrist party in Germany, which has been holding out against Hitler and his Nazi doctrines.

After seeing Cardinal Pacelli, Von Papen conferred for half an hour with Benito Mussolini, premier of Italy.

Capt. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, militant Nazi and minister without portfolio in Hitler's cabinet, arrived in Rome today by air. He was not present at either the Mussolini-Von Papen meeting or the Pacelli-Von Papen conference. This circumstance was interpreted by observers as meaning that the two members of Hitler's cabinet are here on separate missions.

Capt. Goering, like Von Papen, will remain a week. It is likely that he will join the vice chancellor in further conversations with Mussolini later in the week.

Greeted by Balbo.

Goering was greeted upon his arrival by Gen. Italo Balbo, Italy's minister of aviation. German Ambassador Von Hassel and Princess Mafalda. With Goering, who also holds the post of minister of aviation, were Air Under Secretary Milch and the prince of Hesse, who is the husband of Princess Mafalda.

Goering, who is the guest of Gen. Balbo, came to Rome rather as an emissary of German Fascism to Italian Fascism than in a government capacity, it is said.

Dollfuss to Fly to Rome.

VIENNA, April 10.—(AP)—Announcement that Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss will fly to Rome Tuesday morning aroused excited conjectures in political circles here tonight. His sudden decision to visit Premier Mussolini while Vice Chancellor von Papen and Capt. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister without portfolio, of Germany, are in Rome is viewed in some quarters as another development in Italo-German and Austro-Hungarian revisionist discussions.

An official communique tonight said merely that Dollfuss is anxious to attend the Easter services in Vatican City, and will also visit Mussolini.

[Chancellor Dollfuss recently assumed almost dictatorial powers on the disbanding of the parliament. Other problems clouding the Austrian political horizon involve Socialism, Nazi enthusiasm and international arms shipments.]

Meanwhile, the government announced its intention to form an auxiliary police force. The heimwehr already is being groomed for incorporation in the auxiliaries, but no official mention of specific organizations leaves room for the inclusion of Nazi storm troops if the government reaches a compromise with the Hitlerites.

It is rumored here that there will be conversations in Rome between Capt. Goering and Dollfuss in this connection.

EDWARD M'LEAN ASKS COURT AID TO GET MILLION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—Describing himself as destitute, Edward Beale McLean, one time publisher of the Washington Post, today asked the District of Columbia Supreme court to force payment of $1,333,784 he claims is due him from the estate of his father, the late John R. McLean.

In his suit the former millionaire publisher asserted that failure of the American Security and Trust company, co-executor of the elder McLean's estate, to pay him his alleged "lawful due," has "greatly embarrassed him and has left him destitute and without necessary funds for medical attention, food, lodging, clothing and other necessary living expenses."

McLean is now in Montreal. He faces a contempt of court action in the district Supreme court for disregarding an order restraining him from seeking a divorce from his wife, Evalyn Walsh McLean, in Latvia.

He proposes in his suit, that he be allowed to purchase the Washington Post in his capacity as an individual and to put up the funds allowed him by the court as an offer for the paper. He voluntarily gave up his position on the Post sometime ago after Mrs. McLean had taken legal action to have

McLean told the court that during the first few years after the death of his father, he frequently received an income from the estate in excess of $500,000 a year, and that once it exceeded a million dollars.

JUDGE REFUSES RETRIAL IN CASE OF WINNIE JUDD

Phoenix, Ariz., April 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd today lost another appeal to escape execution April 21. Judge Howard C. Speakman refused to consider a retrial motion by her attorneys. He held the lower court had no authority after the case had been appealed and reviewed by the state Supreme court.

Judge Speakman acted as soon as he took the bench. None of the jurors' affidavits regarding a "deal" being made during the deliberations was presented. Jurors who had been summoned by the defense were dismissed.

JUDGE PRESCRIBES A JAIL TERM FOR AILING PRISONER

Cedar Rapids, Ia., April 10.—[Special.]—Judge George C. Scott in federal court this afternoon assumed the rôle of physician and prescribed sixty days in the county jail as a remedy for gastric ulcers, from which Mark Collogan, indicted for transporting liquor, was suffering, according to his attorney's plea.

The attorney urged leniency for his client, presenting a doctor's affidavit as to Collogan's ailment. Judge Scott smilingly observed: "We've had splendid results curing this ailment with about ninety days in jail, where the sheriff prepares a simple diet of milk and plain food." The attorney ended his plea abruptly and the judge sentenced the defendant.

Goebbels Expresses Views.

Dr. Goebbels replied that, speaking as a politician, he could not admit that differentiation between good art and bad was the sole test to be applied in the situation.

"Art must grow out of the people itself," the minister wrote. "Too long it has been compromised through the experimentation by foreign elements."

Dr. Goebbels dismissed the appeal on behalf of Bruno Walter and the others as inopportune.

Einstein Accepts Madrid Offer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, April 10.—Prof. Albert Einstein, who renounced his German citizenship because of anti-Semitism in Germany, today accepted an offer to teach at the new University of Madrid.

Fernando de los Rios, minister of public instruction, who is obviously of Semitic blood, sent the invitation to Einsten. The republic also invited Max Reinhardt, theatrical producer, to come to Madrid and supervise the festivals in celebration of the second anniversary of the republic on April 14, but the project fell through.

WALLACE SEEKS CENSORSHIP FOR FOOD, DRUG ADS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—A proposal to place a censorship on food and drug advertising placed in newspapers and magazines was laid before President Roosevelt today by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace; his assistant, Rexford Guy Tugwell, and Dr. Walter G. Campbell, director of the food and drug administration of the department of agriculture.

Secretary Wallace, who professed to know little of the matter, saying it had been studied out by Dr. Campbell, said the proposition was to extend to all types of advertising the powers granted under the food and drug act, which now permit the government to control advertising appearing on labels and covers of foods and drugs.

Mr. Wallace said the President appeared "interested" in the plan, but he added that Mr. Roosevelt did not deem it of sufficient importance to include in his emergency legislative plan at this time.

PRESIDENT TALKS ON HOME LOANS WITH NEW AIDS

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—The President conferred today with his three appointees to the federal home loan bank board, William F. Stevenson, T. D. Webb, and C. B. Merriam, on the details of the bill he is to present to congress this week.

The three men will serve on the directorate of the new corporation to be formed for issuance of up to two billion dollars in bonds which will be exchanged for home mortgages. It was expected the bill will carry a rate of 5 or 5½ per cent to be paid on mortgages, as compared with higher rates now paid.

TOKIO HAILS U. S. BID; SEES "NEW DEAL" FOR JAPAN

China to Put Manchurian Row Up to Roosevelt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, April 10.—President Roosevelt's invitation to Japan to join the trade and political conferences in Washington has caused a complete change in the attitude of Japan toward America practically overnight. Friends of America express jubilation, seeing the first ray of hope for the return of relations between the two nations to the friendly state existing before the Mukden incident on Sept. 18, 1931.

Japan not only is gladly accepting the invitation but the question is being made of the greatest importance. It will be taken up by the cabinet tomorrow, when it will be decided who will be sent to Washington.

The invitation comes at an especially opportune moment, observers declare. They point to the growing apprehension of leaders who felt that after Japan's withdrawal from the league of nations the country would be forced to suffer international isolation for some years.

Seek First Class Man.

President Roosevelt's invitation, however, puts the situation in an altogether different light and Japan will endeavor to dispatch one of its foremost statesmen to Washington.

Unfortunately there is not a single man in the cabinet fitted to be sent either because of age, health, or inexperience. Premier Admiral Makoto Saito is faced with a political crisis and it is considered out of the question that he go. Finance Minister Korekiyo Takahashi, who is regarded as ideal otherwise, is about to step out of the cabinet due to ill health. It is reported that the government may send Home Minister Baron Tatsuo Yamamoto. He, however, is felt to be too old.

Takahashi today said Japan should do all in its power to coöperate with the United States, as this is a God sent opportunity to prove to the world that, while Japan is at difference with other nations regarding Manchuria, its fundamental principle is maintenance of world peace and it is ready to coöperate with any honest effort in an endeavor to bring the world out of the depression.

China May Invoke Treaty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 10.—An inspired report through the Kuo Min, official Chinese news agency, tonight announced China's intention to invoke the nine power treaty and introduce the entire Sino-Japanese issue into the forthcoming Washington discussions concerning world economic rehabilitation.

The statement pointed out that, while the league of nations returned a verdict condemning Japan for its seizure of Manchuria, no steps have been taken to check the aggressor. Since the nine power treaty guarantees Chinese administrative and territorial integrity, it is pointed out, China is presented with a rare opportunity to press for the convocation of another nine power conference to discuss and solve the Sino-Japanese dispute.

Sky Is Limit for Britain.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 10.—Nothing President Roosevelt wants to talk about will be barred by Prime Minister MacDonald in the conversations at Washington. This declaration was made by MacDonald to the house of commons today in answer to a question by David Grenfell, Laborite, who asked if it was the prime minister's intention to discuss with Mr. Roosevelt Britain's return to the gold standard and whether, if such was the case, he would give assurance that the wishes of the house would be consulted before any steps were taken in that direction by the government.

MacDonald said he intended to set no limits to the subjects which might be discussed. He said the object of his visit was not to negotiate and fix agreements, but to discuss questions with which both countries were confronted.

Herriot's Authority Limited.

PARIS, April 10.—(AP)—The status of former Premier Herriot in his discussions at Washington with President Roosevelt will be that of a free agent acting more as informant than negotiator. Herriot, who lost the premiership last December rather than surrender his conviction that France should make its war debt payment to the United States, will not be empowered to make decisions which would modify the French position.

This was explained in a semi-official announcement. If the Washington conversations develop to a point requiring the French to make a declaration, the declaration will be communicated through Ambassador Andre de La Boulaye.

Premier Daladier presented President Roosevelt's invitation at today's cabinet meeting and explained the reasons for the appointment of Herriot. The cabinet approved the selection.

Brazil to Accept.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, April 10.—Brazil will accept President Roosevelt's invitation to attend the economic conversations in Washington. Finance Minister Oswaldo Aranha will probably be the Brazilian representative.

Chile Expected to Attend.

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 10.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's invitation to send a representative to Washington for economic conversations was discussed by the government today. Acceptance was considered certain, with the possibility that Chancellor Miguel Cruchaga will be the delegate.

Mrs. Roosevelt Changes Guest Schedule to Fit Two Premiers

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—Suppose your husband inquired casually over his breakfast coffee "My dear, can we put up a few friends for the week-end after next?" and you replied that you were awfully sorry but you'd already arranged for a houseful of company.

Suppose he added, "I'm afraid you'll have to recall those invitations to make room for some other guests," and you immediately agreed that you'd certainly rearrange the schedule, but just who were these new guests?

Then suppose he remarked, still casually, "Well, I think we'll be sleeping a couple of prime ministers then."

Would you promptly have an attack of housekeeping blues, or would you laugh?

Who Guests Will Be.

Mrs. Roosevelt laughed today as she outlined the above incident [the words of the dialogue are mine, not hers]. As a hospitable housekeeper she is glad, she says, that the White House is so flexible. And she is looking forward to the visits of Great Britain's prime minister, MacDonald, and France's former premier, Herriot.

Speaking of the MacDonalds, Mrs. Roosevelt told the newspaper women today that when she went yesterday to Camp Rapidan she had walked across the historic log on which the famed MacDonald-Hoover conversation is reputed to have taken place. A realist in the crowd of reporters insisted that the real log had been swept down stream; lost forever to authentic identification.

That led Mrs. Roosevelt, who has been a teacher, to laud legends as aids to learning. The legends don't have to be historic documents, just so they are taught as symbols, not statistics.

For instance, take the old yarn about the Pilgrims landing on Plymouth rock. Mrs. Roosevelt doesn't attempt to prove it; but she does tell her pupils that when they visit Plymouth they will see the rock and will be amazed that so many mighty events revolve about so small a stone.

Believing in the value of symbols, the new mistress of the White House wants that house to stand as a symbol of dignity and friendliness to every person in the United States, "particularly to the school children who are now making their spring pilgrimages to Washington."

She will shake hands with as many of these school children as she can; can, however make no specific appointments for receiving them. Nor is the White House merely a symbol of nationalism for our citizens; she stressed this very carefully. It must also be, she feels, a symbol of friendliness to other countries.

Believes U. S. Hospitable.

"The occupants of the White House," she declared, "assume the responsibility not only of making it a symbol of what the people want in their government but also of giving it an atmosphere of what this country wants to mean to other nations."

Because the reforestation relief plan verges toward a political policy and she declines to discuss any political question Mrs. Roosevelt's replies to questions on the camp plan were limited to a consideration of the criticism made by some one that it's bad to take men away from their families.

It is bad, she agreed. But it is also bad to have a man returning home to his family night after night with no money. Perhaps, she suggested, it is less bad to send a man away for a short period and give him opportunity to send a little money home than to have him at home with no money and unhappy.

BEG YOUR PARDON

The announcement in the Sunday paper of the marriage of Miss Bernice Marwick to George J. Goldstein should have been of the engagement of the couple. Miss Marwick is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Marwick of 1052 Balmoral avenue, and Mr. Goldstein is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Goldstein of Waukegan, Ill.

LT. EDWARD REDD TO HEAD POLICE AT WORLD'S FAIR

Lieut. Edward Redd of the south park police was appointed yesterday as chief of the police for A Century of Progress exposition, it was announced by Capt. Timothy Howard of the south park police. Assigned with Lieut. Redd are Sergt. James Flavin and ten patrolmen.

A force of 500 men will be assigned to police duty at the fair before its official opening on June 1, Capt. Howard said. The men will be chosen from a list of eligible men awaiting jobs on the south park force, the official policing body of the exposition. Hiring of the new policemen, however, will be handled by world's fair officials.

The salary has not yet been determined. South park patrolmen average about $167 a month. No city police will be used at A Century of Progress, but Chicago detectives and some from other large cities will augment the force to guard against confidence men and pickpockets.

UPHOLDS PAPER'S DEMURRER TO 30 MILLION ACTION

Kansas City, Mo., April 10.—(AP)—The demurrer of the Kansas City Star in the damage suit brought by the Cities Service Gas company for $30,000,000 alleging conspiracy to damage the plaintiff, was sustained this afternoon in Circuit court.

Judge Jasper Bell instructed N. M. Shore, clerk of the Independence division, to enter this order in the case: "The defendant's demurrer sustained and excepted to and plaintiff given thirty days in which to plead further."

The suit was an outgrowth of a series of news articles in the Star by which it sought to show that rates for gas charged by the Cities Service and its subsidiaries, of which Henry L. Doherty is head, were too high.

Attorneys for the Cities Service Gas company expressed surprise at the ruling, adding that they understood Judge Bell was not satisfied as to the sufficiency of the allegations in the petition.

These will be made sufficient, they declared, in an amended petition which will be filed within the thirty days allowed by the court.

HERO OF SHANGHAI BATTLE MARCHES TO FIGHT JAPAN

Nipponese Forced Back Toward Great Wall.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, April 11 — (Thursday). —(AP)—The war office announced that Japanese forces had completed the occupation of Lengkow at 7 a. m. today.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 10.—The situation in north China, as well as the Chinese political situation generally, are regarded as more critical than ever as a result of the Japanese drive south of the Great Wall, which is precipitating the most serious fighting since the Manchurian conflict began.

Gen. Tsai Ting-kai, commander of the 19th Route army and hero of last year's Sino-Japanese battle at Shanghai, announced today that 8,000 of his best troops have moved to northern Kwangtung province, from Fukien province to join other Cantonese and Kwangsi troops. These armies, he said, will advance northward and join in the struggle to drive the Japanese out of north China.

See Threat to Chiang.

[Kwangsi, Fukien, and Kwangtung are the three southernmost provinces of south China, the latter two fronting on the South China sea. Canton is the capital of Kwangtung, which is not to be confused with Kwantung, the Japanese leased territory jutting from Manchuria. Gen. Tsai's southern forces now are about 1,300 miles from the scene of conflict in north China.]

Gen. Tsai's announcement is interpreted as aiming to put pressure against Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, generalissimo of north China, and the National government to take a more definite stand against Japan, even to the extent of a declaration of war.

Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, former Manchurian war lord, who resigned a month ago as commander of the north China forces, boarded the S. S. Conte Rosso here today and will sail tomorrow morning for Italy. He is accompanied by his wife and seventeen secretaries.

Japanese Forced Back.

Chinese reports from Tientsin tonight said the Japanese-Manchukuo forces invading north China have been compelled to retreat to Shihmenchai, removing the immediate danger to Chinwangtao, important seaport. Japanese air bombers attacked a Chinese armored train near Chinwangtao. Serious fighting is going on near Lengkow, where the Chinese are opposing 1,400 Japanese.

Chinese volunteers are resuming their activity in various parts of Manchuria. It was reported today that a brigade of 3,000 Manchukuo troops had mutinied at Laoshaokou garrison, 85 miles south of Harbin, and were marching toward the latter city.

The Rengo [Japanese] news agency said the offensive south of the Great Wall is designed to put an end to Chinese counter attacks on passes in the Wall. Japanese military headquarters said the "persistently hostile attitude of Chinese forces" made this necessary. It was denied that a drive on Peiping and Tientsin was contemplated.

Gets Injunction to Keep Ex-Mate Away from Her

Harry Brown, a garage owner, refused to pay her any alimony under the divorce decree which she won in 1931, but offered her $25 an evening to "step out" with him on Saturday nights, Mrs. Gertrude Brown, 715 Garfield avenue, charged yesterday before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court. Her attorney, Norman Becker, told the judge that Brown had threatened her and the court issued an injunction restraining Brown from molesting his ex-wife. Judge Sabath cut Brown's alimony arrears bill of $600 in half, ordered him to pay it at once.

COAL HEAT COSTS LESS

THE BURNING QUESTION

WHEN YOU RENT OR BUY

WHEN you move this spring, one of the first considerations is "What kind of fuel will be burned in our new home?"

If you expect to heat your house, fuel is one of the biggest extras to add to your rent . . . and one of the biggest opportunities to save.

Be sure it is equipped to burn coal or coke, the fuel that is consistently low in cost—that isn't likely to soar to dizzy heights of expense. Over a five year period, for example, the estimates on dozens of homes show that coal heat costs half as much as oil and a third as much as gas. Certainly, that's a worth-while saving!

If you are looking at apartments

"What kind of fuel do you burn?" is just as important a question to ask if you are renting an apartment.

The building owner that burns coal or coke has made sure of his tenants' satisfaction. For no fuel is as safe from fire hazard. None gives so dependable and even heat. There is no danger of equipment breaking down on a cold day or of pipe lines freezing up.

More, when coal is burned your heat is maintained late into the night. Your heat does not cease instantaneously, as is the case when oil or gas shuts off for the night, leaving you and your guests shivering.

Whenever you buy coal

Make sure of full weight and honest grading by making sure that your merchant is a member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association. Any merchant who breaks his pledge to deliver a full 2000 pounds per ton of coal honestly represented must forfeit his membership.

FRANCE PLANS BIG PROPAGANDA CAMPAIGN IN U. S.

Seeks to Offset Hostility Over Debt Default.

PARIS, April 10.—(AP)—A comprehensive propaganda organization, aimed at making France known in its "true light," was proposed today by Deputy Adrien Dariac in a report on the foreign affairs budget.

"There is no question of organizing the distribution of misleading news," Deputy Dariac said, "but to spread rapidly accurate news of government policy and events interesting the nation."

The deputy suggested the spreading of propaganda through lectures, personal contacts, articles sent to the newspapers, broadcasting, motion pictures and an active campaign against Germany designed to establish that nation's war guilt and treaty violations.

Plans "Missionaries" Abroad.

A superior propaganda council, centralizing all activities and dispatching a corps of "missionaries" abroad, is provided for in the plan.

Any attack against France would be answered promptly, and French citizens and their friends abroad would be organized and informed to present the French views.

"The sole efficacious weapon against calumny is to spread abundant precise information," Deputy Dariac said. "Good money drives out bad. The poverty of our action abroad is dangerously shown by the unjust attacks we suffer in the United States. Our sacrifices for a common cause during the war are shamefully minimized, if not ignored."

Cites Propaganda of Others.

"The French spend less than $3,000,000 on propaganda, the same as Great Britain, while Germany spends $10,000,000 and Italy nearly $5,000,000."

In support of his contention that the French are attacked abroad, the deputy said that one characteristic method is to compare the enormous sums France spends in various ways with the small size of the war debt payment to the United States which was defaulted last December. He said that groups of women have organized to refuse to buy French goods, to refuse to travel on French ships, or to spend their vacations in France.

In listing methods of propaganda already undertaken Dariac included "the conclusion of an accord between the Associated Press and the Agence Havas."

Dariac's recommendations were not debated and were not put in concrete form in a bill. His proposals now are being studied by a subcommittee.

Associated Press Denies Pact.

New York, April 10.—(AP)—Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, in commenting today on reports from Paris that the French government has planned a propaganda campaign to reach the United States through the Havas News agency and the Associated Press, said the Associated Press "is not engaged, never has been engaged, and will not engage in any propaganda service for any country."

"The report apparently was based upon a misapprehension of a liberalization of the exchange of news arrangements between the National News Agencies with which the Associated Press has been allied for forty years," Mr. Cooper added.

"This liberalization permits the Havas agency, for example, to furnish news directly to American newspapers which want its service, independently of the Associated Press. Likewise it permits the Associated Press to serve American news directly to French newspapers which want its service, independently of Havas.

"The Associated Press has never been entreated by the Havas agency or any department of the French government to engage on its account or jointly with Havas or any one else in the carrying of French propaganda."

Says U. S. Neglects Markets.

Washington, D. C., April 10.—(AP)—A statement that America was "neglecting" its foreign markets for exportable surpluses was made in the senate today by Senator Pittman [Dem., Nev.] as he inserted in the record a Paris report that France was planning a large scale propaganda campaign to further its international trade.

Pittman, who is chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, said:

"I have always felt that we were neglecting the foreign markets for our surplus farm products. It is interesting to see the great extent to which the French government is going in this direction.

"The French government has already, during the last two years, been engaged in this work, largely in South America and the orient, while I think that we have practically neglected South America and the orient during that period, notwithstanding the very strong efforts of some of us to attract attention to that great trade."

G.O.P. Coalition Hopes Wane; Begin Picking Judicial Ticket

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Spurred by a suspicion that judicial coalition, except of a limited variety, may go a-glimmering, the Republican county committee last night began the preparation of a full bench ticket for the 20 Circuit and 2 Superior judgeships to be filled at the June 5 election.

The Democrats hold their conventions this afternoon at the Morrison hotel—the county convention to nominate a candidate for the Circuit and Superior bench, and the 7th Supreme court district to nominate a candidate for the Supreme bench. Expectations last night were that the county convention would be adjourned for a few days in order that a slate might be picked. Saturday is the final day for nominations.

Await Nash's Ideas.

As the 7th Supreme district embraces four counties outside of Cook—Lake, Will, Du Page, and Kankakee—its convention may finish up its business today. It depends upon the position taken by Patrick A. Nash, Democratic party leader, who is expected back this morning from the Kentucky blue grass. Among the committeemen at headquarters yesterday the talk was for entering a candidate to run against Justice Frederic R. De Young. The leading possibilities were regarded as Judges Martin M. Gridley and John M. O'Connor.

The Republican judicial convention will be held tomorrow.

What prompted the Republicans to start a complete judicial slate was the failure of a conference with the Democrats to materialize. A group of nine Republicans, appointed Saturday to consult Mr. Nash and the Democrats, reported to the county committee at the La Salle hotel that they had been unable to make contact, Mr. Nash being absent. So the committeemen turned in lists of possible candidates for judges, and the group of nine is to consider all the names this morning with a view of geting a party ticket ready. Overtures for coalition are to be renewed with the Democrats, and the Republicans are to meet at 4 o'clock to decide on their course.

Reject 50-50 Coalition.

As affairs stand, the proposal of the Republicans for a 50-50 coalition has been given thumbs down by the Democrats, who tentatively say the most they could consider on the Circuit court would be to give the Republicans seven or eight places of the twenty.

The Republicans reported that interviews with seven of the nine Republican Circuit judges resulted in intimation that they would act as a unit, so far as choosing which party circle to have their names under, if both parties indorsed them.

Last night the Republicans were maintaining that if coalition goes up the spout they will be prepared to name a ticket that will get a lot of bar approval and support. Among the names presented as possible candidates for the Circuit and Superior court places, in addition to the present Republican judges, were:

John E. Northup	Freeman L. Fairbank
George E. Q. Johnson	Cornelius Lynde
Harry Olson	John Sbarbaro
Craig A. Hood	Julius H. Miner
C. Wayland Brooks	Frank Peska
John J. Healy	Sol Roderick
Arthur A. Huebsch	Arthur Lund
Guy Guernsey	Frank S. Matousek
Harry S. Ditchburne	Matilda Fenberg
Theodore F. Ehler	Edwin K. Walker
John J. Lupe	Walker Butler
Samuel Heller	W. E. Helander
Esther A. Dunshee	Rupert F. Bippus
Harris Gaines	John R. McCabe
Charles E. Peace	Lionel G. Thorsness

The complete list, which was almost as long as a law directory, included many ex-judges and prosecutors and present judges on the Municipal bench.

Up in Air on Mayoralty.

The return of Mr. Nash today finds the Democratic organization divided into several groups over the mayoralty. One group is certain Robert M. Sweitzer, county clerk, will be picked as Century of Progress mayor. Another sees no choice but Ross A. Woodhull. Others are sure it will be Judge John J. Sullivan. Remaining committeemen are divided among eight or ten others.

Yesterday the talk was renewed that to retain party harmony Mr. Nash may be the possible choice for next mayor. In case he does not want it, William H. Sexton, corporation counsel, appeared to be leading as a harmony choice. Among new names cropping out in the gossip were those of State Senator George Maypole and Ald. William A. Rowan of the 10th ward.

URGES PUBLIC ACTION TO HALT ELECTION WASTE

Adamowski Cites Costs of Assembly's Delay.

Cook county already has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars needlessly in special elections this spring and State Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, chairman of the house judiciary committee at Springfield, expressed a hope yesterday that legislation intended to consolidate elections may yet be passed and the taxpayers of county and state be saved a great part of election expense in the future.

"The law intended to consolidate the aldermanic and various village, school district, and township elections with the June judicial election was impeded by the selfish efforts of politicians," Mr. Adamowski declared.

Calls Waste Lesson to Voters.

"It is now too late to save the hundreds of thousands that might have been saved in 1933. But the money spent may give the people a lesson and if they put pressure on the politicians the law may yet be passed at this session and the savings effected in future years."

The election consolidation law passed the senate and is now on second reading in the house, Representative Adamowski said. It is likely to die there, however, he commented, unless public feeling is aroused.

County Judge Jarecki pointed out that the refusal of the legislature to pass the law immediately already has cost Chicago and Cook county more than $1,000,000. During the month of April, under the present law, he pointed out, many small elections are held at various dates and for each election judges and clerks must be hired, polling places rented, ballots printed and other expenses incurred.

Costs Exceed Officials' Pay.

In many cases, the county judge pointed out, two elections are held in one week in the same territory. The cost of these numerous elections often exceeds by far the salaries of the officials elected.

For example, the suburb of Berwyn held its city election April 4 at a cost of $3,535. The town of Cicero held an election the same day at a cost of $4,380. Four days later, on April 8, the Berwyn-Cicero school elections were held at a cost of $8,227.

"Such duplication of election expenses is a shameful waste of money in these days when economy is insisted upon in municipal government by the taxpayers," Judge Jarecki declared.

Calls Delay Inexcusable.

President Emmett Whealan of the county board yesterday added his voice to the demand for consolidation of small elections.

"It is unthinkable that the legislature should have delayed this piece of legislation," he said. "It is obviously a measure designed to save money and no criticism can be offered of it. Those legislators who helped to hold it up so that Chicago was forced to spend more than $227,000 on the aldermanic elections alone can offer no excuse for their actions.

Two Captured Robbers Held in $120,000 Bonds

James Pappas, 37 years old, of the Royal hotel, Halsted and Congress streets, and Harry Johnson, 38 years old, 616 Madison stret, were held to the grand jury yesterday in bond of $60,000 each by Judge Matthew Hartigan on 12 charges of robbery. The two were captured by police last Wednesday during an attempted robbery of the real estate office of former Ald. James B. Waller at 700 Irving Park boulevard. A third bandit, Thomas Martin, 25 years old, was killed in the gun battle with the police.

YOUNG ITALIAN FLIES 426 M. P. H.; SMASHES RECORD

Beats Mark for Seaplanes by 18 Miles an Hour.

DESENZANO, Italy, April 10.—(AP)—The speed plane Red Bullet, a powerful little ship painted entirely red, broke the world's seaplane speed record today, with Francesco Agello, 31, at the controls. For five laps over Lake Garda Agello made an average of 426.5 miles an hour.

The previous record, set by Lieut. George H. Stainforth of England in 1931, was 408.8 miles per hour.

Agello reached a maximum speed of 432.83 in his fourth lap. His minimum was 421.66 in the third lap. Air officers said a new engine would be installed in an attempt to reach a greater speed.

Member of Schneider Team.

Agello was a member of the Italian Schneider cup team in 1929. His successful attempt climaxed a series of such efforts at the high speed airport here in which several craft were lost. Last year Lieut. Neri made an unofficial 422 miles an hour, and a few weeks later he was killed.

The Red Bullet has twin engines in tandem developing a maximum of 2,800 horsepower. The two propellors turn in opposite directions on a sleeved shaft in front. The machine was intended for the last Schneider cup race, but was not completed in time.

INVITED TO CHICAGO.

An invitation was cabled last night to the Italian government to send Francesco Agello and his record breaking seaplane to Chicago for the American air races on July 1, 2, 3, and 4. The invitation was sent by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, director of events at the air races, which are to be the outstanding aviation attraction during the Century of Progress.

Briton Hops for Africa.

LYMPNE, England, April 11 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Capt. William N. Lancaster, British reserve air force officer, left here at 5:35 a. m. today in an attempt to set a new flight record to Cape Town, South Africa. Capt. Lancaster in 1927 piloted Mrs. Keith-Miller on a flight from Croydon to Australia. Last year he was held in connection with the death of Haden Clarke in Mrs. Keith-Miller's home in Miami, but was subsequently exonerated. He left the United States for England last October, after the United States government had taken steps to deport him.

Aviatrix Hops for Syria.

ATHENS, Greece, April 11 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Miss Jean Batten, 23 year old New Zealand girl, who is on a flight by easy stages to Australia, left here at 3:40 a. m. today for Aleppo, Syria. Miss Batten, who is flying a light biplane once owned by the prince of Wales, left Lympne, England, Sunday morning and arrived here today.

Spaniard Reaches Philippines.

MANILA, P. I., April 10.—(AP)—Completing a flight from Madrid started on March 18, Fernando Rein Loring arrived here. The Spanish aviator is the first to fly alone directly between Hongkong and Manila, a hazardous 650 mile trip on which Glenn Brophy, British flyer, lost his life in 1931. Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, German airman, and three companions made the trip last year on their world flight.

Plagiarism Appeal Suit Won by Harold Lloyd

San Francisco, Cal., April 10.—(AP)—Harold Lloyd, motion picture comedian, won a victory in a plagiarism suit here today, when the United States Circuit Court of Appeals reversed a decision of the Los Angeles federal court and held that Mrs. Sadie S Witwer, widow o H. C. Witwer, author, was entitled to no part of the profits of Lloyd's picture, "The Freshman."

Darrow Seeks Clemency for Rockford Boy Killer

Attorney Clarence Darrow departed for Springfield last night to appear before Governor Horner and the board of pardons and paroles today to ask clemency for Russell McWilliams, Rockford youth under sentence to be electrocuted April 21 at Joliet for the murder of a Rockford streetcar man.

Health is half of success

Few men achieve their goal without vitality and drive. And so many are held back from their best by a common ailment: constipation. It dulls energy, often causes headaches, sleeplessness. It takes the vim out of your day's work.

Correct constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it becomes a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than using pills and drugs—so often harmful.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN also has iron for the blood. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

FLOYD BARNWELL.

Floyd Barnwell, 24 years old, 625 Keep avenue, Elgin, who has spent two years in Russia, returned to his home yesterday. He returned to rejoin his father, David Barnwell, a carpenter contractor, who became blind during his son's absence. Lack of funds caused young Barnwell to leave his wife and infant son in Samarkand.

Barnwell became interested in communism two years ago while he was employed as a draftsman by the General Motors Truck corporation. His radical talk reached the front office, and Barnwell was told that if he persisted in advocating communism he would have to leave. He said that he would resign and suggested the company officials put up money to send him to Russia to investigate conditions. The offer was accepted, to Barnwell's surprise, and he was given $160 for a ticket to Russia.

He went to work in Moscow as a draftsman and married a Russian girl who was a fellow employé. Food conditions became critical, Barnwell said, and their combined salaries were insufficient to buy food. He and his wife went to Samarkand, the home of his wife's mother, where the baby was born. Barnwell hopes to obtain work, he said, to bring his family here.

Child Blinded by Coffee When He Upsets an Urn

Valparaiso, Ind., April 10.—[Special.]—Robert, one year old son of the Rev. and Mrs. Earl Myers, may be blinded as a result of burns received when he pulled an electric cord from a coffee urn and the contents were spilled over his head. His condition is critical.

RALLY VETS WHO OPPOSE PAY FOR NONSERVICE ILLS

Organizer for New Group Arrives Here.

Organization in Chicago of world war veterans who are actively opposed to compensation for any soldier not disabled in service was forecast by the arrival yesterday of Donald E Reigeluth of New York, national zone adjutant of the American Veterans' association. At the Stevens hotel where he registered, Reigeluth announced that he had not yet talked with local proponents of the movement, but that he expects developments following such interviews in the next few days.

In protest against "money grabbing by world war veterans who never heard a shot," as one official phrased it, the American Veterans' association was founded last September in Chattanooga, Tenn. Silas Williams, an attorney of that city, is the national president.

12,000 Members in 50 Chapters.

From the original 100 men who formed the initial chapter, the association has grown to fifty chapters in various parts of the country, with a total membership of approximately 12,000.

This association took the initiative in the recent fight for President Roosevelt's economy bill, and has passed resolutions against payments for nonservice connected disability. It is bending its efforts, Reigeluth said in a statement issued yesterday, to fighting the veterans' lobbies in Washington and is attempting to nullify effects of the boycotts against commercial enterprises whose heads have supported the movement for economy, "which boycotts have become malicious in certain parts of the country."

"This association," the statement read, "stands for the precepts of the American Legion as originally adopted. A part of the membership of our association consists of ex-Legionnaires. These see in the organization an agency by which they hope to remove the stigma attached to the name of veteran."

Fight Bonus Demands.

During the recent flurry in Washington, when certain elements of the American Legion bombarded congress with 15,000 telegrams advocating payment of the bonus, the new association filed a counter barrage, in support of the efforts toward national economy and with regard to the depleted national treasury.

Henry F. Tenney, Chicago attorney, is one of the local veterans interested in the association who has devoted some time to gathering a group of similar minded former service men to consider formation of a Chicago chapter.

30 Killed, 100 Injured in Colombian Railway Wreck

BOGOTA, Colombia, April 10.—(AP)—More than 30 persons were killed and 100 injured last night in the greatest railroad wreck disaster Colombia has suffered, dispatches from the town of Ventaquemada said today.

UPHOLDS PRISON TERM FOR MANN, EAGLE OFFICIAL

Appeals Court Rules in Lottery Case.

New York, April 10.—(AP)—Conrad H. Mann, president of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce and high official of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, must serve a prison term for conducting a lottery, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today in affirming his conviction.

The court affirmed the conviction of Mann, Frank E. Hering, editor of the Eagles Magazine, and Bernard C. McGuire, a professional promoter, on charges of conspiracy, but reversed conviction on a charge of shipment of lottery tickets in interstate commerce.

Prison Sentence Unchanged.

Assistant United States attorney said the Circuit court decision leaves unchanged the prison sentences of a year and a day for McGuire, five months for Mann and four months for Hering. Reversal of the interstate commerce charge, he said, will operate only to reduce the fines of Mann and McGuire from $11,000 to $10,000.

Mann, as head of the Eagles' department of bazaars and fairs, and Hering, a former professor and a trustee of Notre Dame university, were accused of conspiring with McGuire to promote a series of charity frolics, the tickets for which entitled the holders to participate in a national distribution of $75,000.

The government charged that $1,759,273.69 was taken in and that "not one cent went to charity." The defense denied this.

The government alleges Mann divided $460,000 with McGuire as profit, Hering getting a third of Mann's share.

Judge Manton Dissents.

The opinion of the Court of Appeals was written by Circuit Judge Chase. Judge Manton dissented. Judge Manton concurred in the majority opinion reversing the interstate commerce conviction. This conviction was based on the charge that the defendants had caused to be received at Middletown, N. Y., by George Finn a book of 32 tickets. This conviction was set aside on the ground that proof was lacking that the three had caused Finn to receive the book of tickets.

In his dissenting opinion, Judge Manton expressed the opinion the jury should not have been called upon to give a verdict in the case of Hering.

PLAYING COWBOY WITH GUN FATAL TO MAN AGED 63

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, April 10.—Playing cowboy with a revolver led to the death of Jack Wilbur on his 63rd birthday.

"I used to be a cowboy," he said, twirling a gun on his fingers during a drinking party in honor of his birthday.

"And I used to be a cowgirl," said Mrs. Emma Swift, native woman, taking the gun from him and whirling it on her finger.

The gun went off and the shot entered Wilbur's stomach. He died an hour afterward. Before dying he told officers it was an accident.

ASK SUPREME COURT FOR EARLY RULING ON SALES TAX CASE

Springfield, Ill., April 10.—[Special.]—Efforts to bring about a speedy final test of the Illinois state retail sales tax were begun today when attorneys in the Madison county case joined in filing with Supreme Court Clerk Bloch a motion to hear an appeal during the present or April term.

The case probably will be taken up by the court tomorrow if the motion for expedition is granted. The attorneys joining in the plea are Montgomery S. Winning, special assistant attorney general for the state, and the five attorneys who last Saturday obtained the injunction against the tax from Circuit Judge Jesse R. Brown at Edwardsville.

They include State Representatives Leroy M. Green of Rockford and I. H. Streeper III. of Alton, former Representative Frank G. Thompson of Mount Vernon and Roscoe Forth of Granite City.

"Hello Everybody!"

BEFORE YOU KNOW IT, they will be here . . . friends, relatives, coming to Chicago for the Century of Progress. They will call on you—perhaps stay at your home. Prepare now to receive them.

Get Ready for the Century of Progress

Jot down the jobs you want to have done—the new things you intend to buy in preparation for your Century of Progress visitors. Don't overlook the "things electrical" that will help so much to dress up your home, lighten your work and give you more time for entertaining your guests.

A few new electric appliances make a wonderful difference. New lamps for beauty. An electric refrigerator to help in the kitchen. A new electric clock to give accurate time. A new radio to provide entertainment. An electric mixer to aid in food preparation. And new electric outlets on your walls to give you the full convenience of electricity.

Rent Your Spare Room

Have your spare room ready . . . comfortable and attractive for your guests. After they have gone, you can rent it—there will be thousands of people looking for rooms this summer . . . and yours can earn you a profit.

Remember, there is no time to lose in getting ready—the Century of Progress opens June 1. Call in the workmen who can do the jobs you want done. Start shopping now. You will be creating employment for Chicago people—stimulating business for Chicago merchants—helping yourself, your neighbor and your city.

Electric appliances will be found at dealers throughout the city and at the Big Buying in Detroit

● WHETHER women do 80% of all buying may be a question. That they are a tremendously important factor is no question. It is not enough for a newspaper to assert that "it reaches women readers." There remains the all-important business of proving it. Statements without proof are mere rumors. Facts, not rumors, are all-important.

The Detroit Free Press asserts that it reaches women readers in Detroit in impressive volume . . . that these readers are buyers . . . that they are now creating imposing sales records for advertisers who go after their business.

Now to the proof. In 1932, Detroit women took enough time from their daily household duties to sit down in the quiet of their own homes and write 445,213 letters to the editors of the Free Press. Do they read the Free Press? They do. Get that figure again. 445,213 responses . . . an editorial "comeback" exceeded by only two other newspapers in all America.

Now, how do we know these women represent purchasing power? Taking the factors of automobile sales; electric refrigerator sales; sales made by important chain store groups; radio set ownership; drug store sales; income tax returns, etc., we know that twenty-five out of thirty-six districts in Detroit represent approximately four-fifths of all the purchasing power in the city. We know that in these twenty-five districts the circulation of the Free Press is equivalent to a coverage of two out of three homes . . . that 88% of the entire city circulation of the Free Press is concentrated in these districts.

As to sales records, we know that ten of the leading women's wear advertisers in Detroit are NOW concentrating 58% of their linage in the Free Press . . . which they would not do unless the Free Press was demonstrating its sales making ability in a superior manner.

In few American markets, can you find such a happy combination of factors that demonstrate beyond question the utility and value of a newspaper, as are marshaled and made available by the Free Press. This is no year to "guess" at markets or mediums. The Free Press has proof of its power to produce . . . and can demonstrate it to you . . . not alone on the basis of any past performance, but in terms of the PRESENT,

A PREMIUM FOR TAX DODGING.

On behalf of tax strikers, tax dodgers, and other tax delinquents an effort is being made to get a new law passed in Springfield. At considerable expense to those property owners who fell for the racket and at much greater expense to the community the state and federal courts were asked to declare that the Chicago tax strike had its justification in existing law. The cases were appealed through the state Supreme court to the United States Supreme court. The strikers lost all along the line. Now that it is certain that the strike had no legal basis the strikers propose to get one by having a new law passed.

The proposed law would give to the county judge the right to review assessments of 1928, 1929, and 1930 where objections had been raised by the property owners. The judge would be authorized to take evidence on the value of properties as of those years and to use his discretion in fixing the true values.

The proposal is grossly unfair. A majority, though year by year a dwindling majority, of property owners have paid their taxes, though it has meant in many instances the most severe privation to do so. If this law is enacted those who have paid will be told that their good citizenship and their sacrifice were not appreciated. They will discover that they would have profited from refusing to meet their tax obligations. Those who joined the strike will under this law be in a position to obtain substantial reductions in assessments and meanwhile they have enjoyed the use of their tax money. If this bill is enacted it is difficult to believe that future collections will continue at even the present pace, for property owners will have been given a clear demonstration that it pays not to pay.

It is time that some consideration be given to those in this community who have not whined and have not dodged their duties as citizens and property owners. The revenue problem is still a long way from solution and there is reason to think that collections are getting worse rather than better. Under those circumstances to penalize tax paying and encourage tax evasion is to invite catastrophe.

The legislature should ignore the organized tax dodgers.

A VISIT TO THE EXPOSITION MADE EASY.

The announcement of the railroads that they will not only make special rates for transportation to and from the Century of Progress Exposition but provide for accommodations and service for patrons while visiting the city is good news not only to the exposition management and all interested in the success of the fair but to the general public. The plan permits a visitor to provide himself with all accommodations from his home station back again. He may purchase transportation, hotel accommodations, transfer from the station to his hotel, admission to the fair grounds, and a sightseeing tour in the city. He will be met at the station by agents who will give him whatever direction and information are wanted to avoid mistakes and to make his stay satisfactory. He can make his own choice of hotels and rates will be fixed and moderate.

This service, with substantial reduction in fares, will certainly appeal to the public intending to include the exposition in their vacation plans. It avoids all fears of inconvenience and unexpected expense.

Also as an evidence of reviving initiative in railroad management it is encouraging to all who wish to see the railroads restored to the place they ought to occupy as the principal agency of the nation's transportation.

ONE LONG CHRISTMAS FOR THE PHILIPPINES.

President Roosevelt has named Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit to be governor general of the Philippines and therein lies more than can immediately meet the eye. So many purposes might be served by this appointment that no one could be sure which one was sought. Michigan complimented Mr. Roosevelt by giving him its electoral votes and he may feel that a testimonial from a Republican state deserves a favor of signal import and substantial body. For this reason alone he might relieve Detroit by offering Mr. Murphy a new field for his talents in administration.

The Detroit mayor made his city the most interesting fiscal exhibit in the country. Mr. Murphy in communications to THE TRIBUNE denied that he or the city's debts had anything to do with the predicament of the Detroit banks, but the consequences had been charted long in advance. The end had been foreseen. Mr. Murphy was the unusual victim of accurate predictions.

Detroit may dissemble its joy and yet have a warm spot in its affections for the President. In the Philippines Mr. Murphy will encounter the precedents established for him by Mr. Wilson's governor general, Francis Burton Harrison. Mr. Harrison's sympathy for native aspirations was so bounteous and good natured that after his departure years of prudent administration were needed to put things back in shape. The precedent will offer Mr. Murphy some competition but no doubt he will be equal to it.

What effect he will have upon the question of Philippine independence cannot be conjectured nor can it be known what effect he is intended to have. He may persuade the islanders that liberty at any cost is the only thing worth while in the world or he may convince them that their happiness is all bound up in their American connections, with Mr. Murphy as Santa Claus at the perennial Christmas tree.

DIVORCE LAW REFORMS.

Two bills introduced by Senator R. V. Graham and now pending in the state senate should have the active support of the press and public opinion. They are intended to liberalize existing divorce laws in accord with present conceptions of social welfare and to correct the scandalous abuse of alimony.

As Senator Graham, who is far from radical in his theories of marriage, points out, our present legal grounds for divorce were fixed sixty years ago. In this period social conditions have been greatly changed and experience has disclosed serious evils arising through a narrowness and rigidity of the laws governing divorce and marital relations which conflict with present conceptions of justice and morality. Restrictions upon the dissolution of the marriage bond which offend these conceptions result in evasions which are as injurious to the individuals concerned as to the social health of the community. They give rise to subterfuges and injustices demoralizing to the law and to private conduct and result often in the very evils they are intended to prevent.

Also the law and procedure as to alimony are creating a recurrent public scandal and need a thorough reform. Alimony has become a racket, exploited by unscrupulous women and lawyers. The depression has accentuated this evil which keeps in jail victims who are in no way responsible for their inability to pay the exactions while the fear of unjust penalties is used for blackmail.

These conditions are well known to the bar and judiciary and leading lawyers and judges support Senator Graham's measures of relief. It is hoped the assembly will realize the need for this reform and take favorable action at this session.

A DESIRABLE SANITARY MEASURE.

Both houses of the assembly have passed a measure to make mandatory the washing of the eyes of new born infants with a mild solution of silver nitrate. This practice, if generally enforced, will, in the opinion of medical men and social workers, prevent a great deal of preventable blindness. A similar measure was vetoed by Gov. Emmerson and this bill is opposed by Christian Scientists on the ground that it is an invasion of medical liberty. Its advocates contend that it is a reasonable and much needed measure of public sanitation and this undoubtedly will be the view of the general public, which certainly has a substantial interest in limiting the social consequences of unsanitary conditions and habits. The Christian Scientist may think the use of the nitrate ineffacious and unnecessary, but it cannot be argued that it will have any injurious physical effect upon the infants treated. Certainly the measure should not fail to receive the governor's approval because of dogmatic objections raised to a measure of sanitary precaution.

STERILIZING IOWA'S UNFIT.

[Des Moines Register.]

Four years ago the Iowa legislature adopted a comprehensive sterilization law, the fairness and humaneness of which has not been seriously questioned. It provided that a board of nine, composed of the state health commissioner and the heads of the psychopathic hospital at Iowa City and seven state institutions, should regularly examine defectives reported by themselves or the wardens of the penitentiaries and reformatories.

These defectives are allowed counsel and witnesses in the manner of a regular legal hearing, and if they are then found by the board to be permanently feebleminded, syphilitic, insane, epileptic, criminal, degenerate, or a menace to the state, and likely to procreate children inheriting any of these traits, their sterilization may be ordered.

To fully protect the individual's rights the law requires the consent of the defective to the operation if he is capable, or the consent of his guardian or nearest kin if he is not. If that consent is denied the case goes to a District court as an ordinary civil action, with the customary privileges and right of appeal to the Supreme court for both parties.

It is still mistakenly assumed by many people, however, that sterilization involves removal of sound organs and "unsexes" the individual. Neither of these assumptions is true. It consists merely of an internal operation preventing parenthood, and the records of California's 6,000 sterilizations reveal that it has made for happy married life in hundreds of homes.

That sterilization is generally approved by the relatives of defectives is demonstrated by the single legal action that has resulted from 368 applications of the law in Nebraska. And the constitutionality of the measure is beyond dispute since Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States Supreme court ruled that it is much better if, instead of "waiting to execute degenerate offspring for crime or letting them starve for their imbecility, society can prevent those who are manifestly unfit from continuing their kind."

But despite an increase of Iowa's feeble-minded and epileptic population in the last 28 years by 20 times the population increase for the whole state, and despite our growing expenditures of hundreds of thousands of dollars upon this defective class, our sterilization law has not been made to work.

The principal obstacle appears to be the large and unwieldy character of the examining board of eugenics. To correct this fault there is now a movement afoot to amend the law and reduce the board to three members, consisting of the head of the psychopathic hospital, the commissioner of public health, and a member of the board of control selected by the latter board itself. Other minor changes might facilitate the application of the present law, but at least this is the most obviously necessary one.

It is not going to be long until, in sheer self-defense, society is going to apply sterilization diligently to its patent degenerates. The sooner we in Iowa begin it effectively, the sooner we will stop the awful increase in the part of our society that menaces the health and safety of the majority, and the sooner we will decrease the terrific expenditures for their care in relief and institution funds.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"CHEMIST FINDS LEGAL BEER Only 2.8 Per Cent Alcohol."—Headline. Astounding! Likewise absurd! We won't believe it. After trying a dozen glasses or so of beer we were willing to go on record that there wasn't a drop of alcohol in a barrel of it. But of course the chemist knows and if he says the 3.2 per cent beer contains 2.8 per cent alcohol it must be so, but, goodness gracious, who would have thought it? Who would even have remotely suspected it?

AND SINCE THE 3.2 per cent is really only 2.8 per cent, we are recalling the invitations to our beer party and arranging for a buttermilk party instead. People should really be able to sing "Sweet Adeline" on buttermilk as well as they could on two and eight-tenths per cent beer.

BUT IF ANY of our guests act quarrelsome or start breaking things after a few rounds of buttermilk we will stop right there and insist on their drinking nothing more except the 2.8 per cent beer. We certainly wouldn't like to have any guests in our house stagger out into the night and get a headline in the papers next morning, "Crazed by Buttermilk, Prominent Social Leader Climbs Flagpole and Refuses to Descend," or "Buttermilk Drunkard Insists He Is Abyssinian Wart Hog and Breaks Way Into Lincoln Park Zoo." No, perhaps after all buttermilk is a bit too strong right after the long dry spell. We shall try sarsaparilla or lemon pop.

AND WE UTTERLY FAIL to see why the postoffice department ordered beer not to be served in its restaurants. If its alcoholic content is what the chemists say we are going to use it for a gargle and feed it to the canary. And it might make a nice hair tonic.

A HYMN OF LIFE.

Come, lift up your heavy heads,—
These gates be everlasting;
Put ye off your mourning robes,
And cease ye from your fasting.

For all the old and broken things
Are fallen down and dying;
But hark and ye shall surely hear
Something newborn crying!

Quit you like the highly brave
Who cast off foolish fearing,—
You shall hear all vanished things
On silver wings come whirring.

You shall see all once lost things
In April's rain returning,
As you now see in wood and field
The waste of winter burning.

For winter bows a beaten head,
And all its death is passing;—
Out along the running streams
The troops of life are massing.

Even where our loved ones sleep
The greenest grass is growing:—
Know ye not that grain shall rise
If there be careful sowing?

Know ye not that all the dead
Like grass will soon be starting?—
There never could be sweet return
Without a little parting.

There could never be a time of joy
Without a day of sorrow,—
One rose on an Easter morn
And all will rise tomorrow.

ABORIGINE.

"TEACH 1,500 COWS to Come and Go by Traffic Lights."—Headline. That's fine; we're certainly getting on. Because if they can teach common, every day, barnyard cows to stop on the red light and go ahead on the green light then why cannot motorists be taught? Yes, and even pedestrians!

AND HORRIBLE THOUGHT! If it takes a considerable time for beer to get back its old fashioned kick, what about whisky? We used to have fifteen year old whisky to drink. Now, will we have to wait fifteen years from the time the sacred 18th is repealed until we can have nice smooth old bourbon and rye? However, as folks have been getting along during the dry spell on bootlegger hootch which was not fifteen years old, no, nor even fifteen days old and usually not over fifteen minutes old, probably they can worry along on legal whisky that is just a tiny little bit raw. And, of course, there is the imported likker, though certain unpleasant happenings during the Volstead period made us just a little dubious in believing all we read on the beautifully colored labels of the imported whiskies. However, we hope that some day our old innocent trusting nature will return.

IT REALLY ISN'T such a bad idea to send Franklin Delano's forestry recruits to army camps for the first two weeks. After fourteen days of being routed out of bed by the bugle horns blowing reveille and being yelled at by shavetails to "stand at 'tention an' learn to salute yer 'sperior officer," planting acorns all day on a bleak mountainside will seem a positive pleasure.

Raised by his wits above.
And yet he was solemn and lonely,

GOITER AND PELLAGRA BELT.

A SCIENTIST has recently called attention to certain peculiarities of goiter and pellagra.

There is a well developed goiter belt, within which there is an undue prevalence of troubles of the thyroid gland. Some of the people with thyroid trouble have a marked deficiency of the secretion of these glands. If this grade of deficiency occurs in early childhood physical and mental growth is stunted and the affected person is known as a cretin. If it develops in adult life it causes a condition known as myxedema, in which disorder there is mental and physical torpor, as well as other symptoms.

A more frequently encountered abnormality is the anatomic goiter, the moderate sized neck growth seen in growing children. Another variety found, especially in adults, is that which causes protrusion of the eyeballs. This goes by the name of exophthalmic goiter. This type seems to be more nearly related to myxedema than it is to the other forms of goiter which cause the neck to swell. Then there is the very harmful variety called toxic goiter, in which there are extreme nervousness, nervous heart, high metabolic rate, and other symptoms.

These forms of goiter and some others not mentioned abound in the goiter belts and are rare elsewhere. In these belts it has been found that the drinking waters and foods customarily used are poor in iodine. Furthermore, it is accepted that goiter is decreasing wherever there is some addition of iodine in some form or other to the food or drink.

There are other regions that go by the name pellagra belts. The people who have pellagra have a peculiar type of skin eruption, burning tongue, disturbances of digestion, and certain mental disorders. The commonly accepted theory is that people develop pellagra because they habitually eat foods deficient in certin vitamins. There are pellagra belts because the custom is to eat less than the system requires of the protective foods.

The peculiarity referred to is that the goiter belt is not the pellagra belt, and vice versa. If one makes a map of North America, on which the goiter areas are colored black and the remainder of the country is left white, it may be used also as a pellagra map if to the legend is added "the white is the pellagra belt."

If further investigation proves this to be a fact the explanation will not be easy to find. What is there that causes goiter and, at the same time, operates to protect against pellagra? The relation of iodine to goiter is accepted, but no one has ever suggested a way in which it could be related to pellagra. It may be that pellagra is related to exposure to sunlight, but how can that be tied in with goiter, either as a protection against it or the other way? Pellagra is usually thought to be the result of poverty, undernourishment, or dietary deficiency, particularly in regard to one vitamin. But how is that to be connected up with iodine in the water and food, or with any of the forms of goiter? Or, is the peculiar relation of the goiter belt to the pellagra belt merely a coincidence with no causal relationship?

BE MODERATE.

Mrs. M. L. E. writes: 1. Should a person with high blood pressure eat veal or lamb? Cake made of many eggs? Cheese?

2. Is there any help or cure for protruding bladder in a woman?

REPLY.

1. Many persons with high blood pressure should regulate their diet, though that is not the principal factor in treatment. All such should eat meat and eggs in moderation, but it is not necessary to eliminate them from the diet. Veal, lamb, and cheese are about on a par.

2. There is no cure except operation. That is not often advisable. Mechanical support helps somewhat. Many elderly persons have considerable prolapse of the lower bowel and the other pelvic organs. Their tissues are deficient in elasticity and tone.

THERE ARE EXCEPTIONS.

C. R. J. writes: Will a Wasserman or Kahn test prove whether or not one has syphilis?

REPLY.

Yes, although there are exceptions. These tests do not prove the disease to be active. They do prove that infection occurred and eradication is not complete.

COURT PROCEEDINGS STARTED.

Chicago, April 4.—[Friend of the People.]—This is the second request I am making to wreck the cement walls next to us on Avenue L. A few weeks ago the wind knocked over the front half of the walls. If any children had been around they would have been crushed to death. Please see what can be done to remove this hazard. P. V.

After inspections of the premises the owner was notified by this department to put walls in good and safe condition, or wreck. Upon his failure to comply the matter has been placed in the law department for prosecution. JOHN E. ERICSSON, Commissioner of Buildings.

UNPAID TAXES.

Chicago, April 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In October, 1931, my brother bought my taxes on a tract of land in Will county. The taxes were of that year and two months delinquent. 1. He told me the only way in which they could be paid was for him to buy them in. Is that true? 2. In reply to my inquiry with regard to redeeming them next month they (tax collectors) stated I would have to pay interest at the rate of 36 per cent besides office fees and other expenses. My brother doesn't want any interest. 3. Will buyer of taxes get 36 per cent interest? If not, what rate does he get? Is 36 per cent a uniform rate sanctioned by law, or is there no law specifying the minimum or maximum rate of interest tax collectors can charge for nonpayment of taxes? S. M.

1. We see no reason why he could not have paid them instead.

2. The legal rate is 12 per cent each six months. It seems probable that you have misunderstood. You can get a written estimate for redemption by paying for it.

3. See 2.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BANKRUPTCY.

Princeton, Ill., April 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please inform me as to (1) the cheapest way to enter bankruptcy. I have been told it costs $150. I haven't the money. Could I get a blank, fill it out, and have it published without the aid of an attorney? 2. If so, where? R. F. F.

1. You can have court costs released by filing a pauper affidavit. If you contemplate trying to dispense with the services of an attorney we suggest that you first examine the files of a similar proceeding in the office of the clerk of the United States District court.

2. The petition and schedules should be filed in the office of the clerk of the United States District court. Ordinarily it is advisable to employ an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 11, 1917.

BUENOS AIRES.—The government issued a declaration that it supported the position of the United States regarding Germany. Earlier reports from the night cabinet council were that Argentina would declare for neutrality.

RIO DE JANEIRO.—At a cabinet council it was decided that Brazil should sever relations with Germany. The declaration was made known to the public through bulletins posted throughout the city and caused a great sensation. Enthusiastic crowds marched through the streets and the university students organized pro-ally demonstrations. Some of the newspapers say that high officers of the army assert that the military mobilization of Argentina will follow that of Brazil.

CHICAGO.—The most immediate and pressing duty of the country, if a food famine is to be prevented in the United States and the people and armies of our allies abroad are to be fed, is vastly to increase the acreage of spring wheat planted in the great agricultural states of the northwest. With these facts in mind THE TRIBUNE sent the following telegram to the governor of each of the states which are large producers of spring wheat: "Food riots and partial famine at home and defeat abroad are threatened by crop failure in the United States. What is your state doing to increase the yield? Colorado has created a state council to provide farmers with money, labor, tractors for plowing, and good seeds. State enterprise will alone save the food supply for America and the world. We appeal to the patriotism of the great northwest. Immediate action absolutely necessary as less than a month remains to get wheat into the ground. Please wire answer, as country is waking up to the food crises."

OTHER WAR NEWS—Chile decided to remain neutral. Argentina is expected to take same stand, but considers attitude of United States just. Martial law was declared in Guatemala. London reports further gains on Vimy ridge, east and southeast of Arras. Eleven thousand prisoners and much loot were taken during the last two days. Paris reports heavy artillery but no infantry actions. Berlin denies British have pierced their lines. Petrograd reports continued advances against the Turks in the Caucasus and the capture of two more towns. The British report the capture of a point fifty miles northwest of Bagdad. A German attempt to advance in Macedonia was repulsed. Paris reports.

CHICAGO.—Federal grand jury investigation of the phenomenal jumps taken by grain prices on the Chicago Board of Trade in the last two weeks will begin today. The government wants to know whether concerted action of six of the largest grain operators was the cause of the large fortunes which they amassed by the record leaps in the prices of corn, wheat and oats. Thirty-five subpoenas have been issued directing as many brokers to turn over information regarding the trades of the following: J. Ogden Armour, James A. Patten, William Martin, Adolph J. Lichtstern, Arthur W. Cutten, and Armour Grain company.

CHESTER, Pa.—One hundred and twelve persons, most of them women and girls, are known to have lost their lives and 121 were injured by a series of explosions today in the shrapnel building of the Eddystone Ammunition corporation at Eddystone, one mile from this city, a firm engaged in making war munitions for the allies.

RUSSIA AS AN ALLY.

RIGA, Latvia, March 21.—In the Voice of Feb. 27 was published a letter signed by Mr. A. J. Gibbons, who suggested that the United States "let up on Russia" and "play Russia against Japan as the next step toward avoiding a naval battle with the latter." I am sure a great many Americans have the mistaken impression that the bolshevik government in Moscow is a potential ally against Japan, and as a newspaper man who has been carefully watching developments in Russia for fourteen years I feel competent to reply to Mr. Gibbons' question.

Russia lost the war with Japan because her sole means of communication with the front was a single track railroad through Siberia. The soviet government has not yet succeeded in improving transport through Siberia, and, although she has already concentrated an army of 200,000 men east of Lake Baikal and has fairly large quantities of munitions stored there, she is not going to risk a war with Japan for many years to come. I can also assure Mr. Gibbons that even if the conflict he suggests should develop, America could not depend upon Russia for any valuable aid. Russia, of course, foresees the day when she will have an her war with Japan and has planned the erection of munition industries in the Urals and construction of another railroad through Siberia. As things are now developing these projects will be completed by another generation of Russians, not the present one.

As for a future coöperation between bolshevism and the United States, the history of Moscow's political and economic relations with the Baltic States, Poland, Germany, Great Britain, and other countries reveals Moscow has consistently broken agreements and that her promises are not worth the paper they are written on. If the soviet government has not yet defaulted on the larger credits which she has obtained it is only because she realizes that such action would stop all credits.

Of the fifty or more German firms which obtained concessions in Russia following Berlin's recognition of bolshevism only one remains. It is Krupp's agricultural concessior, which grows seeds which Russia c.. ot do without. The Gay Pay Ou frame-up against the British firm of Metropolitan Vickers is a fair example of what awaits American firms and Americans in Russia.

DONALD DAY.

GREGARIOUS ASH COLLECTORS.

Chicago, April 5.—Yesterday the ash collectors came through our alley [Thirty-seventh ward]. There were eight men besides the driver and a straw boss. Even granting the necessity for working fast to keep the truck operating at maximum efficiency, there were at least four or five too many men in this crew. They got in each other's way.

No wonder our taxes are high.

W. J. FRITZ.

FULL CIRCLE.

Oak Park, Ill., March 28.—It will be amusing when attending A Century of Progress, with its extremely modern buildings and exhibits, to see the ladies going around in fashions of forty years ago. The present styles are exactly what was worn at the World's Fair in 1893. The fashion designers certainly do not progress; they only ppy periods. The only thing they have modernized is the bathing suit, and that is not original, for didn't Eve wear a fig leaf?

OLD TIMER.

MAN'S CONQUEST OF THE AIR.

Chicago, April 6.—The letter published in this morning's TRIBUNE over the initials R. F. should not go unanswered because of the erroneous ideas and misconceptions of fact advanced therein.

Everything that was accomplished in the construction and the many successful flights of the Akron up to the last moment was most decidedly a step in the development of man's conquest of the air.

To prove that pioneering days in aviation are over and that it is no longer in its infancy, R. F. refers to the flight of Santos Dumont around the Eiffel tower in the year 1901. He might just as well have mentioned the flight made by Henri Giffard in 1852, half a century earlier than Dumont. This flight was made with a cigar shaped dirigible 145 feet in length, deriving its motive power from a three horsepower steam engine, and attained a speed of five miles per hour, but even that would not prove that the rigid type lighter-than-air craft is no longer in its infancy.

In my opinion the days of pioneering will not be over until we have arrived at some fixed standards as a basis for constructing rigid airships. As a matter of fact the Akron differed from all its predecessors in every respect except shape. It was the first to use the new noninflammable helium gas; first to have its motors installed inside the ship's hull instead of being suspended in cars outside; the first to have all its automatic gas valves on top; first to have the new type of frame with three keels or backbones instead of one; the first to have ballast recovery devices; the first to have an airplane hangar in its hull and to carry a fleet of five two place fighting planes as part of its regular equipment; the first to—aw, what's the use. I could go on and on, far into the night. If this is not pioneering, what is?

R. F. asks what benefits are to be obtained by the further development of rigid aircraft of huge dimensions. They are many. Commercially, for instance, the Akron could have carried a pay load of ninety tons half way around the world in five days and never once have to come down for fuel.

As part of the scheme of national defense we need only look to the past. During the world war German Zeppelins bombed English towns two or three times a week. The Zeppelin saved the German navy from destruction in the battle of Jutland. The Zeppelin L-59 made a trip from Bulgaria across Egypt and the Sahara desert, carrying thirteen tons of ammunition and medical supplies for the relief of German troops besieged in German East Africa. R. F. will recall not so very long ago some Dutch sailors mutinied and took their battleship to sea; a dirigible with two or three bombs very easily persuaded them to surrender. Again I could go on and on.

We who are aeronautically inclined do not glory in the death of a pioneer, but in his accomplishments during life. We realize the significance and deeply mourn the loss of such pioneers as Admiral Moffett and his aids. But their unfortunate and untimely demise will not deter those who are devoting their physical and mental efforts for the greater development of the rigid type airship which, we maintain, is still in its infancy. Less than 160 such ships have been built in the whole world, and not one equal to the Akron.

R. F. says: "Let's use heavier-than-air equipment, tried and found true." Last week two large passenger airplanes were wrecked and twenty-one lives lost. If it wasn't tragic we might get a laugh out of R. F. CAPT. J. H. HEDLEY.

What a Market!

PROFITABLE sales in 1933 are being made in selected markets—markets where concentration of population, purchasing power and retail outlets make possible effective, economical selling.

The Philadelphia market meets present-day requirements at every point.

SIZE: 3rd in America, 891,430 Families

—3,746,253 people—more people than live in the cities of Detroit and Los Angeles combined.

SALES POTENTIAL: $1,826,000,000 in retail sales, according to the 1930 Census of Distribution, exceeding those of the cities of Detroit and Los Angeles combined. Retail outlets total 58,191, nearly twice as many as in the cities of Detroit and Los Angeles combined.

COVERAGE: Curtis-Martin Newspapers

alone provide the complete coverage which makes it possible to develop maximum sales in every part of the Philadelphia market. They reach and influence the buying judgment of more families in more homes than any other Philadelphia newspaper or combination of newspapers.

What a market! Today, more than ever before, Philadelphia beckons the manufacturer who knows that the secret of successful selling in 1933 is placing the weight of the advertising appropriation against the greatest potential for sales.

No one Philadelphia newspaper provides better than 50% coverage of the 891,430 families in Philadelphia and its A. B. C. suburbs. This leaves uncovered approximately 445,715 families—or 1,782,860 people—more people by 214,000 than live in the city of Detroit.

If you have been attempting to cover the great Philadelphia market with one newspaper, here is the answer to the deficiency between your actual and potential sales.

HENRY VAN DYKE, FAMOUS AUTHOR, DIES IN HIS SLEEP

Teacher, Preacher, and Diplomat, Too.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Princeton, N. J., April 10.—[Special.]—Dr. Henry Van Dyke, wartime ambassador of the United States to the Netherlands and Luxemburg, is dead. He was distinguished in education, literature, and religion. Death came as he slept today at Avalon, his home here. He had celebrated his eightieth birthday Nov. 10, 1932.

He had succeeded, as one of his friends said as "poet-critic-essayist-novelist, educator-lecturer-fisherman-pulpiteer," Dr. Van Dyke resigned his diplomatic post in 1917 so that he might say what he thought about the world war.

Holding degrees from several American universities, he also had been honored by Oxford and the University of Geneva. He was commander of the Legion of Honor, had been president of the National Institute of Arts and Letters, was moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in America in 1902 and 1903, and from 1900 to 1923 held the chair of English literature at Princeton university.

Author of Many Books.

Dr. Van Dyke was the author of many books. He edited others. As a lecturer he had appeared at the University of California, Yale, Harvard and the University of Paris.

Dr. Van Dyke's writings included: "The Reality of Religion," "The Story of the Psalms" (both before 1888); "The National Sin of Literary Piracy," "The Poetry of Tennyson," "Sermons to Young Men," "The Christ Child in Art," all up to 1894; thereafter, "Little Rivers," "The Other Wise Man," "Fisherman's Luck" (1899); "The Blue Flower," "Days Off," "Fighting for Peace" (1917); "The Valley of Vision" (1919), "Travel Diary of an Angler" (1929); "Gratitude," (1930). He compiled in 6 volumes "Little Masterpieces of English Poetry."

Born in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Van Dyke was born at Germantown, Pa., on Nov. 10, 1852. He was the son of the Rev. Henry Jackson and Henrietta Ashmead Van Dyke. He attended the Polytechnic institute of Brooklyn and was graduated in 1869. Four years later he received his bachelor of arts degree from Princeton and earned his master of arts degree there in 1876. One year later he was graduated from the Princeton Theological seminary.

He was ordained in the Presbyterian ministry in 1879 and immediately became pastor of the United Congregational church at Newport, R. I. He had previously spent two years in graduate study in Berlin, and had sought unsuccessfully a country pastorate. In 1883 he came to the Brick Presbyterian church of New York, served there until 1900, and again in 1902 and 1911.

In 1900 he accepted the Murray chair of English literature at Princeton and held it until his resignation in 1923. In 1908 and 1909 he was American lecturer at the University of Paris. When Woodrow Wilson was president of Princeton university he and Dr. Van Dyke became friends.

Cared for Refugees.

Dr. Van Dyke had scarcely entered on his diplomatic duties at The Hague when the assassination of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Hohenberg and the duchess consort precipitated the world war. Refugees rushed into Holland. With them came Americans striving to return to their homes. Dr. Van Dyke was active in their behalf. But in 1917 he resigned his post, feeling that he could no longer maintain the neutral rôle imposed upon him by his office.

Dr Van Dyke returned to America. He advocated this country's entrance into the war on the side of the allies. During this country's participation in the struggle he served as a chaplain in the navy.

After the armistice was signed Dr. Van Dyke returned to the quiet university life at Princeton.

Dr. Van Dyke was married to Ellen Reid of Baltimore on Dec. 13, 1881, and they had five children—Brooke, Tertius, Elaine, Paula and Katrina—all of whom survive him.

Duchess Gives Millions in Return for Prayers

FERROL, Spain, April 10.—(AP)—The Duquesa De La Conquista, 70 year old wealthy landowner, called her tenants together today and announced that she was donating all her properties to them on the sole condition they remember her in their prayers after her death. The gift is estimated to be worth many millions of pesetas. [The peseta is worth about eight and a half cents.]

Policeman Wm. Ludwig Dies in Maywood Home

Policeman William Ludwig, 45 years old, 1404 South 14th avenue, Maywood, died yesterday of heart disease in his home. He was vice president of the Forest Park Police Benevolent association. His widow and four children survive.

Walter Dunigan, Official of Rail Engineers, Dies

Cleveland, O., April 10.—(AP)—Walter E. Dunigan, 50, assistant general secretary and treasurer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, died today after an illness of six weeks.

Insurance Adjuster Shoots Himself to Death in Auto

Edwin J. Bergstrom, 40 years old, an adjuster for the Aetna Life Insurance company, shot and killed himself yesterday in his automobile a mile southeast of Lyons in the Joliet road. His body was found on the back seat, a pistol in his right hand. Bergstrom's widow, Pearl, told police he left his home at 3122 South Oak Park avenue, Berwyn, at noon, in good spirits. Letters from creditors found in his pockets led police to believe he was despondent over finances.

Health Week for Illinois Is Proclaimed by Horner

Springfield, Ill., April 10.—(AP)—Proclaiming the week beginning next Sunday as health week, Gov. Horner today said preventive measures are necessary to maintain the present high standard of public health. "Definite programs and conscious effort based upon sound, scientific principles are necessary to protect and promote community and individual health," the governor said. "These things may not be left safely to chance and accident."

15 ARE KILLED AS STORMS HIT EAST GREENLAND

[Copyright; 1933; By the New York Times.]

COPENHAGEN, April 10.—Severe weather in East Greenland, the territory which the world court recently ruled belonged to Denmark in a dispute with Norway, has resulted in 15 deaths, it became known here today.

Gunnar Anderson, a Danish radio operator employed by the Nanok Commercial company at what is asserted to be the world's northernmost radio station, perished while attempting to return to Walrus peninsula with bearskins.

A young nurse, Miss Roos, went skiing last Friday evening in Angmagsalik fjord and never returned. Her ski stick was found on an ice floe. The Reykjavik trawler Skulifogeti grounded in the night off Reykjanes, Iceland, in a blizzard. Owing to the weather it was impossible to locate the trawler until morning, when rescuers saved 24 of the crew with a life line. Thirteen drowned.

TRIBUNE BOAT BRINGING PAPER PASSES DETROIT

The steamer New York News, which left Port Colborne on Lake Erie with 1,319 tons of newsprint paper for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE early Saturday, passed Detroit at 10 o'clock last night on its way to Chicago. The voyage inaugurates the lake season for THE TRIBUNE'S fleet.

Time of arrival is uncertain, as ice conditions in the Straits of Mackinac may slow down the vessel's progress or even halt it for a time.

The other boats of the fleet, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, with 3,098 tons and the Thorold with 1,327, are loaded and are expected to leave Port Colborne for Chicago today.

Puts Special Meaning Into 1933 Passover

Rabbi Points to Conditions in Germany.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

When Jews of Chicago and of the world over last night sat down before their Passover feasts, known as Seders, they were keeping alive ideals of social and cultural importance not only to themselves but to the world at large.

The Seder was described as a home feast by Rabbi Abraham Elman of the Hebrew Theological college, Douglas boulevard and St. Louis avenue, last night. He joined Rabbi H. Goldstein and his family at the home of the latter, 3538 Douglas boulevard, in the traditional rites. While seated at the table and garbed in yarmilke and kitel or white robes and caps, the rabbis led the age old ritual in which is cradled ideals of civil and cultural liberties. The ancient feast is based on the deliverance of Israel from Egyptian bondage.

Rabbi Goldstein, spiritual leader of the First Roumanian congregation, speaking across a table laden with matzos, or unleavened bread, and blood red wine, the symbol of victory and deliverance, declared that revenge for their persecutors is not a part of Jewish nature. He said the very pouring out of wine in token of the ten plagues that beset the Egyptians before Israel was given freedom is a reminder that it is sin and not sinner that must be overcome.

This libation, Rabbi Goldstein said, also recalled the incomplete triumph of Israel. The victory was incomplete, he said, because it made others suffer, and wine was poured out in token that the Lord had charged that "my legions [the Egyptians] are sinking in the Red Sea" and protested against that loss of life by asking—"and you indulge yourselves in celebration?" This spirit, Rabbi Goldstein said, is constantly repeated in the Torah and demands that Jews be tolerant of all peoples.

The Passover season this year was also described by Rabbi Solomon Goldman, spiritual leader of Congregation Anshe Emet and chairman of Chicago's protest against Nazi persecution of the Jews in Germany, as being of even greater significance than usual because of German conditions. The Passover, said Dr. Goldman, is officially known as the season of our freedom, and added that ideals of human freedom, wherever conserved, have a way of flowing over racial or national boundaries to influence other peoples.

The feast comes out of dim antiquity and recalls Israel's flight from Egyptian slavery. In American tradition, the War of the Revolution is comparable in its social and political influence on Americans to the Passover on world-wide Jewry, Rabbi Goldman declared. The famous Liberty bell in Independence hall which pealed the news of American independence, he said, carried ideals which had been uttered in such words as "taxation without representation is tyranny." On the bell itself, said Rabbi Goldman, is a Hebrew inscription:

"And ye shall proclaim liberty unto all its inhabitants."

"This proclamation," said Dr. Goldman, "usually was made in connection with the 'year of jubilee' which was closely tied up with the ideals conserved in the Passover. The ideal of liberty thus proclaimd had special reference to human slavery, and in the American struggle to free the slave Hebrew ideals were constantly invoked by abolitionist leaders."

Dr. Goldman cited John Adams as being profoundly influenced by Hebrew anti-slavery thought which had been kept alive in the Passover. He quoted Abraham Lincoln also as being "biblical in his arguments against the institution of slavery."

"Abraham's Lincoln's second inaugural address," said Rabbi Goldman, "was representative of the highest Hebrew prophetic ideals. Lincoln spoke of 'the national sense of sin,' and was aware that a whole people had been guilty of arrogance and persecution. By acknowledging this national sense of sin, Lincoln denied the claims of those who assert that the state cannot be wrong. Time and again Israel's prophets pleaded for national atonement when 'the whole people are in error'."

Princeton Seniors Don Beer Suits for Night of Celebration

Princeton, N. J., April 10.—(AP)—With perhaps a trifle more hilarity than they have shown in thirteen years, the Princeton university seniors donned the 1933 model beer suits for the first time tonight and proceeded to make use of them.

The suits, a Princeton tradition since 1912, are made of white duck and consist of coat and overalls. They were originally designed to protect the usual garments the graduating class wore from beer stains.

The first year prohibition went into effect the students added a touch of mourning to the attire by wearing black arm bands, which, however, they discarded in subsequent years.

Before the students left the campus tonight they were reminded of the university regulations against drunkenness and also told to bring no beer back with them.

Most of the students headed for historic Nassau inn, scene of many a memorable Princeton gathering in the past.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"Counsellor-at-Law," favorite drama of this country's large population of barristers, returned to Chicago last night for a week's stay at the Apollo theater. If my statistics are reliable it was the most popular play of last season in New York and Chicago; it established the long-run record of the year for this city; and its immunity to the effects of the depression has been a matter of interest to theatrical economists. All of which goes to establish the fact that the public has an almost insatiable curiosity about the inner workings of a law office.

The return of this piece invites comparison between Paul Muni and Otto Kruger—the former the original interpreter of Elmer Rice's hero, the latter Chicago's representative in the rôle during last season's long run. Mr. Muni now appears as the amiable George Simon, who flirted with disbarment proceedings but who was invariably good to his mamma and kind to the neighbors, to correct any false impressions that Mr. Kruger may have given, and to present the character in the authentic New York light.

I fear, however, that this is not my day for firm and uncompromising decisions. I liked Mr. Muni last night; I liked Mr. Kruger last spring; and although as counsellors they are quite different, I am unable to choose between them. If my admiration favors one as against the other, the difference of warmth could only be measured by the decimal system. I have an idea that Mr. Kruger's character study was a smarter lawyer and that Mr. Muni's is closer to the racial emotions behind the professional mask. I feel that Mr. Kruger would have won his cases according to the text, but that Mr. Muni is much more capable of the window jumping exploit of the last act.

But as I have an utter lack of faith in the existence of George Simon, no matter who may act that peerless advocate, my opinions of his interpreters are not to be taken seriously. Everything around him is as real as photography, from the gabbling telephone operator to the office boy with a taste for the testimony in assault cases, but George himself remains for me a mythological creature and a "Yoshe Kalb" of the bar.

The performance as a whole strikes me as better than last year's. The cast contains a number of veterans of the Chicago run in principal rôles, and others, doubtless, of New York training, in characters of less importance. Therefore the current visit of "Counsellor-at-Law" may be attended without apprehensions of a diminished zest in interpretation. Like "Of Thee I Sing," another celebrant of old-home theatrical week in Chicago, this organization is the real thing.

Anne Teeman is still the trim, secretly adoring private secretary; Dorothy Day is the diverting comedienne at the switchboard; Jenny Moscowitz is a perfect Mamma Simon, and Regina Wallace, new in the "Counsellor" tradition, is excellent as the hoity-toity wife. There are twenty-nine characters in this play, and none a single example of miscasting.

Presents Portrait of Julia Lathrop to Children's Bureau

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—A portrait of the late Julia Lathrop of Chicago, first chief of the children's bureau, was presented to the bureau here this afternoon by Mrs. Louis D. Brandeis, wife of Justice Brandeis of the United States Supreme court. The presentation ceremony was a tribute to Miss Lathrop, whose death occurred a year ago, and it was also a commemoration of the 29th anniversary of the creation of the bureau.

In presenting the portrait, Mrs. Brandeis referred to Miss Lathrop as one "whose wit and wisdom, and generous sympathy with human nature made her an inspiring leader," and who had "set standards in a new field which all her successors will find it difficult to follow."

C. H. Harrison Will Receive Honor Tonight

French Consul Will Present Legion Medal.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Tonight Carter H. Harrison, Chicago's five term mayor, will add another medal and another diploma to his already notable collection. At a dinner for 70 in the Parkway hotel, Mr. Harrison will be decorated with the five point white enamel cross of the French Legion of Honor and be presented with a diploma that designates his rank as a chevalier of the legion.

The French Consul General Rene Weiller will perform the ceremony, with the members of the Société des Uns [translated strictly "some people"] and the members of the Franco-American society as the witnesses. There will be among others Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Allais, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris, Gen. and Mrs. Frank Parker, and Hayden B. Harris, who only last week received the same award for his prominent work with the Franco-American society as well as the Alliance Français.

Mr. Harrison was awarded the cross because of his war record. For nine months during 1917 and 1918 he was captain of the Red Cross at Toul, directing the work of 14 hospitals that cared for 22,000 men. Also there will be cited this evening his work as one of the founders of the Alliance Francais [he is still a member of the board of directors] and the friendly feeling he indicated toward France during his post as mayor.

Mr. Harrison will not wear the other medals he has received in recognition of his military and civil services tonight. But Mrs. Harrison will wear the "palm academiques" and the gold disc of the young Emperor Bao-Dai of Annam. Both of these medals are French awards. The latter Mrs. Harrison received last November while traveling in France. Both she and Mr. Harrison have known the boy emperor since he was a child and she has written of his kingdom in French Indo-China. It is for her literary accomplishment that she was awarded the "palms" of the French academy.

Mr. Harrison is the 56th Chicagoan to be titled a "chevalier."

There have been eight "officers" elected from Chicago and among the chevaliers there are four women—Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Miss Clara Laughlin, Mrs. Noble Brandon Judah, and Miss Mary Garden.

Tonight after Mr. Harrison has received his red ribboned, white enameled cross to wear on state occasions and a small red ribbon for every day service there will be a concert by Alice d'Hermanoy and her husband, Charles Lauwers, John Ljsandrou, Lina Bertoss, and Miss Valentine Walter. Dr. Elzear La Mothe, president of the Société des Uns, will present the artists.

Augustabernard Puts a Shine on Black Lace Frock

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—In the general polishing that materials are getting this season, lace comes in for a share. Ciré and lacquer are being applied to all kinds of stuffs that Paris uses to make dresses for formal wear. There are even glazed ginghams and calicoes. Fine lace, either in silk or cotton, is in style for summer dresses that can be worn in the afternoon or evening, and when it has a high polish to its surface, it is all the more prized by fashionable women.

The way in which Augustabernard makes her lace frocks has particularly charmed the elegant woman here. She makes them severely simple, almost tailored, and eliminates all fluffiness and fussiness.

The dress in our sketch today is an Augustabernard model done in this way, and is made of black, glazed lace, over a mat crêpe foundation, which leaves only the extreme edge around the front of the neck in relief. The line of the neck is high in front and back, but there is a deep square of transparent lace at the back. There are short fitted lace sleeves, lined with crêpe, and the body of the frock is closely fitted to the midskirt, where it grows ample, but without flares. The skirt is ankle length.

A rope of the lace, padded with the crêpe marks a waistline that is at the top of the hips, and on the top of the right shoulder Augustabernard places a bow of pale blue satin ribbon.

Blouses Help Suit Season to Big Success

Lovely Materials Await Needle Wielders.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

They've practically outlawed intricate blouses, the kind of dizzily intricate things composed of ties, weird collar effects and funny necklines that didn't do a thing for any person who wore one. Now the decorative, simple models are getting all the spotlight.

Do you remember the sheer batiste blouses, that were positively delectable with your dark suits? Well, they have arrived with white and pastel tints and fine handwork as the 1933 features. You will find some peach tinted beauties, with hand worked bows appliqued down the center of the chest, some pale green affairs, likewise boasting of bits of hand-drawn work, and some stunning sheer white blouses, with a simple ruffled double jabot cascading down the front outlining a long narrow panel of fagoting.

And the price tags will cause you to buy them almost by the dozens. These are the blouses that can be worn with tweeds, dark and light colored wools, and even the dark "sheers" that will appear when the breezes are warmer. They are the good looking blouses that many a weary shopper has dreamed of and hoped for for weeks.

The shops and stores are showing some tiny silk checks made with high collars, tucked "dickey" fronts, and some even have masculine shirt-front tabs near the waistline—nice snappy numbers to wear with very severe street suits. They are tailored as well as anything your big brother wears.

If you wield a nimble needle you will be much interested in the bolts of colored cotton seersucker . . . bolts of the best colors any blouse collector ever hunted for . . . a lovely dove grey, a soft pale madonna blue and a stunning shade of old gold. The stuff is so good looking you scarcely dare to believe it is our old friend seersucker.

More ambitious "make your own sewers" use this colored seersucker for backless tennis frocks, or smartly designed summer street dresses, made with pockets, inverted pleated skirt and short sleeved blouses tops. Besides the plain colors, you will discover the checked, plaided and zigzagged stripes also of seersucker. Seersucker is probably the most versatile of summer cottons, and now is the time to start your home sewing.

New silk jersey, a soft and rather heavy ribbed silk, is being shown for shirt blouses, the simple styles with high necklines, turn-over collars and a chest pocket. You'll wear them with tweeds or an occasional knitted suit, and they are perfect with riding habits.

Lovely soft collars of yellow, peach, mint green, old blue and oyster white are always good, but the new squared checks and breezy plaids are as interesting and effective with suits as they are new and different.

Unquestionably, this suit season is being helped along because of the many blouse ideas that can be found either in blouse collections or among the bolts of new spring materials available in every store in town!

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE TWO SUSPECTS.

"Here's the note Stephens received," Inspector Kelley remarked, handing the professor a scrap of wrapping paper. "We've got two suspects here for questioning."

Fordney hastily read the following as Duke Copeland was shown into the inspector's office:

"yur girl ok. if you put muney in box as note told you, she be alrite. if not, then she dead, see?"

"Now, listen, Copeland," bellowed Kelley, "we've got you this time! We know you've been hanging around the Stephens' nursemaid for the last two months."

"My dear inspector," suavely responded Duke, "because of that you can't convict me of kidnaping!"

From the man's record Fordney knew, among other things, that he was 30, a college graduate, and an actor of sorts.

A sudden commotion in the corridor, angry voices, and the door of Kelley's office was thrust open by a man of medium build, his clothing tattered and his face unshaven. He was Baldy, the other suspect.

"You coppers ain't goin' to keep her here," he shouted. "I don't know a damn thing about the kid!"

At a nod from Fordney Copeland was dismissed.

"The handwriting experts say you wrote that note," bluffed Kelley.

"Then they lie," shouted the tramp. "Come on, we know you kidnaped the child!" bellowed the inspector.

"Dat's a lie, too!" shrieked the illiterate Baldy.

"Lock him up, sergeant," Kelley ordered, "until he decides to talk."

"Well," said Fordney while reviewing the case, "they might have pulled the job together. If so, it's apparent which one wrote the ransom note!"

Stress Work, Not Figures, in Fund Report

Final Laura Rockefeller Statement Issued.

New York, April 10.—[Special.]—A final report was issued today by the Laura Spellman Rockefeller memorial founded by John D. Rockefeller as a memorial to his wife and active from 1922 until 1929, when it was consolidated with the Rockefeller Foundation.

Starting with a capital of $74,000,000, the trustees spent $41,000,000 during its seven years of independent existence on social science and social technology, child study, and parent education, and the position of the Negro in American life. "The purpose of the final report," as stated in the opening pages, "is to give an account which will be concerned more with spirit and objectives than with statistics and financial statements."

Among the objectives which the memorial reports as achieved were providing the funds to enable social scientists to collect facts instead of speculating and to facilitate intercommunication between the long standing compartments of social science such as economics, political science, sociology, anthropology, etc., for which a synthesis is pronounced necessary.

The memorial undertook the development of 12 or 15 well rounded centers of social research throughout the world and reports that "definite accomplishment with such centers can be recorded in the United States, England, and Switzerland; and to a more limited degree in Germany, the Scandinavian countries, and Cuba."

"Two general scientific objectives were kept in mind," the report says. "The first was to increase for the scientist and scholar the possibilities of immediate personal observation of the social problems or social phenomena which were under investigation.

"The second scientific objective was to promote the study of social problems by the various academic departments in collaboration in the belief that the present categories in social science—economics, political science, sociology, anthropology, psychology—are essentially artificial and that their usefulness as a basis for social research is limited, and that a synthesis is necessary from which a new and more fruitful division of labor may be achieved."

Select Junior League Committee to Nominate Officers for Year

Annual Meeting and Luncheon Will Be Held at Inn at A Century of Progress.

BY JUDITH CASS.

To Mrs. Carleton Scribner, Miss Dorothy Schmidt, Miss Frances Weary, Miss Janet Ayer, and Miss Margaret Sinclair has been intrusted the important task of nominating a ticket to be presented to the Junior league members at their annual meeting next month. They may recommend the reëlection of the present officers if those efficient girls can be persuaded to direct the destinies of the fashionable club again or they may propose the names of a new lot.

The meeting and luncheon is to be held on May 8 at Old Heidelberg inn at A Century of Progress, and several important recommendations from the board are to be acted upon at the meeting as well as the election of officers. We understand that there is talk of their being a change in admitting a girl to membership in the league; instead of having to do eighty hours of charitable work she must do as much as possible and a limited number of those who have the most "hours" to their credit will become provisional members.

Just now interest of the leaguers is centered upon the work they are doing for A Century of Progress, publicizing the Enchanted island and planning the plays they will put on at the Children's theater on the island. One long play, "Peter Pan," will run the first three week-ends of May and the four week-ends of October. Four thirty minute plays will run four times a day on Saturdays only from May 27 to June 17, and from then until July 31 will play four times a day, three days a week.

"Cinderella," "The Birthday of the Infanta," "The Ordeal of Sir Gawayne," and "The Captivity of Eleanor Littell," a true story in the life of Mrs. John Kinzie, are the short plays that have been chosen by Mrs. Sherwood Platt, the league playreader.

Three Parties in Same Neighborhood.

A busy three hours yesterday afternoon trying to "take in" all three of the interesting affairs in the same neighborhood—the annual meeting of the Army Relief society, at 3 o'clock at the Casino, a tea at Mrs. Paul Walker's lovely apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue, for the board of the Red Cross, and a fashion showing and tea at the residence of Mrs. Walter B. Wolf at 209 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. William H. Hubbard presided at the Army Relief meeting, which was different from most annual meetings of organizations, for new officers were not elected and will not be until next fall. Mrs. Frank Parker, honorary president, reported that $3,901.15 was cleared by the ball given on Feb. 22 at the Army and Navy club, and Mrs. Harry H. Shearson made the electrifying report that in the seven years of its existence this branch has contributed $71,494.49 to the good work of the society.

This amount includes the $50,000 that was cleared by the military tournament three years ago. Some of the others at the meeting were Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Mrs. Arthur A. Small, Mrs. Bernard J. Mullaney, Mrs. Robert Peck, Mrs. William N. Pelouze, Mrs. Clifford Corbin, Mrs. William H. Burke, and Mrs. Charles Thuis.

Mrs. Walker was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Charles Garfield King and Mrs. Orville Taylor and during the short time this reporter was there the hostess' niece, Mrs. Stanley Zaring, presided at the coffee urn. The guests seemed to find the portable bar in the hall with its tall glasses of cool beer more attractive on such a sultry afternoon than the lace covered table in the dining room, laden with delectable sandwiches and cakes and decorated with a bowl of talisman roses and white freesia, silver candlesticks with silver candles and two exquisite Lalique figures.

It was thrilling to hear Mrs. King tell about the work the Red Cross workers are doing in these times of stress—15,000 garments made daily in the workroom at 616 South Michigan avenue and distributed to 4,800 persons a day through the distributing station at 330 South Market street. The workroom is to stay open all summer and Mrs. King says they will need more volunteer workers than ever, so plan to stop in there as often as possible and do your bit!

Drama League to Elect Officers.

The Chicago Drama league is to have another of its play readings at 10:30 this morning at the Cordon club, followed by the annual election of officers and a luncheon at noon. This time Miss Juliet Barker is to read "Biography," the Theater Guild play that has taken New York by storm and is due in Chicago this summer.

During the luncheon at which the outgoing officers and their newly elected successors will have places at the speakers' table, Jean Parke Holm, artist and poet, as well as the founder of the Contemporary Arts club in New York, will speak on "Chicago's Potential Theater."

Mrs. Clarence Hough, the president of the league; Mrs. Louis K. Boysen, the second vice president; and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, the treasurer, are retiring. And so are Mrs. Harold C. Pynchon, Mrs. Helen Walton, Mrs. Lenox R. Lohr, Mrs. Paul Shorey, and Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever, members of the board of directors. Nominees to fill some of these vacancies are Miss Frances Weary, Mrs. Benjamin H. Marshall, and Miss Frances E. Watson.

Juniors of the Alliance Francais are calling on the senior organization this afternoon for the program to be presented in the drawing room of Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift's apartment at 1531 Astor street. Mrs. John H. Storrs, wife of the eminent sculptor, and a

The Changeling Bride

By Martha Ostenso

SYNOPSIS.

The Hendersons—Meryl and Margaret, sisters; Flint, their older brother, and Andrew, the father—have lived for twelve years in poverty in a fishing settlement on the shores of Lake Superior after losing their fortune in Chicago. Great-Aunt Letitia, formerly dean of a girls' school in Ohio, is the liaison between the Hendersons and a cultured past. Flint and his friend, Ned Bremner, hope to build up a great export business. A forest fire brings Blake Lawrence, injured and lost, to the Henderson cottage. There were two great names in nearby Agate Bay and its environs—Lawrence and Greer. When Blake returns to Agate Bay he takes Meryl with him to be his bride. Meryl learns after the wedding ceremony, through Lucia, a snobbish cousin of the Lawrences, that Blake married her as an escape from Christine, the wife of Julius Greer, with whom he had been in love. Meryl prepares to return home. Theresa, Blake's sister, persuades her to stay for six months for Blake's sake, whom she still loves, and not to hurt her people. Theresa promises to teach her social service work. The Greers give a dinner dance for Blake and his bride.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

TEMPORAL SPLENDOR.

What an ignominious mess he had created, Blake thought bitterly. If Christine were merely laughing at him, or even if she were employing this means of assuaging her hurt pride, he could dismiss her grand gesture without a thought. But Christine was of different metal, he knew. She was too brutally honest, in her own way, to bother with petty vindictiveness or pretense. She would want to know, above everything, just where she stood with him. She would want to discover in her own way and to her own satisfaction just how devoted Blake was to his little shore bride. She knew how to withdraw from the field once she was convinced that the battle was lost. She was practical enough for that. But she would know, too, how to begin a new offensive if there was any hope of victory left.

Blake knew what he thought of Christine, what he had always thought of her, and what he still feared where she was concerned. Her appeal to him had been direct and irresistible, a consummation of all the desirable and lawless things the curiously ascetic part of him had always shunned. Meryl, on the other hand, was a complete mystery to him. She had seemed simple enough at the outset, and would probably seem so still if their relationships had developed in the normal way. Now, however, he was unable either to understand her or to analyze his own feelings for her. She was like some wild thing made docile under a spell of pernicious enchantment; a wild thing beautiful and yet imperfect according to the standards of the sophisticated world in which he had been raised; a wild thing he wanted to touch with his hand and yet was afraid to touch.

"Well, she's a pretty minx, Blake!"

The car was entering the steep paved driveway which led upward to the stronghold of Julius Greer.

In the reception hall, whose lofty, somber and almost medieval magnificence was designed to render breathless a guest who entered it for the first time, Christine Greer stood like a white flame in her low cut black gown. She lifted her long, slow smile with utter graciousness to the people who lingered beside her for a moment before they passed on through the great arched entrance to the drawing room. Her dark, curiously vacant eyes lighted suddenly as she saw Blake Lawrence approaching her from the other side of the hall.

Blake waited for a moment until Meryl and Theresa emerged from the small lounge where they had gone to remove their wraps. He stepped toward them and, lifting Meryl's hand into the crook of his elbow, looked down at her with a smile.

"This cathedral hasn't scared you, has it?" he whispered as he inclined his head briefly toward her. "Stout hearted men have been known to quail——"

"Aunt Letty," she murmured in reply, "warned me not to be overwhelmed by temporal splendor."

As she spoke she lifted her head and twinkled up at him almost mischievously. Gad, he thought appreciatively, the kid has spirit! He grinned down at her and his heart felt suddenly much lighter.

The MacSeverns, whose millions had been ground out of their flour mills; the Frobishers, whose retirement to moneyed dignity had caused people to forget how their money had been made, and an atrocious, diamond dog collared woman in red passed on into the drawing room. Christine stretched out her hands to Blake and Meryl.

"My dear!" she cried, and let her shoulders fall gracefully back so that her body described just the suggestion of a curve. "How glad I am to have you here, both of you, in my house! And this is Meryl! May I call you Mery:? You know, I scarcely get a glimpse of you the other day, you were so snugly tucked away in that car!" She gave Meryl an appraising look. "She's lovely, Blake!"

She permitted her eyes to dwell a moment upon Blake's face—a shrewd, searching look.

"I think so, naturally," Blake said promptly.

Meryl had flushed. "I'm not, really," she said with disarming simplicity, "but I love to be flattered. And especially by one who is as lovely as you, Mrs. Greer."

"Christine, please!" said Christine, looking at Meryl wistfully from beneath lowered lids.

Then, in the way that only Christine could, and as though she had dismissed a trivial matter, she extended her white hands to Theresa, who had stood by smiling blandly, but occupied with her own outrageous thoughts.

"And Tessie, dear!" she breathed, caressing her name, "it seems an age since I saw you last."

Christine turned to Blake. "I had almost forgotten. You might know, Blake, that Julius would have an important business meeting on tonight. He's in the library with Abner Newcombe and a few others. Nothing, you know, can interfere with this big deal of his. But he sent word out a minute ago that the conference was about over and he wanted you to come in as soon as you got here. Do take Meryl in with you, won't you? He's dying to meet her."

"Certainly, Christine," Blake said.

"Don't let my husband frighten you, Meryl," Christine added. "He's really an old dear when you get to know him. And I think you and he will have a lot in common. His whole heart is up there in that country where you come from."

With his hand on Meryl's arm Blake led the way to the library. For the moment the complications of his personal life vanished from his thoughts. If Julius Greer had old Abner Newcombe with him in his own house that meant, by heaven, that Greer was putting his unconscionable scheme across! With Newcombe's power and money conspiring with his own, nothing short of divine intervention could save the wild lake country. Blake had a sudden vision of those vast reaches of virgin forest, of gem clear lakes and streams, laid waste by the unscrupulous greed of a man whom he was in honor bound not to oppose. His face became black.

Suddenly he realized that Meryl was looking at him intently.

"What's the matter, Blake?" she asked.

"I haven't the time to tell you now," he replied. "We'll talk about it later."

The heavy doors of the library opened to Blake's knock. Five men were standing just within the threshold.

"Hullo, hullo!" Julius said, and came forward.

His voice, Meryl noted with a curious, surprised chill, was soft, almost muffled. In a man of such vast size his voice was a somewhat unwholesome shock. Not that it lacked power. But it was the uncanny power of a whisper in a vault.

"And this young lady, I take it, is the bride!" Julius beamed benevolently down upon Meryl with eyes that were so small and deep they were the merest bright gimlet points in his head.

"Yes, this is Meryl," Blake said. "Meryl, Mr. Julius Greer."

Julius held her hand in his enormous paw.

"Well! She's a pretty minx, Blake!" he purred. "You've better judgment that I thought you had."

"You have always underrated me a little, Julius," Blake smiled.

Should a Girl Conceal Liking for Boy Friend?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Though modern-thinking in other respects, the old fashioned idea of not showing your love for a man until his intentions become serious is so deeply imbedded in me I'm up against it, competitively speaking. What do you think?"

I think the old fashioned idea due for revising. Personally, I think it is better to show the hand and lose than not to show at all what one's feelings are.

How on earth is the average man going to get into a serious state without a hint that his proposal would be welcome? Judging from the thousands of "How He Proposed" letters I have read lately, men are woefully in need of a "lift" from the girl. It's the exceptional man who sees a girl, falls for her, pursues her regardless of any emotional signs from her. It just isn't being done, any more, if it ever was done.

We think mammas who implant this idea in their girls' heads like to believe they were taken by storm. They forget the messages of encouragement they slipped the suitor with an eye, a word, or an out-and-out expression of deep regard. Some of them, if you reread your fiction of mamma's day, were pretty modern in their way with men.

Your modern man, in any event, is trained along informal lines, romantically speaking. Too, a good deal of the old-time illusion about women has been swept off the boards and modern men look for human friendliness and honesty in girls.

Definite Aids to Managing the In-Betweens

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Here are a few suggestions of a more definite nature than those given yesterday for the management of the in-betweens—that is, the children between that very little childhood when they're still entirely under mother's wing and adolescence. We'll set the suggestions down in a businesslike way in this fashion:

Trouble: Not answering when spoken to. Explanation: Cause is due to deepening interest in own concerns, real concentration, or dreaming, or too much talking to by grownups. Advice: Don't take this too hard. Respect the interest or concentration as you would that of a grown person. Interrupt only when necessary. Then do something to attract child's attention instead of speaking three or four times and then getting angry or annoyed.

Trouble: Dreaminess. Explanation: A child must have some inner life; what we call dreaminess is sometimes just "being," sometimes an imagining time, and sometimes a time when very real thought is taking place. Witness some of the questions the children ask you about people, places, things, events, religion, life, and death. How do you think this inner life of the mind and spirit develops if a child is always "on tap" for grownups, or always engaged in some pursuit that we think useful? Advice: Unless the so-called dreaminess reaches proportions where it interferes with a child's normal life of play and work and companionship, let him alone. At the same time see that his days have their balance of outdoors and physical activity, in play and mental interests, in plenty of sleep and good food.

Trouble: Slowness. I know that as this word goes into print most mothers will want to call across space, "Put it in capitals, please." Of all difficult distracting behavior of the in-betweens this matter of slowness is most irritating. It particularly shows itself in dressing and washing, coupled with a violent aversion to the latter. Explanation or cause: I don't know! Just "one of those things." Principal cause, children at this age have no real conviction of the need for hurry, making connections, and so on. It doesn't seem important to them.

Advice: Keep your sweet disposition all through it because you'll have to stand some of it and why let it spoil your fatal beauty? Seriously, most children just have to be slow for a spell, and also seriously, they do outgrow it, if that's any comfort. The best you can do is to use some incentives that appeal to them, try a few tricky devices and a lot of praise.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. E. Messinger, 735 Waveland avenue, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Mildred Louise, to Manfred S. Spindel, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Selig, 7325 Constance avenue, on Sunday, April 23, at the Webster hotel. A reception will follow from 2 to 5 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Cherry of La Grange announce the marriage of their daughter, Alyce, to Mark Burnside Swanson of Defiance, O., on April 3. Mr. Swanson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Swanson of La Grange. The young couple will make their home in Defiance.

Daily Exercise Puts the Spring of Youth Back in the Feet

An Easy Exercise

Hands on hips. First, hop on the right leg, then on the left, then on both. Hop to a side straddle, as illustrated, and return.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It's my observation, in a long period of observing reducing results that getting the fat off the legs and ankles is the hardest job of all. Also I note that in no one physical shortcoming are the major body of people: men, women, boys, and girls, so noticeably affected as in the handling of their feet. Whether it's coming down on the heels with a thump, walking flat footed, turning feet out widely—the truth is that fleetfootedness is not one of our common virtues.

A good many get off to a wrong start in youth. Parents ought to be as conscientious in giving the youngsters' feet a chance as they are about their teeth.

In adult life today there is not nearly enough use of the pedal extremities to keep the muscles from atrophying a bit. We sit hours upon hours during the day, ride where we have to go, and sit down every time we can avoid standing. Consequently the feet and leg muscles lose their elasticity, their youthful spring.

One of the real signs of youthful legs and feet is to be able to step off smartly. Step off on the balls of the feet, from light-touching heels.

Every one knows, of course, that he and she should get in a hike a day—but there are always so many ready alibis for grubbing a car that the poor old feet just don't get a chance at all. One can give a couple of minutes a day to limbering up these stiffened muscles, though. To getting a little more of that spring of youth back in the soles—yes, and in the soul, too, for when the feet go bad the star of hope fades out of the sky.

I would suggest that women wear a brassiere while doing the hopping exercises, that they confine the number of hops to five at first in order to avoid thigh muscle stiffness to which they are prone.

Mrs. Housewife

need not scrub her toilet!

THERE is a neater, nicer way to keep toilets spotless and pure. No scouring with strong disinfectants. No work at all! Just sprinkle Sani-Flush.

A little Sani-Flush in the toilet bowl does the work for you. (Follow directions on can.) When you flush the toilet the porcelain glistens. Stains go. Odors vanish. The hidden trap that a brush can't reach is purified and safe. And Sani-Flush won't harm the plumbing.

At grocery, drug and hardware stores, 25c. (Another use for Sani-Flush—cleaning automobile radiators. See directions on can.)

member of the "grownup" alliance, is to tell about housekeeping and married life in France from her own experience. Marguerite de Ville Chabrol before her marriage to Mr. Storrs, she is qualified to treat her subject both from the French and American point of view.

English Union to Hear Leacock.

Members of the English Speaking Union are speculating this week on who will take the gavel the evening of April 19 at the union's annual dinner meeting in the French room of the Drake hotel. After the introduction of the new president, who is being chosen "by mail," Stephen Leacock, professor in Canada's Magill university as well as one of the leading humorists of that country, is to discuss "Education by the Yard"—serious, he says of his subject, but amusing, too.

Dr. Horace Bridges, first vice president of the union, will make the announcement of the new president chosen because of the death of Everett L. Millard.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon J. Laing will entertain Mr. Leacock during his short visit here.

Community Council Sponsors Lecture.

With Mrs. E. Ogden Ketting in the east, Mrs. George J. Jaeger Jr. in the south, Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler Jr. in Charleston, and Mrs. Arthur Farwell in the west most of the younger members of the committee in charge of the course of lectures arranged as a benefit for the Lower North Community council are away, so they have drafted into service Henry H. Porter Jr.'s bride and she was making the rounds of the newspaper offices yesterday asking us to announce that Miss Fanny Butcher, literary editor of THE TRIBUNE, would talk about "Lions Couchant" at the second lecture of the course.

The lecture is to be given at 11 o'clock next Tuesday morning in the Diana Court salon and since most of us feel that hearing about "lions" from some one who has met and in most cases visited them is the next best thing to meeting them ourselves, the committee anticipates that the lecture will be very well attended. Sinclair Lewis, Bernard Shaw, H. G. Wells, Arnold Bennett, John Galsworthy, J. B. Priestly, James Joyce, and the diametrically opposite Joyce, Peggy, Willa Cather, Julia Peterkin, Du Bose Heyward, Edith Wharton and Ellen Glasgow are some of those whom Miss Butcher will give word pictures of next Tuesday.

Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, one of the busiest of Lake Forest's many busy matrons, has a new publicity job—she is so successful at getting the White Elephant Rummage shop's activities into the daily papers that she is one of the most sought after amateur press agents—and now she is asking for a notice of the Easter sale the Woman's auxiliary of the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest will hold Saturday in the north shore town.

Mrs. Hammond to Live in Geneva.

Mrs. Gardiner G. Hammond and her three children and their puppies are moving from the Ambassador to a house in Geneva the end of this week. Last summer she had a house at Lake Geneva in Wisconsin for the summer, but the house she has taken in Geneva, which is in Illinois and not any nearer Lake Geneva than Chicago is, although in many Chicagoans' minds the two are one and the same, is to be a year around residence, for Mrs. Hammond is one of the young mothers who think a little town is the best possible place for bringing up a young family. Mrs. Hammond is the former Kathleen Sheriff.

Other socialites who have moved recently to Geneva are the Arthur Finlays, who have left the Parkway and are ensconced in one of the old and attractive houses in the little Fox river valley town for the next year. They hope to have their son, John J. Finlay, and his wife and little daughter with them occasionally this spring and probably Mr. Finlay will spend quite a bit of the summer with them, for Mrs. Finlay and Barbara are going for the summer to New Hampshire to occupy the cottage that belonged to Mrs. Finlay's mother, the late Mrs. William H. Scriven.

Mr. and Mrs. Theophilus Noel II. have named their new little tenant at 210 East Pearson street Joseph Robert, after his paternal grandfather, Joseph Robert Noel of Oak Park. Young Mr. Noel made his appearance last Friday evening at the Presbyterian hospital. Mrs. Noel was before her marriage Miss Laura Jacoby, daughter of Mrs. William L. Jacoby of 1441 North State parkway.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Larned Greeley Jr. are the parents of a daughter, born March 28 at the Evanston hospital. She has been named Sara Ann, after both her grandmothers, Mrs. Greeley Jr. is the former Katherine Richardson of Cambridge, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott S. Durand are back in Lake Forest telling glowing stories of their trip to South America. "If you want to comment on Rio de Janeiro, say that it is the most heavenly place in the world," said Mrs. Durand. This summer the Durands expect that they will have several of their South American hosts and hostesses as their guests during A Century of Progress.

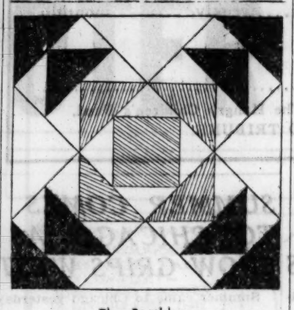
Tell Engagement of Miss Buhl

At a tea Saturday afternoon in the Highland Park home of Mr. and Mrs. George Arthur Buhl thirty or more young women learned of the engagement of Miss Jacqueline Buhl to William Watkins Joyce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reamy Joyce, also of Highland Park. Miss Buhl attended Ferry hall in Lake Forest and Mr. Joyce was graduated from Lawrenceville and attended the University of Wisconsin. The wedding will not take place until fall.

Miss Melanie Boughton Truman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percival Henry Truman, made a flying trip to Evanston over the week-end to be home for the announcement of her engagement to Charles Frederick Bullard Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Bullard of Elmira, N. Y. The announcement was made Saturday at a tea given by Mr. and Mrs. Truman at their Harrison street home.

Mr. Bullard came out from Rochester, N. Y., where he is located in business, for the party, and so did Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hinds of Syracuse. Miss Truman met Mr. Bullard in Rochester a year ago, where she went following her graduation from the Wellesley college; to teach in the Harley Country Day school. Miss Truman prepared for college at Roycemore. Mr. Bullard is a garduate of Cornell university. The wedding is to take place late next summer.

Rose and Green Are Ideal Colors for 'The Rambler'



The Rambler.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Although this pattern is an old one, it is rarely seen today. Since it was inspired by the lovely rambler rose bush, the design is best carried out when pieced in triangles of rose material with green triangles for the leaves, and set together with strips of green.

For a pattern of this quilt design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn street.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Deserve Assistance.

"Dear Sally Joy Brown: I am coming to you to ask for two articles that would help me so much! They are a tea cart and a fireless cooker. My husband has been ill for seven years and has to have many of his meals in bed. A tea cart would save many steps for me, and, as I am out looking for work a great part of the day, a fireless cooker would be a tremendous help in preparing meals. He has been unable to work for the last four years, and we are finding it more and more difficult to get along. If you can obtain these things for me I could arrange to call for them. MRS. H. S."

If you no longer use your tea cart or fireless cooker, won't you pass them on?

Stanley Price Bares Woes of an Actor's Life

Lead in "Abie's Irish Rose" Sees Better Days.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 11.—[Special.]—When you see the screen musical comedy, "It's Great to Be Alive," you ought to notice the fifth newspaper photographer, who helps record the departure on a trans-Pacific flight of Raul Roulein, the star.

The newspaper photographer is Stanley Price. He got $5 for the day's work.

It was the first work he had had in any studio since last November, when he worked one day. He also worked four days in June, 1932.

Stanley Price has worked eight days in the movies since he arrived in Hollywood from New York 27 months ago with a signed and sealed film contract.

Before coming to Hollywood, Price had been playing leading parts on the stage for ten consecutive years, with exactly two weeks of vacation.

He played the leading male role in "Abie's Irish Rose" for three and a half years without missing one of the more than 1,700 performances.

Then people told him he should go into the movies.

Price played opposite Maude Eburne in stock in Trenton, N. J., for 48 weeks, got ambitious and organized his own stock companies in Grand Rapids, Mich., Terre Haute, and Hammond, Ind., and in his home town, Lexington, Ky. Made money, too.

Then he got that big Hollywood contract.

But the producers changed their mind about the picture, and went back to England—with the cash.

However, Price knew hundreds of persons in the show business and a good many studio folks.

It turned out they were all awfully busy.

He did work two weeks in a good part in "Lysistrata" in Los Angeles. Then the police stopped the show and the entire cast spent a solid month in court from 9 o'clock till 5 o'clock every day. That ate up the profits, even though everybody was acquitted.

Those four days of work last June helped a lot. The second baby, a fine boy, arrived in the Price house on the first of the four days.

Recently production operations were resumed at the old Fox Western Avenue studio here, and Price, who visits all the casting offices daily, added it to his calling list.

"I know what you are capable of doing, Mr. Price," said James Ryan, casting director, "but all I have is one day's extra work at $5."

"Lead me to it," was the unhesitating reply. "And tell me where I can get more like it. You'd be surprised how much milk and cocoa you can buy a couple of kids with five dollars."

As a matter of fact, Price has worked for less than five dollars a day. He drew $30 a month from Uncle Sam for a long time, starting when he was 18—he's 33 now.

He was wounded four times, including the time at St. Mihiel when he received a bayonet neck wound.

For a long time following his discharge it appeared he'd never be able to talk again.

Down hearted? Hell, no!

"Listen," he says. "Everything's going to be all right. If I believed all that's happened, I'd have dived into the river long ago and I know as well as you that there's no water in the Los Angeles river. But I know it isn't real. It's just a bad dream."

Charles R. Rogers, film producer, gives Fred Pasley, of the New York News, credit for the idea for Rogers' newest film, "Song of the Eagle." Rogers says he got the idea for his picture, which is shortly to be released, after reading Pasley's newspaper articles, starting last November 26, about gangsters trying to muscle into the legitimate brewing racket.

Buster Crabbe can't find a ready-made suit anywhere, that will fit him. It's because of his broad shoulders. His waist measure is 33 inches, but his shoulders are 44.

North Shore Engagement

[Gibson Photo.]

Miss Mary Katherine Gleason, whose engagement to John Taylor Snite was recently announced by her parents, the Hollis G. Gleasons of Wilmette. Miss Gleason attended Villa de Chantal, the Visitation academy at Rock Island, and Northwestern university. Mr. Snite, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert P. Snite of Highland Park, attended Dartmouth. The wedding will not take place until next fall or the first of next year.

Judge Delivers His Opinion on Morality of Play "Lysistrata"

Los Angeles, Cal., April 10.—(AP)—As a court of law sees it, the question of whether Aristophanes' ancient Greek comedy, "Lysistrata," is "lewd and immoral," depends on one's point of view.

This dictum was voiced from the bench today by Superior Judge Henry M. Willis.

He accordingly denied a defense motion for nonsuit in the $226,000 damage action brought against Capt. Deighton MacDonald Jones and his police squad by members of a "Lysistrata" play cast raided twice here more than a year ago.

Judge Willis said he had spent the week-end studying the play, which was presented at a fashionable theater with Nance O'Neil, New York actress, in the title rôle.

"What constitutes an immoral play?" the judge asked.

Then he answered himself:

"That wholly depends upon human point of view. There is always a difference of opinion in such matters.

"I read the script of this play three times and studied it judgematically, you might say, and, as I did so, it became clear that some people might consider it indecent while others might say 'well, that's a good one—I can't see a thing bad about it.'"

None of the players was convicted in the police action. Some were acquitted. Most of the cases were dismissed.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt went to New York this afternoon by plane. She was accompanied by her two sons, John and Franklin D. Jr., who have spent the last week at the White House. She will return here on Wednesday and go to the opening of the baseball season in the afternoon with the President.

The Vice President and Mrs. Garner were among the guests of President and Mrs. Roosevelt at dinner last evening after their return from a visit to the Rapidan camp.

The retiring German ambassador and Frau von Prittwitz and Gaffron have chosen April 26 for their sailing date on the Europa, from New York, to return to their home in Germany. Their young daughter, Marissa, will accompany them.

The retiring French ambassador, dean of the corps, and Mme. Claudel, and their daughter, Mlle. Reine, will sail for their home on April 18.

Representative and Mrs. Fred Britten have returned from their visit in the south.

Mrs. Joseph Leiter with her son and daughter, Tommy Leiter, and Miss Nancy Leiter, are spending the Easter season with Mrs. Leiter's mother, Mrs. John R. Williams.

Cook's at Fault When Children Refuse Spinach

Needs to Improve Skill with Vegetables.

BY MARY MEADE.

"What shall I do about Johnny. He won't eat his vegetables!"

If there is in this country a national refrain of mothers, I believe the above is it. Johnny [or Mary or Joan] weeps when he sees carrots enter the room, wails at the sight of string beans, and fairly howls with dismay at the advent of spinach. I hope your Johnny [or Mary or Joan] does none of these things. But if he [or she] does, or even if dislike shows up in pouts and food refusals, then today's food chat is for you.

For vegetable diet troubles are not a sign of stubbornness on the part of youngsters. They're a sign of a slipup in training, or of a wrong being done in the kitchen.

Vegetables are of assorted kinds. There are mild ones like beans, peas, some green vegetables, carrots, etc. There are strong flavored ones like onions, cabbage, turnips, and such. There are tart ones like tomatoes. Many, many children detest the mild ones because by the time they reach the table they are less than mild. They are pallid, brownish, flat, and flavorless. They have been cooked not wisely but too well! They are served up in a "bird bath" of their cooking water instead of being steamed or simmered gently until the water is all but absorbed. The stanchly flavored vegetables have likewise been cooked too much. They have grown brown. Somebody left on the cover and that intensified the taste.

The first thing, then, in our campaign for more young vegetable eaters is to serve better vegetables. Serve spinach freshly cooked, barely steamed till tender, in just the water that clings to it and cut, before it reaches the table, into small, manageable pieces. Serve carrots in quarter strips or in one-half inch squares, especially for the youngest runabouts. Carrots should be boiled or steamed till just tender—no more—then buttered or served in a good simple cream sauce. Parsnips the same.

Youngsters likewise are falling for mother's new method of slithering her green beans diagonally in slim strips before cooking them quickly, uncovered, in boiling hard water.

But nobody, children or grownups, either, will be enthusiastic over the same vegetables turning up always in the same simple form, no matter how carefully cooked.

Just for instance. Many youngsters who will not eat fresh tomatoes in salad will drink them gleefully in a cocktail flavored with just a suggestion of lemon juice and salt. Or for a more substantial drink, combine one-half cup of tomato purée with one-fourth cup each of evaporated milk and water and a dash of celery salt. Tomato soups, never curdled, are given a little extra appeal by the advent of crumbled zwieback for a topping. Or minced parsley dashed over the top answers the problem for some mothers.

Spinach soup, corn chowders, green pea soup, mixed vegetable soup, beet soup, and so on down the line are almost always welcome.

Also there are vegetable custards, souffles, and salads to serve. There are even carrot loaves and puddings which do a perfect job of disguising their main ingredient from the most critical of small eyes. As a starter try

GREEN BEAN SOUFFLE.

1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
2 teaspoons lemon juice
Dash of cayenne pepper
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons grated American cheese
2 eggs, separated
2 cups cooked green beans

Make a smooth, thickened white sauce of the butter, flour, seasoning, mil. Add the cheese and the green beans, which have been chopped by the fine blade of a food grinder or put through a sieve. Beat the egg yolks until lemon colored and add. Next fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Turn into a greased baking dish or into little individual custard cups and place these in a shallow pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] about 40 minutes, or until set fluffy and golden brown.

arrives fresh from France on April 26th. She is open for public inspection on April 27th and 28th . . . and sails for Plymouth and Le Havre on Saturday, April 29th.

THE "Ile" is known as one of the most beautiful ships in Atlantic service. Her luxury has made her the favorite of sophisticated travelers. And never has she been more beautiful, more luxurious than now.

In First Class, her famous Grand Salon has been redecorated, and her beautiful Salon de Thé refurbished. Her smoking-room has been completely done over, repaneled in bright, gay woods . . . and it has been enlarged by eliminating stairways.

All First Class cabins have been newly decorated . . . equipped with telephone service . . . and many more private baths have been added.

In Tourist and Third Class, similar alterations have been made, including a new Tourist bar and a gymnasium for exclusive use of this class.

The Ile de France is at your service, to take you on your summer's vacation. Any travel agent will be glad to book you on her. He will help plan your trip without charge.

KEEP THESE PICTURES IN MIND
When You Go to Buy Aspirin and Want to Get Rid of Pain Quickly

IN 2 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH
A Genuine BAYER Aspirin Tablet Starts to Disintegrate and Go to Work
Drop a Bayer Aspirin Tablet into a Glass of Water.
By the time it Hits the Bottom of the Glass it is Disintegrating.
What Happens in These Glasses—Happens in Your Stomach

Because of This Quick Dissolving Property, Genuine BAYER Aspirin Tablets Start "Taking Hold" of Pain a few Minutes after Taking

If you have a headache or any other common form of pain—rheumatism, neuritis, or neuralgia—you want to get rid of it as fast as possible—and in absolute safety.

Then—the first thing to know is this:

Never ask for aspirin by the name "aspirin" alone. But always say "BAYER ASPIRIN."

The pictures of the two glasses above tell the story.

For what happens in those glasses happens in your stomach.

Because of a unique process in manufacture, Genuine Bayer Aspirin Tablets begin to dissolve almost INSTANTLY in the stomach. They start to disintegrate within the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture.

Hence Genuine Bayer Aspirin "takes hold" of the average pain or headache within a few minutes after taking. The fastest, safe relief, it is said, ever known for pain.

Remember, it is Genuine Bayer Aspirin which lays claim to this unique, quick-acting property.

So be sure you get the Real Article—GENUINE BAYER Aspirin when you buy. Naturally you want the fastest, possible relief—and that's the way to get it.

The sure, safe way is to see that the name BAYER is clearly stamped, in the form of a cross, on any tablet that you take.

Keep that in mind when you buy. Carry in mind, too, that Genuine Bayer Aspirin Does Not Harm the Heart.

Ask your druggist about the recent price reduction on the 100 tablet size Bayer Aspirin.

For Pocket or Purse, Tin Boxes of 12 Tablets

For Economy, Bottles of 24 or 100 Tablets

NO TABLETS ARE GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN WITHOUT THIS CROSS

GIRLS TESTIFY OTHER VICTIMS BALKED AT DEATH

Old Woman Finally Is "Given to Lord."

Inez, Ky., April 10.—[Special.]—The interior of the courthouse here seemed to change to that of a mountain cabin while witnesses told the story of the death of Mrs. Lucinda Mills, 67, as a sacrifice to her son's demand for a sign of his religious power.

"Clapping her hands and shouting," according to 18 year old Nellie Boyd, whose father, Tom Boyd, is a defendant, Mrs. Mills had entered the room, taking her place on the bed, the altar on which a life was to be sacrificed.

Another witness Sam Porter, earlier today had told the court that shortly before the day of her death, Mrs. Mills had told him, "I am willing to lay down my life in the cause of the Christ."

Woman's Son Leads Rites.

In her account of the rites, led, she said, by John H. Mills, son of Mrs. Lucinda Mills, Nellie declared she and several others had been selected for the sacrifice, had been laid on the altar-bed, but "had got up and left the room." These were persons in the prime of life.

Nellie testified that Mills had selected her and her three sisters "as the virgin sisters," and Mills and others present said the girls would have to die. She recalled that they had refused. Nellie's sisters, Louella, Allice, and Allie, added their stories to hers. These girls said that "Trixie" (Mrs. Fred Mills) and Ora Moore had been laid on the improvised altar, and had refused, before John Mills told Boyd that his daughters should "be sacrificed to the Lord."

After all of these persons had refused, it was testified, old Mrs. Mills had entered, "shouting and clapping her hands."

John Mills, according to Nellie Boyd, laid his mother on the improvised altar, and began quieting her, caressing her with his hands and a Bible; put his knees on her chest; grasped her throat; "spoke in the unknown tongue."

Assert Mills Is Sane.

Earlier in the day, Drs. W. R. Castle and Frank M. Pickelsimer, of Paintville, Ky., had been called as state alienists. They could not see that if Mills called himself Moses, he was other than a trickster. They said Mills was sane. On Saturday two doctors as defense alienists had said he was insane.

Neeley Porter, a witness for the state, gave the day's only touch of comedy. He leaned back in his chair, seemed as if in a trance, uttered the strange sounds he said the cult members used when having received the "gift of tongues," they prophesied.

MOTHER DROWNS SON, TRIES TO END OWN LIFE IN HOME

Mrs. Alice Barnes, 43 years old, drowned her 7 year old son, Jackie, in the bathtub in their home at 7903 Sunset drive, Elmwood Park, late yesterday, and then tried to end her life by gas.

She had left a note saying "this is the easiest way out," and explaining that by taking the boy with her in death he would not be a responsibility. According to Dwight Barnes, her husband, who is a Western Union telegraph supervisor, she and Jackie had both been ill recently.

The tragedy was discovered by the two older Barnes children, Nathiel, 17, and William, 15, when they returned home from school. They found their mother unconscious in the kitchen, one end of a gas tube in her mouth. She had laid Jackie's body on a bed. Inhalator squads worked on both, and revived Mrs. Barnes. She was taken to the Belmont hospital.

SENT TO PRISON

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Attorney Anthony J. Schmidt, 48 years old, former assistant corporation counsel and once a professor at the Chicago Law school, was sentenced yesterday to serve one to 14 years in Joliet penitentiary on a charge of forgery. He was found guilty by Judge Philip L. Sullivan, who heard the case without a jury.

Schmidt was arrested on complaint of his benefactor and former employer, Attorney Patrick L. McArdle. At the time of the arrest it was revealed that Attorney McArdle had given Schmidt a job as office boy when he was 13 years old, later had sent him to law school, and then had given him space in his suite of offices to practice law.

The state charged that Schmidt had defrauded Attorney McArdle and others through forged real estate mortgages. Schmidt offered the defense that he had intended to repay Attorney McArdle. He needed the money, Schmidt said, because of losses he had suffered in a real estate deal in Florida.

Judge Sullivan in passing sentence said: "The court cannot condone such an offense in a member of the bar who must be held to a higher accountability than the ordinary individual."

JEWISH CHARITY DRIVE STARTS; $1,605,000 IS GOAL

With $102,400 subscribed in advance to the $1,605,000 fund needed to maintain the Jewish Charities of Chicago this year, more than 2,000 workers yesterday began an intensive campaign to raise the remainder.

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies, commended the campaign in a letter to Alfred K. Stern, chairman of the drive.

"We have found the Jewish Charities not only a generally effective group of social and health agencies, but have found them particularly interested in developing and maintaining good standards of social work," Mr. Ryerson wrote.

"In this respect and in the general organization of the Jewish Charities as a Jewish community fund, they have been of decisive importance and help to the organization of social work in Chicago. I sincerely hope that the Jewish citizens of the city will rally to the support of their charities in the present campaign."

JUDGE DEMANDS NAMES OF IDLE WHO OWN CARS

Relief Recipient Jailed for Drunken Driving.

Judge Thomas A. Green of the traffic court yesterday wrote the Illinois Emergency Relief commission asking them to give him a list of all idle persons receiving relief who own and drive automobiles.

JOHN EVENSON.

The judge took this action after John Evenson, 49 years old, 1345 North Lawndale avenue, was brought before him on a charge of driving his automobile while intoxicated. Evenson was sent to the Bridewell to serve 30 days and fined $100. Evenson has been drawing county relief.

Judge Begins Investigation.

"It would not surprise me," said Judge Green in commenting upon the case yesterday, "if there were other owners of automobiles who have managed to get on the relief rolls. I have asked the commission to furnish me with a complete report on the case. I have an abounding curiosity to learn what sort of investigation they made when Evenson applied for help. If this man had money to buy liquor and operate his own car, I cannot see what excuse there is for saddling his keep upon the public.

"Surely whatever investigation is made of these cases should determine such a vital point as the ownership of an auto. Evenson was arrested at Central Park avenue and Hirsch street driving while intoxicated. It is not improbable to believe that he used part of the charity money with which to buy the liquor. I'll do all in my power to stop these cases and I have written the relief commission and asked for an early report on the number and identification of persons given relief while in possession of an automobile."

Instructions to Police.

After a conference with Judge Green yesterday, Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court issued instructions to the city and park board police to allow residents arrested for minor traffic violations to be given a court summons and released when they have established their identity. Judge Green reported to the chief justice that policemen have been taking stop light violators to station houses and forcing them to post bonds of $25 and $50 for their release.

"On out of town residents, we will instruct the police to demand $5 bond for minimum violations and $10 bonds for speeding," said the chief justice. "But it should be borne in mind that a motorist who breaks a minor traffic rule is not a criminal and should not be treated as a criminal."

Thirty-five men arrested for begging will be arraigned this morning in the Des Plaines street court, where Police Commissioner Allman has ordered all beggars sent for trial in his drive to rid the loop of panhandlers before A Century of Progress exposition. By sending all to the same court it is hoped that the repeated offenders will be detected. Of those arrested yesterday, only one gave an address outside of Chicago.

Fourteen panhandlers arrested over the week-end were arraigned yesterday in the Des Plaines street court, and three of them were fined small amounts by Judge George V. McIntyre.

Canada to Place Idle in Two Famous Army Camps

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., April 10.— Valcartier and Petawawa, famous military camps of the great war, where thousands of Canadian soldiers trained for service in the allied ranks overseas, are to be transformed into camps for idle single men. Twenty cents a day and keep will be allowed. Work along general improvement lines will be provided.

COAST GUARD TO RULE WORLD FAIR WATER TRAFFIC

Expects Chicago to Be Busy Port This Year.

Preparations were being made yesterday by the United States coast guard for regulation of the great inflow of water traffic which is expected to give Chicago the appearance of a busy seaport this year.

Capt. H. H. Searles, recently in charge of the coast guard station at Boston, arrived here last week and will be in charge of the direction of lake traffic.

Capt. Searles pointed out that the opening of the Illinois waterway and the opening of A Century of Progress Exposition June 1 will make this city a focal point for all sorts of water craft.

Under a recent revision of the coast guard divisions, Chicago is now the headquarters for coast guard units on the western shore of Lake Michigan and Lake Superior. Under Capt. Searles' direction are 34 coast guard stations, two large ice breakers and two smaller cutters, as well as a number of smaller vessels.

In addition to the commercial vessels which will be passing through Chicago on their way to and from points on the waterway and cities in the lake region, there will be a great volume of small water craft using the river and the lake front to carry passengers to and from the exposition Capt. Searles pointed out.

These numerous small water taxis must be regulated or there will be much confusion and accidents will be probable, Capt. Searles said. A special group of vessels will be utilized by the coast guard to police the lake front and guide water traffic, he announced.

THREE FRIENDS SAVE DAY FOR HUNGRY PUPILS

Had it not been for the thoughtfulness of three friends, the Hungry School Children's fund would have had a totally depressing day yesterday, with no income whatever to offset the daily expenditures. But the three friends rallied and saw that $16 reached the fund to help feed the neediest of the city's school children.

The school principals who must distribute the money received from Miss Frances L. Swain, head of the household arts department of the board of education, administrator of the fund, wonder sometimes when the gifts drop so low how they can keep feeding the children until school is dismissed for the summer. But they've been able to feed the most urgent cases so far with the gifts TRIBUNE readers provide.

Contributions are needed now to carry on until the job is done. Simply slip your donation into an envelope and address it to the Hungry School Children's fund, in care of the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

The contributors yesterday were: Anonymous, $10; G. F. Fairbrass, $5, and "From a Friend," $1. This makes a grand total of $23,315.19 raised since the fund opened last September.

SUMMER COMES TO CHICAGO AS SNOW GRIPS WEST

Summer came to Chicago yesterday while weather of the midwinter variety was sweeping over several western states.

The mercury here rose to a maximum of 73 at 3 p. m., and stood at the same mark an hour later. Then came a quick shower, which cooled the atmosphere. The high point was far from a record for the date, however, 90 degrees having been registered three years ago.

Last night's forecast indicated that today would be fair and somewhat cooler.

In Colorado, Wyoming and Montana there were heavy snows and temperatures well below freezing. Over most of North Dakota there was a snow blanket ten inches deep and the thermometer at Dickinson and Parshall stood only 10 above zero.

Closer to Chicago there were reports of hailstorms and high winds that caused considerable damage. At Rock Island, Moline, and Davenport, Ia., it was estimated the loss due to hail was $100,000. Residents in the Tri-cities reported the hailstones were bigger than billiard balls. At Petersburg, Ind., wind ripped the roofs from several buildings, hail damaged others and three inches of rain in a few hours sent streams to flood stage.

SIX DOCTORS SUE TO BALK MEDICAL SOCIETY OUSTERS

Six physicians who are practicing medicine with the United Medical Service, Inc., 22 East Jackson boulevard, yesterday filed a petition for an injunction to restrain the Chicago Medical society from expelling them from membership. The petition was filed in the Circuit court. It asserted that the medical society proposes to expel the six doctors because they are practicing medicine as a corporation.

Two other law suits growing out of this controversial question already are pending in the courts. Recently a Superior court judge ruled that Illinois laws prohibited the practice of medicine as a corporation, and the case was appealed. Another suit involving similar facts also is pending.

The complainants in the injunction suit are Dr. Charles R. Wiley, Dr. George W. Funck, Dr. Ray W. Kline, Dr. Ernest B. Zeisler, Dr. J. Robert Johnson, and Dr. Leon J. Goodman. They assert that expulsion from the Chicago Medical society will automatically cost them their memberships in the Illinois State Medical society and the American Medical association. Loss of memberships in these organizations, the petition asserts, will deprive the physicians of the right to teach in authorized medical schools and the right to memberships on hospital staffs.

Spinal Meningitis Cases Increasing, Bundesen Says

An increase in the number of spinal meningitis cases was reported yesterday by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health. The disease is communicated by germs and is most prevalent in congested areas, Dr. Bundesen said. The figures showed 195 cases so far this year, with 82 deaths, compared with 63 cases and 36 deaths last year, and 105 cases and 62 deaths the year before. Since April 1 there have been 27 cases reported, Dr. Bundesen said.

SCRAPPING ROOSTER JAILED.

EQUALLY well adapted to business and dress wear is the three button double breasted suit shown above. Cut with slightly tapering waist, draping from broad shoulders; peak lapels with long roll. The fabrics and patterns are not only interesting but are especially well suited to this new double breasted model.

THIS easy fitting light weight coat above is another example of what the right cloth, expert cutting and finished tailoring can do toward making a topcoat an extremely becoming garment.

HANDWORK has given these suits more than good styling and that's comfort without losing one bit of trimness. Suits of the Torrington Twist cloth are included as well as many neatly patterned smooth worsteds at $35.

PROMOTER FIGHTS ILLINOIS WRESTLING BAN

CHICAGO'S GOLF CLUBS CONQUER FINANCIAL ILLS

Survey Finds Every Course Open.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Wide circulation has been given to a rumor that 30 per cent of the golf clubs of the United States have been forced out of existence by financial difficulties. Naturally the question arose, how are the Chicago district institutions coming through their troubles? A survey yesterday brught out the followng information:

Some clubs occupy an almost impregnable position without a cent of indebtedness; others have arranged for moratoriums on their liabilities; some have adopted special membership plans; and a few have become outright daily fee courses. However, no course in the district has passed out completely.

Golf Most Popular.

Moreover, the rumor that 30 per cent of the nation's clubs have closed, was said to be without foundation. It was stated that the rounds of golf played last season in the United States reached the total of 73,000,000—a higher figure than the combined attendance at all major league baseball parks, Madison Square Garden, the Chicago Stadium, and college football fields.

Herb Graffis, editor of the magazine Golfdom, has kept in close touch with all golf centers throughout the country. He had this to say:

"There is no foundation for the report that 30 per cent of the clubs in the United States have been forced to close. Perhaps 8 per cent have folded up. Those were mostly mushroom clubs which sprang up overnight during the prosperity era and incurred liabilities far greater than they should have hoped to carry. More 18 hole courses operated at a profit last year than ever before. In the Chicago district the list of resignations this season is less than normal."

Long Island Club Shaky.

The Engineers' Country club at Roslyn, L. I., is one of the most famous of the institutions which are in a shaky financial condition, due to biting off more than it could chew. This club was built at a cost of $2,000,000. Twenty-five thousand dollars was once put out simply to alter one of the greens, which is an example of the lavish scale upon which expenditures were made. A deal is now pending whereby a certain number of stockholders may take over the club for $75,000 with a view of making it a fee course.

Joe Davis, secretary of the Chicago District Golf association, pointed out that not one of the clubs in this section has been forced to close. Some of those which have been hard pressed to meet their liabilities have arranged for five year moratoriums on their bonds and have had their interest reduced from 6 per cent to 2½ per cent.

Some Adopt Daily Fee Plan.

A few of the private clubs such as Middlebrook, Vernon Ridge, and University have become public fee courses. Twin Orchard and Glenwoodie have a semi-public arrangement, with a number of regular members. Some of the private clubs have let down the bars to such an extent that almost any one who has a friend among the members can get a card which enables him to play at approximately the rates which prevail on daily fee courses.

The officials of most of the clubs doubt whether the sale of beer will increase their revenues greatly. They point out that what they make on beer they will lose on gingerale and soda water which go into the making of highballs.

Westmoreland All Clear.

J. T. Montgomery, president of Westmoreland, sketched a happy picture of conditions at his club.

"Westmoreland is one of the oldest of the north shore clubs," he said, "and we now have not 1 cent of indebtedness of any kind. Inasmuch as we have no bonds, mortgages, floating debts or bank loans to worry about, there is nothing anybody can do to us.

"We have budgeted our expenses so carefully that they are met out of current income. We have found it possible to install a new irrigating system at a cost of $30,000, which will be in operation this spring.

"We have our full quota of 350 members. I believe that old and seasoned clubs which have not incurred too heavy an indebtedness will not experience financial difficulties in the future because they have something to offer which people want."

Butterfield in Good Position.

John Jedlan, treasurer of the Butterfield Country club, said:

"Butterfield is in as good a cash position as it was a year ago. Its liquid assets are far in advance of its current bills. The membership has fallen below the full quota of 300, but we have devised a plan which is likely to fill the club roster before many months have passed.

"Under this plan we take properly

CUBS SAY 'LET'S FORGET SOX AND WALLOP CARDS!'

Hold Batting Drill for the Opener Tomorrow.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs are not lads of the type to sit around and moan about water that's gone over the dam. So yesterday they put the pesky White Sox out of their minds [more or less], donned their uniforms and went out to practice for the big opener tomorrow.

Cub fans apparently were inclined to forget about White Sox ruthlessness, also. Or at least they were willing to set down the Cub defeats at the hands of the southsiders as what always has been described on the north side as the "Sox jinx."

Ticket Sale Brisk.

At any rate, the Cub ticket sale for opening day continued brisk, with every indication that a capacity crowd will be on hand at Wrigley field tomorrow when the Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals launch the 1933 championship season. This despite dispatches from St. Louis stating "the absence of Rogers Hornsby from the St. Louis lineup will be a financial blow in the effect on the opening day gate."

There was nothing about the performance of the Cardinals in their spring series with the St. Louis Browns to indicate they will come to town any more exhilarated than the Cubs as a result of their exhibition season finals. Like the Cubs, the Cards lost Saturday and Sunday to their American league local rivals.

Dean to Start for Cards.

The pitching in the Card games with the Browns indicated that Manager Grimm of the Cubs was right in his early guess that Dizzy Dean will oppose Lon Warneke in the season opener. Neither Dean nor Warneke appeared in his respective city series, both being withheld in order that they might have four days' rest before the season inaugural.

Babe Herman, who did not play in the city series because of a bruised left ankle, will be in the opening day lineup, it was said at Wrigley field yesterday.

Whether the ankle injury would throw Babe back in the slump which engulfed him during the last half of the exhibition season was, of course, a matter for speculation. The star blamed his poor showing on the coast to being "out of stride," but he had snapped out of the difficulty in a great big way when misfortune overtook him as he was completing an enormous in the park homer in last Friday's game at Kansas City.

They Want Those Hits!

Much of the practice today was in batting, with a promise of a similar drill tomorrow. The Cubs made but four hits in their Saturday game with the Sox and seven Sunday, four of the seven coming after Sox pitchers had eased up following a 9 to 0 lead. While no mention was made of this deficiency, Manager Grimm probably remembered it, even though he personally batted .400 in the series.

The Cubs' first home stay will involve the playing of six games in seven days. The Cardinals will play Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, followed by the Pirates, who will furnish the opposition Saturday, Sunday and Tuesday. On Thursday, April 20, the Cubs will help the Cardinals open their home season in the first of a three game series. They come home for games with the Cincinnati Reds on April 28 and 29, then take to the road again, opening in New York on May 2. All the series on the first invasion of the east will be three game affairs.

Tramblie Shows Louisville His K. O. Punch in Fifth

Louisville, Ky., April 10.—(AP)—Ray Tramblie, 162, of Rockford, Ill., knocked out Bill Thomas, 162½, Louisville, in the fifth round of a scheduled ten round bout tonight. Thomas was floored four times before the ten count.

'NO FRATERNIZING' HEYDLER'S PLEA TO HIS PLAYERS

League President Declares Baseball Needs More Aggressiveness.

New York, April 10.—(AP)—For the purpose of developing a greater spirit of aggressiveness on the ball fields and giving the game more customer appeal this year, John Arnold Heydler, president of the National league, today addressed a striking appeal to his players to avoid fraternizing with rivals or loafing at any stage of the forthcoming pennant race.

With the start of the 1933 season only two days off for the big leagues, and baseball as a whole facing what he described as an "acid test of popularity" in competition with other outdoor amusements, President Heydler laid down a "five-point" program for National league players.

"Never before have we faced more stringent money conditions or keen competition from other sports, motoring and amusements," wrote Heydler. "People are going to attend ball games and they are going to patronize other sports and amusements. But they will budget their expenses and will choose only what promises the most enjoyment.

"Don't Give Up Until the Last Man Is Out."

"No outdoor game can compare with a major league ball game. But that game must be played aggressively by both sides. It is in your power to build up and maintain the interest in our game by a display of heads up, winning spirit which does not surrender until the last man is out. To sustain the spirit of contest and the ethics of sport, you are asked to accept and live up to the following:

"1. Do not mingle on the field with players of the opposing club. Keep away from their bench and dugout. Remain off the field when the other club is entitled to its exclusive use for batting or fielding practice.

"2. Do not enter the clubhouse or dressing rooms of the other team. Many players have shifted clubs during the off-season. The urge to hold friendly reunions will prevail; but the proper place for such contacts is not on or around the ball field.

"3. Do not take it for granted that with a lopsided score against you the game is lost and that you can take it easy. The man who pays is still entitled to your best effort and exhibition of skilled performance to the end of the game. Run out your hits. People do not like to see runners loafing to first.

"4. Action and hustle, and still more action and hustle, are needed in our games. Be enthusiastic and cheerful. Don't moan and quit if in a batting slump. Luck changes for the fellow who keeps on trying.

"5. Whether as active player or as sub on the bench, be alert and interested in every moment of the game. Encourage your brother player if things are breaking bad for him and good for you.

Roosevelt Praises Baseball's Benefits to Nation.

"President Roosevelt said: 'Major league baseball has done as much as anything else in this country to keep up the spirit of the people.'

"We must maintain this high appraisement. And you, as one of America's most skilled, fastest, and best trained group of athletes, must accept your individual share of responsibility."

HARRIDGE AGREES.

The American league heartily indorses the move of the National league in warning players against fraternizing on the baseball field, President William Harridge said last night.

"For the last four years we have warned the players against too much friendliness on the playing field," President Harridge said. "It's all right to have great friends among other clubs off the field, but when the boys are in the park and ready for a game friendship should cease and they should play hard to win."

President Harridge also revealed that he had dispatched a stern warning against too little friendship, too. All managers were informed that any player assaulting another would be suspended without pay for thirty days.

Slip Madigan Signs for Five Years at St. Mary's

Moraga, Cal., April 10.—[Special.]—Edward [Slip] Madigan today signed a contract to coach the St. Mary's college football team for another five years. Madigan, former Notre Dame player, came west to coach in 1921.

DURHAM NAMED SOX PITCHER IN OPENING GAME

It's O. K. with Lyons; He'll Face Browns Thursday.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Ed Durham, ex-Red Sox who now wears the white hosiery furnished by the Chicago club, has won away the season's starting honors from Ted Lyons. After turning over in his mind the spring deeds accomplished by the former Boston right hander, Lew Fonseca, the White Sox manager, yesterday decided to alter the plan that called for Lyons as the pitcher against the Browns at St. Louis tomorrow.

Mr. Lyons, being a fellow old at the game and not caring whether he wins on a Wednesday or a Thursday, or any other day just so long as he wins, voiced no objection. He will be given his chance in the second game of the season, and while he was just a bit shaky in his few pre-season appearances, there is no reason to fear that he will not be able to handle the assignment. As long as Lyons' arm isn't sore he can pitch with the best of them, and as yet the valuable wing has developed no kinks.

Stops Pirates Cold.

The first thing that Durham did to make Fonseca believe he might be even better than suspected was to hold the Pirates to three hits in an exhibition at El Paso a week ago today. The Pirates, with the Waner brothers, Freddy Lindstrom, Pie Traynor, and a few others, are not at all backward about harvesting hits, but on this occasion Durham fooled them. Durham followed this performance by holding the Cubs to five hits in six innings last Sunday. These two workouts brought on his nomination for the inaugural tomorrow.

The Sox spent a couple of hours yesterday polishing up on their hitting, although what they did to the Cub pitchers indicated they weren't in need of such practice. The pitching staff also took turns throwing to the hitters. This workout concluded preliminary training. They will depart for St. Louis over the C. & E. I. at 11:25 this morning, and they will not be summoned for any more labor until tomorrow afternoon when the season's pay begins to accumulate.

Appling on Upgrade.

The fashion in which Luke Appling fielded, not to speak of his hitting, in the two battles with the Cubs, has just about driven from Fonseca's mind the idea that the kid never will get going at a consistent gait. Appling's fielding just about knocked the eyes out of the few Cub fans who came out to see their pets temporarily embarrassed. The trouble is that Appling had been just the reverse prior to that, so bad in fact that he was benched for a few days. If he can get away to a flying start in the regular race he might forget all about his weakness for kicking grounders when they mean something. If, after due time, he doesn't settle, the job will be turned over to Hal Rhyne.

Johnny Wilson, a right handed pitcher purchased last season from the Buffalo club, will not accompany the Sox this morning. He probably will be returned to the Bisons for additional seasoning.

Indiana Gets 11 Runs in 3 Innings; Beats Miami, 12-7

Oxford, O., April 10.—(AP)—The University of Indiana baseball team defeated Miami university, 12 to 7, today, scoring 11 runs in the last three innings. Score:

Indiana	000	010	254	12	12	5
Miami	040	002	010	7	7	6

ON GUARD FOR SOX AT THIRD

The White Sox, who open the season against the Browns tomorrow at St. Louis, aren't worrying a bit about what happens at third base, because Jimmy Dykes, the veteran obtained from the Philadelphia Athletics, is able to handle whatever comes his way with skill and dispatch. Jimmy is also a dangerous hitter with men on bases. It's plenty different from last year when everybody but the batboy took a turn at making errors at third. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Rangers and Leafs Resume Series Tonight

TORONTO, Ont., April 10.—[Special.]—The New York Rangers, who swept through two preliminary series undefeated and beat the Toronto Maple Leafs in the first two games of the finals for the Stanley cup, will seek to make it three straight tomorrow night when the series is resumed. A third victory will give the Rangers possession of the silver trophy they last won in 1928.

The New Yorkers today were overwhelming favorites to continue their string of playoff victories. The Ranger machine has shown no signs of cracking under the fast competition.

Rangers Hard to Stop.

Toronto's Maple Leafs have discovered that bottling up one or two Rangers' players is of little avail. The two preliminary playoff opponents of the Rangers saw the Cook brothers run wild. Toronto kept Dillon scoreless Saturday night in the Rangers 3 to 1 victory but Bill Cook, Ott Heller, and Carl Seibert all scored.

"Our team entered in the playoffs is in the best of condition," Lester Patrick, Rangers' veteran manager said today. "The boys maintained their form during the eliminations and right now are at the peak. We are going to make it three straight for the Stanley cup."

Canadians Back Rangers.

Patrick also discounted statements that all Canadians were hoping for a Toronto victory.

"We have received thousands of telegrams and letters from all over Canada wishing us luck in this series," he said. "Why shouldn't they be behind us?" he added. "Our team is 100 per cent Canadian."

Bradley College Nine Is Beaten by Wisconsin, 6-5

Peoria, Ill., April 10.—[Special.]—The University of Wisconsin baseball team defeated Bradley college today by a 6 to 5 score, staving off a ninth inning threat after the local collegians had made three runs in the seventh. Ken Stephens of Bradley, hurling his first college game, allowed the Badgers seven hits, including two home runs by Vaicek and one by Bocek. Pacetti went the route for the winners, yielding eight blows and fanning nine.

Japan Considers Invitation for Swim Invasion of U. S.

TOKIO, April 11.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—The prospect of another Japanese swimming invasion of America emerged today from a meeting of the directors of the Japanese swimming federation which favorably considered an invitation by the Amateur Athletic Union to send a contingent to the American championships in Chicago in July.

Babe Ruth Tries Five Dozen Bats, Then Uses Old One

New York, April 10.—[Special.]—Babe Ruth is happy today. When he hit a double into left field yesterday that won the game for the Yankees over the Brooklyn Dodgers he was using the first bat that he had found satisfactory during the spring training season.

On the Yankees' trip northward from St. Petersburg the Babe had tried no fewer than five dozen bats, and nary a one suited his taste, as is evidenced by the .240 average he had compiled up to yesterday's contest. So Babe dug into an old cedar chest in his apartment and came up with three old bats, whose notches testified to their faithfulness in past campaigns.

The Babe knew that he had found the range again in the first inning when he pounded the ball over the right field wall, the drive going foul by just a few inches.

PICKS BASEBALL TO LEAD MARCH TO PROSPERITY

Durham, N. C., April 10.—[Special.]—Baseball is going to lead the way to prosperity, in the opinion of William G. Bramham, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues. Bramham bases his optimistic prediction on the many requests which have been received for hlep in organizing teams.

"Approximately 75 cities which have not had baseball for several years are asking for help in organizing teams," Bramham said today. "They are anxious to get back. A number of them will reënter baseball this year, and I look for a large majority to be in the fold by 1934.

"Baseball will lead the way in the general revival of business which is just ahead of us."

Hold Last Rites Today for Mother of Maj. Griffith

Mount Carroll, Ill., April 10.—[Special.]—Funeral services for Mrs. John J. Griffith, mother of Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of Big Ten conference athletics, will be held here tomorrow. She died last Saturday night. She was 86 years old. In addition to Maj. Griffith, another son and a daughter survive.

PLANS COURT ORDER TO SAVE TONIGHT'S SHOW

Commission Invokes Police Power.

Wrestling was exiled from the commonwealth of Illinois yesterday for the second time in three years, when the Illinois Athletic commission, after an exhaustive investigation, decided that the game is not without its moments of deceit.

Whereas three years ago the commission declared an embargo only on heavyweight matches, it ruled yesterday to bar wrestling of any class or description.

A contest between the commission and Promoter John Krone appeared likely over the holding of a wrestling show scheduled at the Coliseum tonight, featuring Strangler Lewis and Jim Browning.

Krone said he would hold the show and displayed a sanction received from the commission and dated April 1.

Threatens Police Action.

Joseph Triner, chairman of the commission, said that Krone's permit had been revoked and there would be no show.

"If Krone goes ahead he will be promoting an illegal show and the commission has power to call out the police to stop it," Triner said. He also declared the commission would invoke such power, if necessary.

Krone said he would obtain an injunction, if necessary, in order to present the show. His statement follows:

"On the first day of April, 1933, the following letter was sent to me by the Illinois State Athletic commission:

Illinois
State Athletic Commission,
Chicago.
April 1, 1933.

Mr. John Krone,
Sherman Hotel,
Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sir:

Your application for date of April 11th at the Coliseum has been approved by the commission.

Very truly yours,
Illinois State Athletic commission.
[Signed] Louis London,
Secretary.

"Since the receipt of the letter, the authorization therein granted has not been cancelled, and therefore the match will be conducted according to the foregoing permit and in accordance with the law and the rules and regulations of the Honorable Commission.

"No doubt the Honorable Commission, if they desired or intended to cancel their permit to me, would have provided for a hearing, according to the statute and their rules and regulations.

"Inasmuch as the State of Illinois, through its commission, has authorized the match, the attorney general, Hon. Otto Kerner, or, of course, the state's attorney, Hon. Thomas J. Courtney, would be the only persons to question my right to conduct the wrestling match.

Yours very truly,
JOHN KRONE."

Misinterprets Rules—Triner.

Krone's reference to the hearing due him under the law is based on a misinterpretation of the rules, Triner said. A hearing before the commission is the right of any promoter refused a license, and 10 days' notice of such a hearing must be given in writing. This rule [sec. 16 of the Illinois law governing boxing and wrestling] does not apply in the case of a promoter who has had a license granted and then revoked, the commission contends.

John P. Murray, attorney for Doc Krone, last night intimated that he would take legal steps today to protect his client's investment in tonight's wrestling show.

May Seek Injunction.

"The commission can not suspend the statute which permits boxing and wrestling," Murray said last night. "If the commission could, then its own duties would be at an end. Neither has the status of my client changed since the commission granted permission to hold this wrestling show.

"I am not certain what course we will take. The commission first must serve Krone with notice of revocation. We may seek an injunction from the Circuit or Superior courts, we may ask the same courts for a writ of certiorari, or, since athletes from outside the jurisdiction of state courts are under contract, we may take our plea to federal district court.

"In any event, the commission has exceeded its powers, for, having granted a license, it can not revoke it without cause."

The decision to bar wrestling followed a public hearing for Joe Savoldi, who said he threw Jim Londos at the Stadium Friday night, and for Londos, who said he wasn't beaten. There also was a hearing for Bob Manogoff, the referee, but the commission conducts this one in private.

Savoldi, Londos at Hearing.

After examination, cross-examinations, and final pleas to the "gentlemen of the jury," Chairman Triner, Packy McFarland, and George Getz, the commissioners closed the doors, meditated a moment over a statement to the press and announced, as follows:

"The commission unanimously agrees that the decision of the referee, Bob Manogoff, in reference to the Lexington, Ky., April 10.—[Special.]—J. C. Milam's Kentucky Derby candidate Captain Red led home a field of five 3 year olds over the short six furlongs of the Futurity course here to win the Providence Farm claiming purse, the feature on today's card. C. W. Moore's Scream, beaten a half length, was second, three lengths ahead of the third-place Nyack.

Captain Red was one of six favorites to win. He was ridden by Apprentice Jockey Johnny Westrope, who later completed a triple by bringing home a long shot, Bonnie View, in the sixth race and the favored Flying Dere in the nightcap.

Two Victories for Milam.

Westrope's victory astride Flying Dere marked the second time during the afternoon that the Milam colors won.

Captain Red, the gelded son of Captain Alcock and Wilton Flanna, which is rated at 200 to 1 in the future books on the Derby, was far the best of the small but select field against which he raced. He was held back slightly for the first half mile, but responded at the first call from Westrope and raced the pace maker, Scream, into defeat to draw away in the final furlong.

Scream managed to stay in front for part of the distance, but was plainly short and failed to respond to the winner's challenge. Nyack stayed in third place throughout, never approaching the two leaders after the first furlong.

Plumage brought up the rear.

Pays Only $3.75.

Captain Red had been highly regarded in the wagering and went to post a 9 to 10 favorite. He paid $3.75 to win and $2.48 to place. On account of the small size of the field there was no show betting.

His time for the course, which is 170 feet less than six furlongs, was 1:09 3-5, one second slower than the track record set last year by Epithet.

ARMOUR TECH, CHICAGO NINES TO CLASH TODAY

The Armour Tech baseball team, which beat the University of Chicago, 3 to 2, in a pre-season game on the Midway last week, will meet the Maroons again this afternoon on the Armour athletic field at 33d and Federal streets.

The Armour team has been working out daily in anticipation of a stiff schedule of Northern Intercollegiate conference games. With ten letter men returning from last year's squad, Armour is expected to bid for the conference title.

Buehne and Mayer are the veteran pitchers whom Northern Intercollegiate batters will face again this year. They will be assisted by Dollenmaier, Baumel and Machinis. Lukas, a hard hitting catcher; Capt. Sommers in center field, and the Omiecinski brothers, infielders, are other experienced men who will be in the line-up. The Armour schedule:

April 11—Armour at Northwestern.
April 22—*Armour at Lake Forest.
April 26—*North Central at Armour.
April 29—*Armour at Wheaton.
May 1—Northwestern at Armour.

NATIONAL PREP TRACK MEET SET FOR JUNE 16, 17

The University of Chicago's 29th annual interscholastic track and field games will be held at Soldiers' field June 16 and 17 as one of the first important athletic events in connection with the Century of Progress Exposition. Decision of the athletic department of the university to transfer the event, in which the outstanding prep stars of the country compete, from Stagg field was announced yesterday.

The individual entries normally total more than 500, but the decision to hold the meet in connection with the exposition is expected to result in a large increase. Last year 21 states were represented by 131 schools. Senior High of Arkansas City, Kas., was the winner.

The Chicago interscholastic is the only national high school track meet in the country. Practically every track star of prominence has competed in the meet, and its record pages since 1902 is a "Who's Who" of the track greats from Ed Parry and Walter Eckersall to Hornbostel, Simpson, and Fuqua.

The annual interscholastic tennis tournament will be held on the Midway from May 30 to June 2.

Sidetrack Bill for New York Horse Betting

Albany, N. Y., April 10.—[Special.]—Legislation to permit open betting at race tracks died mysteriously in the senate today despite urgent appeals for the measures by former Gov. Al Smith and other prominent Democrats.

Two measures were pending in the upper house as the senators went down the homestretch for the final adjournment. One was the Wallace-Crawford bill repealing the Hughes anti-betting laws in time for the racing season which had the active support of the Jockey club and was passed in the assembly.

Frantic efforts were made to bring it out of the finance committee. An affirmative vote was expected if it reached the floor.

The finance committee also buried th Breitenbach resolution for a constitutional amendment to permit parimutuel betting at race tracks which the assembly had passed. Proponents of the bills had contended that racing would suffer great loss or be suspended entirely unless the race tracks were given the advantages of the betting reform measures.

SHORTER SEASON LIKELY

New York, April 10.—[Special.]—As a result of the rejection today by the senate of the Crawford-Wallace bill to legalize betting, racing in New York state will be curtailed during the coming season, it was stated today by William Woodward, chairman of the Jockey club.

Expressing keen disappointment at the senatorial action, which came three days after the assembly had passed the measure by an overwhelming 117 to 17 vote, Mr. Woodward declared that he did not know to what extent the season would be shortened, but that there was no other alternative.

The Jockey club will meet on Thursday to set up the schedule for the coming season, and it will not be until then that the full effect of the blow will be ascertained. The chances are, Mr. Woodward said, that the opening meeting would be held as usual at Jamaica, but that the start would be about May 1.

The fall season is likely to suffer even more than the spring campaign. The Jockey club will watch the way the public supports the sport in the spring before formulating complete plans for the fall.

COLLINS BEATS WORTH IN 18.2 AMATEUR PLAY

Percy Collins of Oak Park, national amateur 18.2 balkline billiard champion, last night defeated Jerry Worth of Oak Park, holder of the Illinois state amateur title, 250 to 105 in 18 innings, in the 18.2 amateur balkline tournament at the Lake-Marion recreation in Oak Park. In the other night game Arle Schaap defeated Noble Larson, 250 to 97, in 25 innings. James Peabody, former western titleholder, triumphed over Gordon Green of Beloit, Wis., 250 to 121, in 24 innings.

Monmouth Opens Little 19 Season with Macomb Today

Monmouth, Ill., April 10.—[Special.]—Monmouth college baseball team will open its Little Nineteen conference season tomorrow against Western Illinois Teachers college at Macomb.

Illinois Turns Back Wesleyan in Drizzle, 8 to 2

Bloomington, Ill., April 10.—[Special.]—The University of Illinois baseball team defeated Illinois Wesleyan today, 8 to 2, in a drizzling rain. The contest was close until the last two innings, when the Illini scored five runs, mainly because of Wesleyan errors.

Wesleyan scored its two runs in the sixth on two bases on balls and a double against the scoreboard in left center by Al Sherer.

Smith and Carlson struck out thirteen Wesleyan batsmen. Kasch, who replaced Yule at shortstop for the Illini in the sixth, took hitting honors for the day. He had two singles in two trips to the plate and drove in four runs. Score:

Illinois	000	102	023	8	12	2

recommended persons into the club without requiring them to pay a membership fee, which formerly was $1,200. The only financial requirement is the payment of dues, $132 per year. We have taken in 60 new members during March, bringing our total to 240. We expect to get a still greater number during April as the season gets under way."

Glen View's Condition Sound.

Frederick McNally, vice president of Glen View, said that that club is in a thoroughly sound financial condition. There are a few vacancies on the membership list.

Van V. Lain, president of the Beverly Country club, made the following statement:

"We have no indebtedness and all our taxes are paid to date. Our current income covers all our current expenses. We have made no special assessments for two years. There are seven vacancies in our membership quota of 315."

WESTERN STATE AND IOWA NINES TO BATTLE TODAY

Kalamazoo, Mich., April 10.—[Special.]—Western State Teachers will play the University of Iowa baseball team here tomorrow and Wednesday. The Hill Toppers are confident they will do no worse than an even split with the veteran Hawkeye team.

Lefty Brandt is slated to pitch the first game tomorrow against Iowa. Brandt, a sensation with the freshman team a year ago, is regarded as one of the most promising pitchers Western State has had in several years. Rube Marquard, who turned back Chicago with three hits and struck out 14 men, will pitch Wednesday if he is in shape. Otherwise, the duty will fall to Howard Taylor or Leon Phelps.

30 Year Old Gourd Serves as Bird House

BY BOB BECKER.

A common gourd, hollowed out to provide a nesting box for house wrens, has been in use on the north shore for more than 30 years, according to Anne Higginson Spicer of Kenilworth, who is well qualified by experience to tell bird fans that gourds make wonderful apartments for the peppery wrens.

A few days ago we reported the popularity of gourds as nesting boxes in the south. Georgia, especially, is using thousands of them for martins and wrens. At that time we commented on the fact that we had seen very few furnished the birds in Chicagoland.

It's Old but Still Good.

And now Mrs. Spicer reports a 30 year old gourd which is housing a brood of wrens every summer. Her letter follows:

"It was with great interest that I read the article on gourds as bird houses in THE TRIBUNE. Here is my experience with them: More than 30 years ago Fred Schramm, one of the men engaged by the village in its early days, brought me a fine gourd he had raised. Mr. Spicer asked if I would like him to make a birdhouse of it. I was delighted by the idea. So he made a hole in the side and in some mysterious way scooped out the 'innards.'

"The following spring we hung the gourd under the eaves of our house and very soon the wrens began to investigate it. Then they took possession of it and began dragging nesting material into it.

They Mend the Gourd.

"The second year we had another batch of wrens. Then I caught two lads stealing the gourd and, being younger than now, I gave chase two blocks and they dropped the gourd, also a culprit's cap. The gourd having been cracked in this episode, Mr. Spicer looked it over and decided it could be mended. Also he figured it would be a good idea to saw it across so we could clean it out annually. Accordingly, my husband sawed the gourd across, reinforced it inside, put tiny hinges on one side and a hook and loop on the other, and rehung it the next spring. The wrens took it again!

"One year, seeing sparrows harassing the wrens, we found that through much use the size of the entrance hole had been increased. Mr. Spicer took a sheet of copper, made a hole the accurate size and reinserted it inside the entrance.

In Use Every Year.

"Since then the gourd has been in constant use—I believe over 30 years. I observe that the wrens prefer it for their second brood, going into a little windmill box for the May nest. But no year passes without at least one brood of wrens in the old gourd.

"It not only has been a safe and attractive home to wrens, but also the purveyor of much pleasure to many of us who watch wrens keep house every summer."

McAvoy Beats Harvey for British Middleweight Title

Manchester, England, April 10.—(AP)—Jock McAvoy of Rochdale tonight won the middleweight boxing title of Great Britain, outpointing Len Harvey, the defending champion, in a 15 round bout.

POLO TEAMS AND FANS READY FOR NATIONAL MEET

Games Begin Tomorrow at Armory.

Final arrangements were made yesterday for the opening of the national indoor polo tournament tomorrow night at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

As the Chicago Riding club and Sixth Corps Area trios, opponents in tomorrow's feature event, took their last heavy workouts in their respective arenas, preparations were made to ship the ponies out to the armory tonight. There they will be quartered until game time. Tomorrow, except for light exercise, they will put in a day of rest, for the players realize that the horses may be the deciding factor in the outcome, since both teams are equally rated as to player strength, with 15 goal handicaps apiece.

Smith Shows Ability.

An air of confidence pervaded both camps. Capt. Maxwell M. Corpening, the Riding club leader, declared himself especially cheered over the showing of Lieut. Larry Smith, who joined the team late last week. Prentice Porter, former star of Yale, where the greatest polo players in the country have been developed, is also at the top of his game, stated Capt. Corpening.

Lieut. Smith's assignment will include one difficult job in tomorrow night's encounter—that of halting the goalward gallops of Capt. C. A. Wilkinson, the Sixth Corps Area's scoring ace. In three of his four appearances at the armory during the Metropolitan league tournament this season, Capt. Wilkinson has averaged eight goals per game. Much of the credit for that record, the fans have noted, has been due to the support from his teammates, Maj. C. C. Smith and Capt. C. E. Davis.

Milwaukee to Play Exhibition.

As a curtain raiser to tomorrow night's championship feature, the Milwaukee Badgers, runners-up in the C class in the western title tournament, and the 122d Field Artillery, prominent contender in the D class, will play an exhibition game starting at 8:30 p. m.

Roosevelt Will Throw Out First Ball Tomorrow

Washington, D. C., April 10.—(AP)—"When the President flashes that million dollar smile of his it is bound to help my boys get off to a good start in the 1933 race for the pennant."

Thus spoke Clark Griffith, president of the Washington American league baseball team, as he completed arrangements today for President Roosevelt to toss out the first ball at the season opener here Wednesday.

DOES THE GRAIN OF YOUR BEARD RUN IN STRANGE DIRECTIONS?

Do you suffer from "whirls" of hair on your chin or neck? Does the grain of your beard run every which way? If so you have difficulty shaving and our message is very important to you. Thousands and thousands of men share your trouble but have found permanent shaving comfort with the Probak double-edge razor blade.

You may ask us why this blade is particularly suited for men with hard-to-shave beards. There is a sound reason. The Probak has an entirely different type of edge than is found on any other blade.

You need only try Probak to learn for yourself. We positively guarantee it to give you a degree of shaving comfort previously enjoyed only by men with average beards. Prove this. Buy a package of Probaks tonight.

STADIUM FIGHT CARD APRIL 21 IS COMPLETED

Scalba, Ex-Golden Gloves Champion, to Battle.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Since the Illinois Athletic commission has turned the heat on the rasslers, which provides another chapter in the sequence of bans and must nots promulgated by the previous commission and was to be expected sooner or later, Chicago fans now may turn their attention to the Stadium's next boxing offering on April 21.

Izzy Gastanaga, New York heavyweight, will lead the card that night in a 10 round bout against Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, one time 175 pound ruler. Gastanaga has advanced by easy stages to the Stadium ring. In his first showing here he knocked out Babe Hunt at the Coliseum and then took the elevated to White City, where he dropped Joe Doktor in one round under the auspices of Pep Kerwin.

Loughran Comes Back to Win.

Loughran probably is as well known in Chicago as King Levinsky. Indeed, his fifth and last fight here was against the King in 1931 on which evening Tommy picked himself up from the floor and went on to win the decision.

Otto Von Porat and Hans Birkie, another New York heavyweight, also will meet for ten rounds or less. Von Porat started his comeback attempt by losing on a technical knockout to Tuffy Griffith at the Coliseum.

Scozza Battles Fox.

Lou Scozza, Buffalo light heavyweight, and Tiger Jack Fox, Terre Haute, Ind., heavyweight, are booked for an eight round supporting bout. Scozza competed in Chicago last during the Stadium 175 pound tournament to produce a National Boxing association champion. That champion was George Nichols, who arrived by whipping Scozza and finally Dave Maier of Milwaukee. Scozza's most recent achievement was a decision over Maxie Rosenblom in New York.

Marty Sampson, New York middleweight, and Frankie O'Brien, Hartford, Conn., were approved yesterday by the commission for an eight round supporting match.

Scalba Comes Home.

The six round preliminary brings a former Golden Gloves champion back to Chicago after a series of fights in the east. Nick Scalba, nee Scialaba when he won the intercity Golden Gloves bantamweight title in 1931 and followed with a victory in the international bouts against France, will meet Joie Palazzola of Detroit.

Spike Herrera, local welterweight, and Eddie Rayford are to meet in the six round windup at the Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue, tonight. Virgil Bemi and Red Chinski are matched. Other matches follow: Johnny Fitzpatrick vs. Georgie Stokes, Joey Haines vs. Sammy Morales, and Chuck Reed vs. Curtis Mills.

The Illinois athletic commission yesterday acknowledged Kid Irish's state featherweight championship claim by notifying other Illinois 126 pound boxers they can challenge the claim. Young Stuhley claims the state middleweight title and Tuffy Griffith is recognized as the heavyweight champion.

After the Johnny Phagan-Jackie Purvis bout Friday shows will be presented at the Cicero Stadium on May 12 and 26. . . . Pep Kerwin is arranging a card at White City for Monday night. . . . Charlie White, former lightweight, has had his right arm placed in a sling following a fall through the plate glass door of his home. Twelve stitches were taken in his right hand. . . . George Getz, Illinois boxing commissioner, yesterday said he doesn't drink the new 3.2 per cent beer.

Tiger Jack Fox, Terre Haute, Ind., heavyweight, left Chicago yesterday for Joplin, Mo., where he is to meet Buster Hall on Thursday. Fox will return Monday to finish workouts for his eight round bout against Lou Scozza at the Stadium, April 21.

Ryerson Leads Qualifiers in Mason and Dixon Golf

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 10.—(AP)—John B. Ryerson of Cooperstown, N. Y., posted a 72 to lead the qualifying field in the annual Mason and Dixon golf tournament by seven strokes today. David N. Tallman of Minneapolis was runnerup with 79. Roof Gilson of Jackson, Mich., was third with 81.

MILWAUKEEANS WIN DOUBLES AS A. B. C. MEET ENDS

Columbus, O., April 10.—[Special.]—More champions were crowned in the 33d American Bowling Congress tournament as the national pin classic closed tonight.

Gil Zunker and Frankie Benkovic won the doubles championship, setting an all time record of 1,415. The Milwaukee pair rolled games of 486, 501, and 428 last Monday in beating the old record of 1,380, scored by Harry and Clarence Thoma at Chicago in 1924. Zunker went through the 30 frames without an open, scoring 258, 267, and 225. Benkovic, who won the doubles title last year paired with Charley Daw, scored 228, 234, and 203. It is the first time in A. B. C. history that a member of a championship doubles team ever has repeated.

Milwaukee with only 18 teams entered, outclassed the 212 cities and towns on the card. Had Rudy Riepel's 722 score stood high, Milwaukee would have won three of the four championships, an achievement unprecedented in A. B. C. history.

Wilson Doubles in Pinch; Dodgers Whip Macks, 7 to 6

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 10.—[Special.]—Hack Wilson, former Cub, called from the Dodger bench to bat for Pitcher Hollis Thurston in the eleventh inning today, responded with a double that enabled the Dodgers to tie the score with the Athletics. Danny Taylor, another ex-Cub, then singled and the Dodgers conquered the Macks, 7 to 6, in the final exhibition game of the series for both teams.

SHORTSTOP IS PROBLEM.

Cleveland, O., April 10.—[Special.]—Manager Roger Peckinpaugh of the Cleveland Indians was still undecided today as to whom he would use at shortstop when the Indians open the season against Detroit Wednesday. He said he would not announce whether Johnny Burnett, last year's regular shortstop, or Bill Knickerbocker, star member of the Toledo club last year, would start. Clint Brown probably will be the starting pitcher.

PHILS BEAT MONTREAL.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 10.—(AP)—A pair of rookies pitched the Phillies to a 2 to 1 victory over the Montreal Internationals today.

Clarence Pickrel and Frank Pearce held the Royals to five hits, while the Phils could collect only six off three Montreal pitchers.

SENATORS, 5; ORIOLES, 4.

Washington, D. C., April 10.—(AP)—The Senators scored a 5 to 4 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles today and wound up their exhibition series with a record of 17 victories, 5 losses, and one tie.

Although Manager Joe Cronin retired in the second with an injured left hand, an X-ray showed no broken bones, and he was expected back in the lineup for the opener before President Roosevelt Wednesday.

RED SOX DOWN COLLEGIANS.

Boston, Mass., April 10.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox closed their exhibition season today by whipping the Boston college, 9 to 2, at Fenway park. The game was a benefit for the Boston College Athletic association, as the collegians were to receive all of the receipts, but drew only 200 paid admissions. Score:

Boston [A.]	110	020	41*—9	13 1
Boston college	000	000	110—2	8 0

Batteries—H. Johnson, Gallagher and Olson; Roy, McLaughlin, Powers, Duffy and McIntyre, Funchion, Nicholson.

TIGERS CLOSE WITH WIN.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 10.—(AP)—Winding up their training season with an 8 to 4 victory today over the Buffalo International leaguers, the Detroit Tigers entrained for Detroit this evening, with a record of 13 victories and 6 defeats in their pre-season schedule. Score:

Batteries—Hogsett, Wyatt and Reiber; Gallivan, Bartulis, Pfingstler, Signor and Crouse.

GIANTS WHIP FORDHAM.

New York, April 10.—(AP)—The New York Giants, playing their 31st and final exhibition game of the season, today defeated Fordham university, 7 to 0. Lefty Al Smith, a rookie, went the route for the Giants and held the collegians to six hits and fanned ten. Score:

New York	300	000	130—7	11 3

Batteries—Smith and Healey, Danning; Auer, Keenan, Giacondino and Sager.

PIRATES WIN, 3 TO 2.

Louisville, Ky., April 10.—(AP)—The Pirates scored all their runs in the fourth inning in closing their spring exhibition tour today with a 3 to 2 victory over Louisville.

Pittsburgh	000	300	000—3	7 0
Louisville	010	000	001—2	9 2

Batteries—Chagnon, Birkofer and Padden; Hatter, McLean, Sharpe and Thompson, Erickson.

SAINTS BEAT REDS, 7-6.

Cincinnati, O., April 10.—[Special.]—A two run rally in the seventh inning enabled the St. Paul club of the American association to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 7 to 6, in an exhibition game today. Newkirk and T ow pitched for the minor leaguers and yielded seven hits. Score:

St. Paul	302	000	200—7	10 3

Batteries—Newkirk, Trow and Fenner, Giuliani; Miller, Hilcher, and Hemsley.

YANKEES SWAMP CADETS.

West Point, N. Y., April 10.—(AP)—The Yankees, minus Babe Ruth, who stayed at home to doctor a sore throat, made their annual trip to the Plains today and defeated the Army, 9 to 0, before a crowd of 5,000. Score:

New York	020	003	004—9	12 1

Batteries—W. Brown and Jorgens; Tieman, Field, Remus, Adamson and T. Brown.

Kawal Elected Baseball Captain by Penn Cadets

Chester, Pa., April 10.—(AP)—Eddie Kawal, Cicero, Ill., former University of Illinois athlete, today was elected captain of the Pennsylvania Military college baseball team for this season. For the last two years he has been on the football, basketball and baseball squads. He is a pitcher and outfielder.

32D TITLE RACE TO START TODAY IN ASSOCIATION

Today's Games

Milwaukee at Indianapolis.
Kansas City at Louisville.
St. Paul at Toledo.
Minneapolis at Columbus.

Minneapolis, the 1932 champion, will meet Columbus, the club picked by a majority of forecasters to take the 1933 pennant, on the Red Birds' field as the American association opens its 32d season this afternoon. Opening games will be played in the eastern half of the circuit.

For the first time since the league was organized in 1901 the championship will be decided on a playoff basis, the team with the highest percentage in the western half of the circuit, comprising Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee, and Kansas City, meeting the leader in the eastern sector, made up of Columbus, Toledo, Indianapolis, and Louisville, for the title. The ultimate winner also will represent the association in the annual little world series with the champions of the International league.

By this method a team which finishes as low as fifth during the 154 game regular season may play for the championship in the seven game playoff. This would occur if all the clubs in one-half of the league finished in the second division.

The Milwaukee Brewers, who inaugurate the season at Indianapolis, also meet a club which is rated an outstanding contender for the pennant.

St. Paul at Toledo and the Kansas City Blues at Louisville complete the opening day program.

YPSILANTI NINE BOOKS 4 GAMES WITH MICHIGAN

Ypsilanti, Mich., April 10.—[Special.]—Michigan Normal college baseball team will play a schedule of 11 games with teams of four states. Four are with University of Michigan, two each at Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti.

Evanston Student Qualifies as Distinguished Rifleman

Washington, D. C., April 10.—[Special.]—Stewart Waring Jr., 1315 Davis street, Evanston, Ill., has qualified in the junior division of the National Rifle association as a distinguished rifleman, the highest grade of shooting proficiency, it was announced today. Waring is a member of the Evanston Township High School Rifle club and won his qualification medal under the instruction of J. Russell Reesman.

Wrestling Ban in State Fought by Promoter

Londos-Savoldi wrestling match stands as rendered.

"The bout in question was not for the wrestling championship because the commission does not recognize any wrestling champion or championship wrestling matches, and because of this reason the commission did not allow the announcerto announce James Londos as champion.

Sport Banned Indefinitely.

"Sanction for any and all wrestling bouts has been with the understanding that they were not for any championship and were only exhibitions.

"The commission further unanimously agrees to suspend wrestling in the state of Illinois indefinitely. Any and all sanctions for wrestling matches from this date on are hereby revoked."

A wrestling addict leaped to his feet with the reading of this ultimatum and, wringing his hat in a washwoman grip, begged the commission's pardon.

"What about the Browning-Lewis show at the Coliseum?" he pleaded.

"Off," Triner answered laconically.

"Off. No show."

The addict staggered away, crestfallen. Londos said he would go to California and Savoldi announced that in the case Londos was going west, he would go east.

Advertised as Title Match.

Triner said the commission was powerless to exact repraisals from the promoters of Friday night's show, the Chicago Stadium Operating company, for advertising the match as a championship affair involving the National Wrestling association's diamond belt. The advertising had been done without the commission's consent and all the commission could do was to prevent it from happening again.

The public hearing developed nothing in testimony that shed any light on the happenings of Friday night when Savoldi was awarded the match on a fall in 26 minutes and 20 seconds, except that Londos did not appear to know exactly what happened. He continued to maintain he was on his ear and not his shoulder, and that Savoldi's feet were in the ropes.

Baer Reaches New York to Train for Schmeling

New York, April 10.—[Special.]—Max Baer, Livermore, Cal., heavyweight, arrived today to prepare for his fight with Max Schmeling at the Yankee stadium on the night of June 8. Baer weighs 218 pounds, but hopes to get down to 210 for his fight with Schmeling, which will give him a 20 pound advantage. Schmeling will arrive on Friday from Germany.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 10.—Bonds, particularly the speculative variety, went up today under the influence of the advance scored in the stock market.

General improvement throughout speculative grades was attributed to the expectation that some degree of inflation will result from the expenditures for public works contemplated by President Roosevelt.

Rallying tendencies in speculative rail bonds were evident in such issues as Alleghany corporation 5s, St. Paul 5s, Chicago and North Western 4½s, Erie refunding and improvement 5s, Great Northern 7s, Missouri Pacific 5s, New York Central refunding 5s, New Haven convertible debenture 6s, Pennsylvania railroad debenture 4½s, St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern 4s, Southern Pacific 4½s, and others.

High Grade Bonds Neglected.

Little interest ruled in the market for high grade corporation bonds, owing partly to the inflation talk, but more largely to the virtually complete absence of institutional buying of any importance.

United States government securities were firm, displaying marked resistance to the possibility of large public works bond issues. The short term treasury issues were firm on continued easy money conditions. Long term treasury bonds held little changed.

Refunding Not Expected.

Liberty fourth 4¼s climbed fractionally higher, reflecting the view that Secretary Woodin will not elect to call this issue on April 15 for conversion on Oct. 15. If not called on the first call date, the issue offers a relatively attractive yield, calculated to conversion dates beyond Oct. 15.

In the foreign list mild improvement prevailed. German bonds climbed from fractions to several points in one or two instances.

Bankers Reserve Life.

I am interested in knowing the facts regarding Bankers Reserve Life Insurance company. I am inclosing stamped addressed envelope for your reply.—H. R. W.

Bankers Reserve Life company (Omaha) was originally established in 1897 as a stipulated premium company. In 1903 it was changed to a mutual legal reserve company. In 1908 it was reincorporated as a stock company. Original capital stock totaled $100,000. This was increased to $500,000 by a 400 per cent stock dividend in 1930.

The company finished 1932 with admitted assets of $22,589,000. More than 60 per cent was in government, state, county, municipal, and school bonds and more than 24 per cent in policy loans. Bonds totaled $13,625,000, policy loans $5,513,000, mortgage loans $1,260,000, home office building $864,000, other real estate $35,000, and cash $425,000.

On Dec. 31, 1931, total assets of $22,748,000 included $14,250,000 of bonds, $5,011,000 policy loans, $1,313,000 mortgage loans, $890,000 real estate, and $411,000 cash. Assets on Dec. 31, 1930, were $22,432,000, against $16,582,000 at the close of 1925.

Liabilities on Dec. 31, 1932, included $18,345,000 net legal reserve, $1,942,000 unassigned surplus, and $500,000 stock.

The company reported insurance in force of $116,535,000 on Dec. 31, 1932, against $125,055,000 the year before. $132,028,000 at the close of 1930, and $101,534,000 on Dec. 31, 1925.

Total income in 1932 was $4,358,000 and disbursements aggregated $4,644,000. In 1931 the company reported income of $4,973,000 and disbursements of $4,580,000.

Forty-two states and the District of Columbia have authorized the company to transact business.

Quotation and Yield.

I saw in a recent list of quotations that United States Fourth Liberty 4¼s were listed as yielding 1.58 per cent. Is this figure correct? If these bonds pay 4¼ per cent, how could they arrive at a yield of 1.58 per cent?—B. A. G.

The Fourth Liberty 4¼s mature Oct. 15, 1938. They are callable as a whole or in part, however, on and after Oct. 15, 1933, on any interest date on six months' notice. There is a possibility that these bonds may be called in the near future. Yield, therefore, is figured on the basis of Oct. 15, 1933, maturity. At a price of about 101⅝ the yield on that basis would be 1.58 per cent.

FLOOD OF CROP DAMAGE NEWS BOOSTS WHEAT

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A flood of crop damage reports from the western and southwestern sections of the winter wheat belt overshadowed inflation talk as a market influence yesterday. While there was a lack of large buying orders during a good part of the day commission houses were persistent on the bull side, taking the offerings in small lots, and at no time did prices drop below the finish of last week.

Toward the last there was evening up for the government estimate on the winter wheat crop, which the trade anticipated would make a bullish showing. Selling against offers checked the advance, but the close was at the highest level on the present upturn and September wheat came within ⅛ cent of the best price on the crop. The finish was at net gains of 1 to 1⅛ cents, with May at 58⅛ to 58¼ cents, July 59 to 59⅛ cents, and September 60 to 60⅛ cents.

Wheat Belt Needs Rain.

A growing need of moisture was reported over an area that seeded around 10,000,000 acres of winter wheat last season, and dust storms were reported over a wide area in Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska. The forecast was for frost or freezing temperatures in northern Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas overnight. The trade was apprehensive of damage should low temperatures prevail, as the crop has made rather rapid progress in the southwest lately.

Heavy buying of May against sales of July and September wheat was in evidence at times, which the trade regarded as changing over of hedges into the distant futures. Both Kansas City and Minneapolis showed more strength than Chicago and had some influence on the local market. Reports of delayed seeding of spring wheat were received from the northwest. Winnipeg failed to follow the advances in American markets and closed unchanged for the day. Liverpool was off ¼ to ⅜ cent per bushel.

Corn Futures Under Pressure.

Corn failed to show the snap on the buying side so much in evidence early last week, and at times futures dipped fractionally below Saturday's finish. Toward the last, however, support improved and the market advanced to close at the top, with net gains of ⅜ cent. May finished at 32⅞ cents, July at 35¼ to 35¼ cents, and September at 36¾ to 36⅞ cents.

Continued wet weather is seriously delaying seeding of the new oat crop over a considerable area in Iowa and Illinois, the largest commercial producing states. This had some effect on futures, which showed a firm undertone throughout the day with net gains of ¼ to ½ cent. May was 20⅝ cents and July 20⅞ cents at the last. Shipping sales aggregated 122,000 bushels.

Rye prices held within relatively narrow limits and closed ⅞ cent higher, with May and September at 45¾ cents and July at 46¼ cents. Barley was up ⅛ cent at the last, with May 32 cents and September 33½ cents.

Bankers Think Reserve 'Hogs' Federal Notes

BY HOWARD WOOD.

A schism in the ranks of the federal reserve banks loomed last night over the allotment of new issues of United States government short term bonds.

For weeks there has been a growing feeling of resentment among bankers against what they believe is a deliberate scheme to prevent banks acquiring new issues of treasury bills.

This feeling was heightened last night when bankers learned the terms of the $75,000,000 issue of 91-day treasury bills dated April 12, 1933. The accepted bids, they were convinced, were those of special agents commissioned to act for the reserve banks.

According to last night's announcement by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Ballantine, the total amount applied for was $404,325,000. Except for one bid of $200,000 at 99.947, the highest bid made was 99.826, equivalent to an interest rate of about 0.69 per cent on an annual basis. The lowest bid accepted was 99.8, equivalent to an interest rate of about 0.79 per cent on an annual basis. The average price of treasury bills to be issued is 99.806. The average rate on a bank discount basis is about 0.77 per cent.

Sold on Discount Basis.

Treasury bills bear no interest coupons. The purchaser obtains a return on his money only by bidding for the bills below par. These bills are payable at maturity, in 90 days, at 100. Therefore the purchaser figures his return by subtracting the price he pays from 100.

Banks in New York and Chicago yesterday bid for many millions of this $75,000,000 issue, but last night their officers came to the conclusion that they had been left holding the bag and that none of the allotment had been made to their banks.

These New York and Chicago bankers had put in bids which if accepted would have given them yields of from 0.9 per cent to 1.20 per cent on an annual basis, that is, a return of 90 cents to $1.20 per $100 of investment, on an annual basis.

The accepted bids, however, averaged only .77 per cent and ranged from .69 per cent to .79 per cent, which meant that others than the banks got all the allotment.

As early as yesterday afternoon it was rumored in New York that three houses specializing in short term government bonds had put in bids much higher even than the high bids of the New York and Chicago banks.

Reserve Agents Buying?

Interested, the banks began checking up and discovered that these three houses had not run up bank loans to finance these operations, as is ordinarily the case when such houses are buying government securities for their customers. The conclusion of the bankers, therefore, was that these houses were not acting for private customers, but were acting as special agents for the federal reserve banks. This they have suspected for some time.

The bankers were especially irate because in competing with their member banks in bidding for the government bonds the reserve banks were using the member banks' own funds—the excess reserves carried by the member banks with the reserve system.

"They are whipsawing us and using our own money to do it with," asserted one banker. "The same thing happened last week, when 100 millions were sold. The banks' bids averaged from 1.4 to 1.5 per cent. The maximum bid accepted, however, was at a lower interest rate. The banks didn't get allotments.

"These operations indicate that the reserve authorities are still intent upon manipulating the price of government securities and upon keeping the banks from getting any return on investments in government securities."

Chicagoans at Reserve Board Mystery Talk

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—Operations of the Chicago Federal Reserve banks were debated today when three directors of the bank met here today with the federal reserve board.

Both directors and board members were tight-lipped after they emerged from the conference, but James R. Leavell of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company of Chicago, newly elected director of the reserve bank, said no "startling development" would come out of the meeting.

Accompanying Mr. Leavell from the Chicago district were two other directors, George E. Schaller, president of the Citizens' First National bank of Storm Lake, Ia., and Edward R. Estberg, president of the Waukesha National bank of Waukesha, Wis.

Mr. Leavell left for New York before the reserve board convened for its afternoon meeting, but the other two directors remained.

"Local chatter," was the way the meeting was characterized by the directors. Officials of the reserve board insisted that nothing except internal operating problems of the Chicago bank were discussed. The Chicago Reserve bank holds the largest stock of free gold in the federal reserve system, the reserve board's report shows.

Its free gold amounts to 367 million dollars, compared with only 240 millions in the New York Reserve bank.

Because of its total gold holdings, aggregating 836 million dollars, the Chicago bank has the highest ratio of gold to outstanding liabilities in the entire reserve system. The reserve percentage for the Chicago bank is 72, compared with 70 for the Richmond, Va., bank, the second highest.

BRITISH BLAME RESERVE HEADS FOR BANK CRISIS

Here is a British view of the American banking crisis. Referring to the events leading up to the banking holiday, the Stock Exchange Gazette of London has this to say: "There is a growth of recognition that the episode has been disastrous, without any warrant beyond the hysterical fears of the inexperienced and incapable men in charge of the federal reserve system. It is admitted in a good many quarters that these men ought to be eliminated, but they are strongly entrenched politically, and hard to throw off.

"Eventually, as is now recognized, there must be a complete house cleaning; otherwise there will be no possibility of recovery from the present depression and disorganization in banking."

Southern California Reports Rise in Building; Silent on Cause.

The current issue of the Southwest Business Review, published monthly by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, contains fourteen pages of analysis of business developments in southern California during March, but makes no mention whatever of the earthquake, biggest business news event of the month in southern California.

"New construction during March," boasts the Review, "was 36 per cent higher than that for February." The nearest approach to mention of the earthquake is a statement that "owners generally whose buildings were damaged are anxious to proceed with reconstruction, and many have funds available."

Bankruptcies of Under $1,000 Liabilities Increase Recently.

The number of "three figure" bankruptcy petitions, with assets and liabilities of less than $1,000, has been increasing in recent weeks. Yesterday a Wheaton motorman, Wallace Tucker, filed a bill in the United States District court, listing liabilities of $976 and assets of $150. Assets were not detailed.

Public Holds Fewest Gold Notes Since '23

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—Fewer gold certificates are in the hands of American citizens than at any time in the last decade, the treasury department revealed today, and the amount of gold coin in circulation is the lowest in almost two years.

The low ebb in gold circulation resulting from the anti-gold hoarding drives was disclosed in the treasury's statement showing that 6 billion 319 million dollars of all types of money were in circulation at the end of March. This total showed a decline of $226,000,000 since the end of February, reflecting the abatement in hoarding and cash payments made necessary by the banking holiday.

461 Millions Returned.

Approximately 461 million dollars in gold and gold certificates was driven out of circulation last month by the anti-hoarding campaigns, the report shows. The total gold coin outstanding at the end of March was 367 millions, and the total of gold certificates was 393 millions.

Not since just before Great Britain went off the gold standard in 1931, stimulating gold hoarding, has so little gold coin been in the hands of the people, treasury records show. The circulation of gold certificates was at the lowest point since 1923 when the certificates began to be paid out again after the world war gold embargo.

Reserve Notes Out Increase.

About a half of the gold which returned from circulation last month was replaced by paper currency, mainly federal reserve notes. The amount of reserve notes in circulation increased by 216 millions and reached a total of 2 billion 621 million at the end of last month.

The emergency federal reserve bank notes created by the emergency banking law to help make banks liquid continue to play a very minor part in the monetary system, the treasury's report shows. The amount outstanding increased by 15 millions last month, less than one-fourteenth of the increase shown by the more common federal reserve notes. The total federal reserve notes outstanding at the end of March was 17 millions.

RAIL MERGER PLAN IS OMITTED IN NEW BILLS

Held to Economies Under Co-ordinator.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—The railroad relief program of the Roosevelt administration has struck a snag, it appeared tonight after a lengthy conference on the subject was held at the White House.

Secretary of Commerce Roper, who has been in charge of the attempts to formulate a comprehensive plan to bring the American railroad system back to profitable days, indicated after the conference that for the present only temporary and limited legislation will be sought. He verified that bills are being drafted providing for the appointment of a federal coördinator of railway services, whose function it will be to strive for eliminations of duplicative and wasteful passenger and freight service.

Mr. Roper said he hoped to have the bills in completed form during the latter part of the week.

Original Program Held Up.

But for the broader and far reaching original aims of the Roosevelt program, providing for consolidations of many railroads into strong, efficient units, Mr. Roper evaded discussion of them by saying that "we haven't gone into that yet." It is well known, however, that for many weeks he has had under consideration several well supported plans for consolidations, and has often conferred on the subject with the President.

The conference tonight was attended by Secretaries Roper and Woodin, Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas, Joseph B. Eastman, interstate commerce commissioner, who is slated to be given the post of rail coördinator, and Walter M. W. Splawn, an expert who has advised the house interstate commerce committee.

"We have been engaged," he said, "in considering drafts of railroad legislation, and nothing else but drafts. We hope to bring these drafts into concrete and consolidated form by the latter part of the week."

"Have you agreed on specific drafts?" he was asked.

"We have agreed on parts of the various bills," he replied. "We are going to submit them to the President for his final approval."

"What about the program for consolidation of the roads?"

"O, we haven't even come to that yet. We didn't discuss it."

Limited to Coördinator.

From other sources it was stated that for the immediate future President Roosevelt will be able to go no further than to bring about the appointment of the rail coördinator and the repeal of the recapture clause, under which a percentage of rail revenues above 6 per cent is paid into the federal treasury.

The hitch in the program, it was declared, lies in the age long and historic battle fought between railway managements and the railway brotherhoods. The managements have pressed for legislation to permit elimination of many miles of useless roads and to do away with duplicative passenger and freight hauls by competing railroads.

On the other side, the railway unions have exerted pressure to prevent any consolidation program being effected, on the ground that it would throw many more thousands of workers out of work.

U. S. Steel Backlog Off 13,198 Tons

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 10.—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation as of March 31 declined for the fifth successive month.

The drop of 13,198 tons brought the total of business on hand to 1,841,002 tons, the lowest in the history of the company, comparing with the previous low in February of 1,854,200 tons.

The decline was attributable mainly to curtailment of new business incident to the banking holiday. This necessitated a heavy drain on the backlog to keep mills running at a rate of slightly more than 15 per cent of capacity for the industry as a whole.

Guessers Are Wary.

Guessing as to the showing was fairly conspicuous by its absence in the financial community as the date for the report approached, although the consensus seemed to be that the figures would again be disappointing.

The disappointment was slight, however, as the decline was far less than had been expected. In some quarters the report today was interpreted as the probable bottom big steel will report, as conditions have shown considerable improvement throughout the industry in the last two weeks.

SOARING STOCKS SHOW WALL ST. INFLATION HOPE

Steel, Motor, Silver Issues Lead Upturn.

Stocks Higher than '32

For the first time this year THE TRIBUNE'S average of the closing prices of fifty leading stocks on the New York exchange is higher than on the same day a year ago. The average a year ago was $53.43. Yesterday the average rose $2.72 to $55.67.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 10.—Growing indications that some manner of inflation is brewing in Washington had a distinct tonic effect on the stock market today.

Stocks began with a concerted rush toward higher levels, and although late selling sapped some of their vigor, the net results showed gains among leading issues ranging from large fractions to more than 4 points. All groups participated in the advance, which brought out a turnover well above a million and a half shares. Steel, motor and silver issues became the day's leaders, with railroads close behind.

Although the list exhibited its greatest flush of strength in the early hours, the fact that the market tended to dullness on subsequent realizing sales was considered a favorable factor by observers. In the later operations, the list was visibly bolstered by strength in wheat and other commodities, and managed to absorb profit-taking readily to finish near the best.

See Benefit in Inflation.

The advance was proof of Wall street's approval of week-end news tending to bear out reports recently current that the administration is seriously contemplating something in the way of modified inflation to counteract deflationary tactics, which have been in increasing vogue thus far. Just how this will operate remains a matter for conjecture, but many quarters cling to the conviction that industry's best bet for improvement lies in inflation.

On the business front the steel industry came forth with news of cheering import, including the hardening of scrap metal prices and modest expansion in general operations. The stock trading fraternity had an unexpected but pleasant surprise in the monthly unfilled tonnage report of the United States Steel corporation.

U. S. Steel Shares Climb.

United States Steel common and preferred at their best were within about 2 points of their highest 1933 levels, the common closing up 2 points. Bethlehem became active, both the common and preferred reaching new tops for the year. Others rose 1 to 3 points.

In reflection of the speculative community's digestion of favorable week-end news, brokers found a sizeable pile-up of buying orders at the start of the session, and their execution gave the market a strong push upward.

Motor shares were especially active, and notably so in General Motors. Buyers of this stock liked its week-end report, showing an upturn in March sales of good proportions. General Motors closed more than 1 point higher, while Mack Trucks

NAME NEW HEADS OF INDEPENDENT PNEUMATIC TOOL

Neil C. Hurley was elected president and Leonard S. Florsheim was named chairman of the executive committee of the Independent Pneumatic Tool company at a meeting of directors yesterday. The directors met after the annual stockholders' meeting, at which the board was reduced from eleven to seven members. John A. McCormick was reëlected chairman of the board.

Mr. Florsheim's election identifies him with the active management of the company of which he has been a director for many years. The Hurley family has been closely identified with the management of the company since its organization in 1904, but since the death four years ago of John D. Hurley, the founder, the position of president has been held by Ralph S. Cooper. Neil C. Hurley has held the position of chairman of the executive committee. The family also control the Hurley Machine company.

Mr. Cooper, who retired as president, was made vice president in charge of the eastern territory with headquarters in New York. Other officers were reëlected.

New directors are John A. McCormick, Neil C. Hurley, Leonard S. Florsheim, Raymond J. Hurley, Dr. Walter McGuire, Walter Gatzert, and Ralph C. Cooper.

Chicago & North Western Annual Meeting Is Today

The annual meeting of the Chicago and North Western railway will take place at 11 o'clock this morning in the company's offices at 400 West Madison street. Officials stated yesterday that routine matters would be presented. Two new directors are to be elected.

PLAN TO REVAMP ILLINOIS LIFE IS GIVEN TO COURT

A contract for reorganizing the Illinois Life Insurance company and reinsuring its 75,000 policyholders was submitted to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday by Gen. Abel Davis, receiver of the Illinois Life.

If the contract is approved by the court, the $140,000,000 Illinois Life company will be reorganized as the Mutual Protection Life Insurance Company of Chicago, with $1,250,000 of new capital. James S. Kemper of Chicago, representing a group of insurance companies, with $70,000,000 in cash assets, will carry out the reorganization. Upon approval of the stockholders and policyholders, the stock of the new company will be retired and a mutualization effected.

Gen. Davis informed the court that he had just received the draft of the contract and could make no recommendations for the time being, whereupon the matter was continued to 2 p. m. Thursday for suggestions and objections of the various interested counsel.

THE FAIR STORE REPORTS FIRST LOSS IN 57 YEARS

For the first time in the fifty-seven years since the store's establishment in 1875, The Fair failed to show a net profit, says the pamphlet report of the company, issued yesterday. Despite numerous economies the company incurred a net loss of $667,946 for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1933, which compared with net profit of $200,142, or $5.22 a share on the preferred stock, in the preceding fiscal period.

Dividends paid on the preferred stock totaled $191,100 up to Nov. 1, 1932, after which they were discontinued. This disbursement, coupled with surplus adjustments, resulted in reducing total surplus to $1,921,369, compared with $2,842,914 on Jan. 31, 1932.

"We call attention to the fact that the most aggressive sales policy that could be maintained was used to keep up volume," President D. F. Kelly says in listing net sales of $15,922,279, against $21,809,352 for the previous year. "However, competition and the demand for low priced merchandise, in many cases yielding small profits, brought results other than those hoped for. Substantial reductions were made in the salaries of all executives and department managers."

The company shows a strong financial position, with current assets of $5,354,425 and current liabilities of $1,246,970.

WALL ST. RENEWS INFLATION TALK, SO STOCKS SOAR

Steel, Motor, and Silver Issues Lead.

climbed more than 2 points to a new high. Renewed interest in White Truck was indicated by the appearance on the tape of bid and asked quotations.

Other industrial issues vindicated their claim to market leadership with net gains of from fractions to 2 points in such favorites as American Can, Du Pont, General Electric, Radio, and Westinghouse.

While news of the day bearing on silver metal was somewhat vague, the issues of silver producing companies stood out with gains of 2 to 3 points at top levels.

Rails moved along 1 to 3 points, but occasional receding spells displaced them somewhat as market leaders. Substantial gains were marked up, however, in such favorites as Santa Fé, Delaware and Hudson, New York Central, Union Pacific, and others.

Under the leadership of American Telephone, which rose more than 3 points, the utilities made and held good gains over much of the list. Allied Chemical and J. I. Case featured the session with net advances of more than 4 points each, while shares of similar complexion benefited from commodity strength. Fractional gains ruled in the oil, tobacco, food, and copper divisions.

BORAH OFFERS BILLS

Washington, D. C., April 10.—Drastic regulation of short selling on stock exchanges is proposed in a bill introduced by Senator Borah today as a prelude to a broader measure which, he said, will encompass all the field of trading in securities.

Both in the bill introduced and the one proposed, which is not yet written, Senator Borah proposes regulation of securities trading through federal control over the facilities of interstate commerce. Stock exchanges would be put under the jurisdiction of the federal trade commission, however, instead of the interstate commerce commission.

Senator Borah's bill is entitled as one "to protect banking and commerce against short sales of securities by corporations engaged therein." It sets up a list of basic rules, including publicity for short sales, with which stock exchanges would have to comply on penalty of being forbidden the use of the mails in transacting business.

Borah Asks for Hearings.

The bill was referred to the judiciary committee, instead of the banking and currency committee, which is the usual repository for such bills, where Senator Borah said he hoped open hearings would be held.

"I want hearings and I think we ought to have them," he said. Asked what chance he thought this and the proposed bill would have of passing, Senator Borah replied simply that their fate would depend on the attitude of the administration.

In the bill, entitled by its author "The Securities Short Sales Act," Senator Borah defines a "bank" as any bank or trust company " operating under the law of the United States, or a member of the federal system; securities embrace all forms of obligations offered for sale. Besides corporations, all types of dealers in securities are covered.

COTTON TONE STRONG; CLOSES NEAR TOP FOR DAY

Cotton markets had a fairly strong undertone, although the volume of business was not heavy and range of price wide. Stronger markets for stocks and grains with the trade buying fairly, exerted a good influence and closing prices were around the best of the day. Net gains on futures in Chicago were 5 to 8 points with other markets up 3 to 6 points.

An advance of 5 points was made in spot cotton at leading markets with New York 6.60 cents, New Orleans and Galveston, 6.50 cents, and Houston, 6.45 cents. Liverpool was strong and closed 3 to 4 points net higher.

PREDICT WINTER CROP OF WHEAT LOWEST SINCE '04

U. S. Estimate Only 334 Million Bushels.

The United States is faced with a crop calamity as far as winter wheat is concerned this season, as indicated by views expressed by members of the Chicago Board of Trade and local statisticians yesterday.

According to the department of agriculture, the outlook is for a yield of only 334,000,000 bushels, the smallest total since 1904, when it was 325,000,000 bushels. The condition of 59.4 as of April 1, compared with 68.9 in December and 75.8 a year ago, and is the lowest ever reported at any time of year since the department started to make estimates nearly 70 years ago. The 1932 harvest was 462,000,000 bushels, while in 1931 it was 787,000,000 bushels, the largest on record.

Loss Heavier Than Expected.

Local statisticians, in commenting on the report, said it indicated a heavier loss in winter wheat acreage than had been anticipated. The recent private returns suggested nearly 24 per cent of the 40,000,000 acres seeded last fall would be abandoned. Less than 30,000,000 acres will remain for harvest, they claim. Since the government crop data was compiled, there has been little or no rain over a large area, and condition, it is believed, is lower at the present time than it was on April 1.

No estimate was made on the rye crop, but the condition of that grain at 72.5 was 6.5 points below that of a year ago.

Figures on Farm Reserves.

Farm reserves of grain, as given by the government, were in excess of trade expectations, wheat showing 10,000,000 bushels more than the private estimates a month ago, while corn showed a decrease of 82,000,000 bushels, and oats were 17,000,000 bushels larger.

Based on the official estimate on farm reserves of wheat, plus private estimates on mill and elevator reserves and the commercial visible, there is a total of 519,000,000 bushels available for consumption, seed, exports, and for carryover from April 1 to June 30, compared with 532,000,000 bushels for the same period last year. Details follow:

NORTH WESTERN, SOO LINE AGREE TO JOIN TRAINS

Another step in the move toward consolidation of railroad passenger service was announced yesterday by R. Thomson, passenger traffic manager of the Chicago and North Western railway. The North Western and the Soo line will operate between Chicago and Vancouver a train which will also serve the Canadian Rockies region of Lake Louise and Banff.

The Soo line in the past has operated a day train betwen Chicago and St. Paul during the summer months, but introduction of the new service will save this train.

"The train will operate over the North Western between Chicago and St. Paul and over the Soo line between St. Paul and Portal, N. D., where it will be delivered to the Canadian Pacific," Mr. Thomson said. "The first train from Chicago will start on June 1 and the first train from Vancouver will start June 3."

TO THE EDITOR: I bought a mortgage of $5,000 from the ——— ——— bank, now in receivership. I am dealing now directly with the party that borrowed the money. This mortgage is due next August and I agreed with them to an extension of five years.

In order to do this must I have a lawyer? Or can I make a statement on the back of the trust deed saying that it is extended for five years and make out new notes?

I like to avoid any dealing with the bank if possible because the borrower is in a bad financial condition, so I want to avoid any expenses. I even reduced the interest rate. A. H.

ANSWER: A well known lawyer recommended that you go to an attorney or real estate firm and have an extension agreement made out in the regular way so that you and the mortgagor would be entirely safe. Neither the lawyer nor the firm should charge more than $5, he said. The agreement would be perfect if you had it made in this way, he said.

The head of a well known real estate firm told us that the procedure you suggested is frequently followed, but that it would be better to make the renewal through a good lawyer or, if the parties haven't sufficient resources, through the Legal Aid bureau, 203 North Wabash.

If you proceed as you suggest some detail or qualification might be omitted or some mistake made which would cause uncertainty later. In any case the extension agreement should be recorded, otherwise it would seem that the mortgage was past due.

BARRING BUS LINE FROM CONGESTED HIGHWAY UPHELD

Washington, D. C., April 10.—(AP)—The order of the Ohio utilities commission refusing to permit the Wolverine Motor Freight lines to operate in interstate commerce as a common carrier over state route 20 from Cleveland to the Ohio-Michigan line was sustained today by the Supreme court.

Justice Brandeis, in handing down the decision, said that in the opinion of the court the action of the Ohio commission in refusing a permit over U. S. route 20 did not deprive the company of the right to engage in interstate commerce, declaring there were other routes not so congested available.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST

The official forecast for today and tomorrow and yesterday's table of records follow:

Wisconsin—Fair in southwest, partly cloudy to cloudy in east and north, possibly snow flurries in extreme northeast, colder in extreme southeast Tuesday; Wednesday generally fair, with rising temperature in south portion.

EVER SINCE

J. L. Cochran opened his office in the old Chicago Opera House Block, back in 1881, this organization has prided itself on knowing and offering the best values.

The COCHRAN & McCLUER furnished apartments described below are worthy examples of this enviable tradition.

—o—

IF YOU
Love to Read at a Desk

[and who doesn't?] the authentic Gothic flat tops which grace each of these apartments will endear themselves to you speedily. All apts. fully carpeted; antique walls, tile bath, great dressing closets. Gas, light and refrigeration furnished. Daily maid service.

1½-2 ROOMS, $45 UP.

PARK CENTRAL,
443 Wrightwood
[2600 N.] Mohawk 2923. Mr. Davison.

WHAT DOES
Spring Mean to You?

More than a mere new hat, we are sure. Why not live where you can enjoy growing, budding things—glorious trees and flowers and a host of outdoor recreations? Here's the spot. Just a step to famous Lincoln Park. Charming apartments, too. Lots of ventilation. Tile bath, arch doors. Gas, light and refrigeration free. Full service.

1½-2 ROOMS FROM $45.

THE ST. JAMES,
444 St. James-pl.
[2520 N.] Mohawk 1827. Mr. Kell.

MAYBE YOU'RE ONE
Who Likes Large Closets

Look no farther. Here is closet space that will delight you. But that's not all—no indeed. One of the finest apt. buildings in the Lincoln Park district, with an entrance plaza and parkway. Airy and light on all sides. Reception halls. Baths with shower. Gas, light and refrigeration furnished. A quiet, pleasant neighborhood, yet close to everything. In fact there's a school right nearby.

1½-2½-3 ROOMS $40 UP.

COPLEY-PLAZA,
629 Deming-pl.
[2551 N.] Mohawk 1340. Mr. Adams.

A SHORT WALK TO
Lincoln Pk. Golf Course

This means you can get in more games this year, improving your old game and giving you plenty of exercise. Also very handy to schools, shopping, etc. COMPLETE SERVICE.

2 rm. dinette, $42.50 up; 3 rm. bedrm., $60 up.

2-3 RMS. $42.50 UP.

CARLETON PLAZA,
612 Gary-pl.
[3650 N.] Lake View 9870. Mrs. Slayton

RIGHT OUT
in Lake Michigan

the Lincoln Park Board is building marvelous new park lands, recreation fields and beaches that are only a short walk from this attractive apartment building. 2½ rms. have liv. rm., bedrm., kit. and inador. 3 rms. same, but with dinette. Complete service. Also available a 5 rm. apt with 2 tile baths, furn. or unfurn.

2½-3 ROOMS, $55 UP.

420 SURF-ST.
[2900 N.] Buck. 6644. Mr. Jackson.

ONE THING THAT Doesn't "Go Out"

Fads may come and fads may go, but the vogue of period furniture is lasting. Why? Because it's fundamentally right—both comfortable and good to look at. Contrasting with the exquisite early American furnishings here is the ultra-modern built in radio found in each apt. Near lake and beach. Half block to L. Solarium for use of guests. Full hotel service.

BEDROOM APTS AS LOW AS $60.

1½-2-2½ ROOMS, $40 UP.

THE LAKE LANE,
6214 Winthrop-av.
Shel 1600. Mr. Foy.

SOLUTION TO THE TWO SUSPECTS

The professor knew Duke had written the note. Though simple words were misspelled it was punctuated correctly. This would have been entirely beyond the ability of the illiterate Baldy.

Thus do habits betray the cleverest criminals!

HABIT IS A CABLE. WE WEAVE A THREAD OF IT EVERY DAY AND AT LAST WE CANNOT BREAW IT.

—Horace Mann.

HUDSON

Executives' Cars Marked Down
to Special Prices

If you act quickly you can secure, after trial of a tremendous saving, a superb Hudson, Essex or Terraplane Executives' car that will give you the satisfaction of new car ownership and years of splendid service for less money than you would pay for some other car built to last just a year or two. These cars have been driven a very short distance and carry standard factory warranty and service.

ACCURATE DESCRIPTIONS OF SOME OF THESE CARS:

Hudson 1932 COACH, 5 PASSENGER. This beautiful car is finished in medium gray-blue, upholstered in blue-gray mohair, and powered with Hudson's 101 horsepower engine. It's capable of 55 miles an hour in silent second gear, 85 to 90 miles an hour in high, with tremendous silent power at all speeds. This model gives more miles to the gallon than any other engine of equal displacement or power. Has patented fluoid oiling system, giving longer life — power dome, highest compression head, and convenience features. Include selective free wheeling, silent synchro-mesh shift, silent constant-mesh second gear, triple-sealed oil cushion clutch that "takes hold" as silently as a ship's propeller. We invite you to see, inspect and drive this car. It has never been in the hands of an owner, used exclusively by one of our sales executives, and very carefully kept. It's available now at a substantial savings.

ESSEX TERRAPLANE 1932 4 DOOR SEDAN. A car that will out start, out run, out climb, out curve, and out stay other cars nearly twice its rated horse power, ten times its price. Although this model was introduced in August, 1932, we have called theirs '33s, this is one of the very latest cars and was used only by one of our executives and driven so little it can hardly be called used! Has new car like automatic clutch, 5 wire wheels. Finished in the very newest Opal-Essence Bronze, the latest development in motor car finishes. Come in and drive it. It's a car any one would be proud to own. There's a big saving.

HUDSON EIGHT 4-DOOR DE LUXE SEDAN, 1932. This car was set aside for the personal use of one of our directors; equipped with 6 demountable wood wheels, 2 wire hubs, chrome covers and other conveniences; finished in a beautiful blue-blue with fenders and upholstery to match. It has never been in the hands of an owner, will be sold with full warranty at an attractive figure. Come in and drive it over. A trade can be arranged, but come in today.
